Soybean Depth Control, Plant Population Successful Ingredients For Winner

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Jon E. Stutzman provides his own "recipe" for success in growing soybeans:

Be picky about depth control and plant population. Plant early, especially if using wider rows. Cultivate at 10-12 inches of growth. Hope and pray for the right amount of rain at the right time.

Stutzman, with father Kenneth, cares for about 200 acres of cropland near Kutztown. Jon was honored in February this year with the grand champion honor in the Pennsylvania Soybean Yield Contest sponsored by the Pennsylvania Soybean Promotion Board.

Stutzman farms with his family, including wife Holly and daughter Heather, 5 and son Phillip, 3, on a 200-acre crop farm near Kutztown. Along with his father Kenneth, Jon grows 100 acres of corn, about 50 acres of soybeans, 25 acres of alfalfa, 15 acres of wheat, and 30 acres of grass. All crops are grown for the open market.

In the contest, Stutzman took home the first place honors for growing 67.79 bushels per acre of the Gutwein 7410 variety.

New Local Dairy Cooperative Ready To Divert Milk May 1

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — A small dairy cooperative that just last week finished the legal work that brought it into existence under the laws of Pennsylvania is already planning to divert the milk on 45 dairy farms to a new handler on May 1.

Lanco Dairy Farmers Cooperative (Lanco) is an outgrowth of the American Raw Milk Producers Pricing Association (ARMPPA) that is trying to obtain control of 20 percent of the national production in an attempt to force an increase of the milk price at the farm gate. ARMPPA officials will not release enrollment figures, but they claim the numbers are increasing in most dairy areas of the nation. It is known that membership is strong

Dairy Council Exceeds Goals Marketing Milk Nutrition

FEASTERVILLE (Bucks Co.) — "This past year has been a lot like white water rafting," Jan Stanton said of Dairy Council's transitions, accomplishments, and challenges in spreading the milk nutrition message.

At Dairy Council's annual meeting held Tuesday, Stanton, executive director, told how the success of the Chef Combo program used in schools to teach proper nutrition has reached more than 50 percent of the teachers in the area and of the fantastic success of the play, "The Marvelous Machine," which has reached 85,000 elementary students.

The more difficult part of the year was the uncertainy caused by the upcoming consolidation of the

At Dairy Council's annual meeting, Brenda Ripoll of Dairy Council, left, presents Friend of Nutrition Education Awards to Cindy Dawso Van Druff, center, school food service director, and to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming staff writer. The awards are presented annually to a food service professional and to a media person who effectively and accurately promotes the dairy nutrition message.

The merger of PennAg Industries Association and the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation was made official at a signing ceremony at the Farm and Home Center on Thursday morning. Richard Weaver, chairman of the PennAg board, said the new organization will be more efficient and economical to better serve the members of both organizations. Since many members belong to both organizations, the merger does not double the membership but gives a more united voice for the agribusiness community.

James Adams, chairman of the Poultry Federation board, said the structure will give each commodity group a voice in the association while maintaining individual identity and focus. The structure also allows for additional councils in the future.

Founded in 1878, PennAg represents the state's feed and feed-manufacturing industries. Last year, the Pennsylvania Agronomics Products Association that represents the state's fertilizer and agricultural chemical industry, merged with PennAg. These mergers are part of a long-range effort to unite all of the state's agribusinesses.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was seasonally light and about as expected prior to the upcoming holiday period. Seller offerings were fully adequate to ample and were generally more readily available on the heavier sizes. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 54 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. Breast items were readily available and were generally slow in clearing. Leg quarters were held with increased confidence. Wings were at least adequate.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was irregular with most traders cautious and usually limiting their receipts to their immediate needs. Offerings, for the most part, easily handled the limited buyer interest. Retail and distributive movement was mostly reported as typical for the holiday season with consumers centering their attention on specific food items. The market tone was mixed and cautiously steady.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA
APRIL 08, 1998

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices continued unchanged to lower in the Midwest, Northeast, and South, and were unchanged on the West Coast. The market tone remained barely steady to weak. Retail demand was good to very good, best where featured, and loose egg movement was light to moderate. Supplies of cartoned eggs were usually adequate to fully adequate, occasionally sought, while ungraded supplies were fully adequate to ample. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate for the light to fair demand, and the undertone remained no better than cautiously steady. Offerings of light type hens were at least adequate.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, APRIL 03, 1998. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were generally unchanged to lower. The market tone was generally barely steady to weak. Demand was light to fair. Floor stocks were adequate with traders cautious and usually only purchasing on an as needed basis. Liquid and frozen eggs processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending March 28, 1998 were 5 % more than last week, and 20% more than the same week last year. Shell egg offerings were at least sufficient for needs.

Tull Hill Farms doesn't own that building, but a sharp management decision made it one of their best assets.

Jimmy and Michael Hill, Tull Hill Farms, Kinston, North Carolina

The Hill family was ready to pay cash for a new 80,000 square foot storage facility for Tull Hill Farms. They changed their mind when Telmark explained how much they could save by leasing the facility instead. Their sharp management decision saved profits by adding to the bottom line with a Telmark operating lease. They also have a buyout option at the end of the lease term.

The Hill family found the tax breaks, end-of-term buyout option, and flexible payment plan so attractive, they leased the complete facility. Most lenders aren't ready to offer this kind of alternative financing.

Telmark understands building and equipment financing needs for all types of commercial and agricultural operations. For a financing source that's been listening to farmers for over 30 years, call your Telmark representative or 800-451-3322.

USDA-MO Dept. Ag Market News
DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were mostly lower but slight gains were made in corn and soybean bids, today. Wheat steady to 1 cent lower except St. Louis 2 cents higher. Corn 1 cent higher. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 3 cents higher. Wheat bids were slightly lower as traders await tomorrow's USDA Supply/ Demand report. Export sales continued slow for wheat this week. Corn and soybean bids turned higher as some corrections were made on the board but continued lack of export sales this week, limited gains. Forecasts for rainfall in Midwest areas over the next couple of days offered some support. USDA will release their Supply/Demand report tomorrow.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

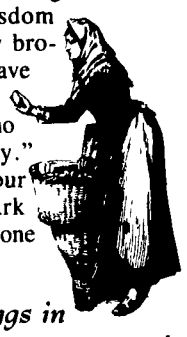
EGGS EVERYWHERE

The egg shows the hen the place to hatch," says an old African proverb, or in other words, don't disregard the advice of the young. "Better an egg in peace than an ox in war," reads another proverb, and "Better an egg today than a hen tomorrow," although there are those who disagree. Other folk wisdom advises, "Eggs and oaths are easily broken," and the Latin, "He that would have eggs must endure the cackling of the hens." The Germans suggest, "He who treads on eggs must tread lightly." Everyone knows, "Don't put all your eggs in one basket," to which Mark Twain replied, "Put all your eggs in one basket — and watch the basket."



I've met a lot of hard-boiled eggs in my time, but you — you're twenty minutes!

– From the movie Ace in the Hole 1951

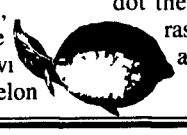
TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ If you spill an egg where it's difficult to wipe up, cover with salt, let it set, then wipe up with damp paper towels.

SPRING MELON

1 ripe cantaloupe or honeydew melon
4 ripe kiwis
1 lime
sprigs of fresh mint
fresh raspberries (optional)

Slice melon into quarters, seed, and place quarters on dessert plates. Peel kiwis, and place one egg-like green kiwi on top of each melon section. If desired, you can carefully slice the kiwi into 4 to 6 crosswise slices so that the pieces fan out across the top of the melon. Cut the lime into four sections and squeeze the juice from each onto the melon and kiwi. Garnish with mint, dot the plates with fresh raspberries (optional), and serve cold.



Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

March winds and April showers bring forth May flowers.

If the rain waits till noon to visit, prepare for a long visit.

If the sky beyond the clouds is blue, be glad; there is a picnic for you.

ATTENTION!
609 Tobacco Growers
If you want to sell or process your 609 tobacco, check with us NOW, we will be receiving Tues., April 14 and Wed., April 15 from 8-5 DST.
We would advise you to move your 609 tobacco, one way or another, before it rots in the shed. We feel most of this crop will not keep this summer due to unusually mild weather conditions and high moisture in ribs when stripped. The market seemed like a disaster this season but it will be a big disaster for you if you let your crop rot in the shed. Do not worry about your neighbor in this case, just make your own decision and do not let anybody mislead you. We are trying to provide the best service we have to offer under this difficult market year.

Liquid Opportunities With AerWay
AerWay makes manure nutrient incorporation faster, easier, and more effective
AerWay · Patented AerWay shattertines make it possible

I chose the AerWay because it puts me in control of my liquid manure management system. This is particularly important as my farm is located next to a large Water Resource Shed. Prior to using the AerWay I had problems with soil compaction, manure run-off, ponding and loss of valuable nutrients. We spread between 3000 - 3500 U.S. Gal per acre The AerWay helped with the above problems, as well as reducing my tillage, fuel and labour expenses
With less time spent in the field I am able to spend more time with my Hog Operation The AerWay blends perfectly with my Conservation and Environmental Farm Plan

OPINION

The Future of Agriculture

It was reported by the Associated Press last week that an experiment with genetically engineered animal heart cells indicates that science one day may learn how to replace damaged cardiac muscle with new tissue after a heart attack.

The study in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences demonstrates for the first time that mammal heart cells can be genetically engineered to grow and reproduce endlessly in a test tube. Dr. William C. Claycomb of Louisiana State University Medical Center says that his lab also was able to show that genetically altered mouse heart cells could survive and beat like normal heart muscle cells when placed into the damaged heart of a pig.

To predict what role agriculture will play in the genetic engineering sciences of the future is beyond our ability. Who would have thought 10 years ago that dairy farmers would be willing to pay over $7,000 for a pick of transplanted embryos six month in advance of birth at the state Holstein sale. Yet, ET cattle and the process of collecting embryos from the best cows is now quite common and even financially within the reach of most dairy farmers.

Then we have genetically engineered corn and other grains. And we have cloned sheep and dairy cattle. Even now you can imagine that someday, maybe soon, you will call your genetic engineer and order replacement parts for your best bovine specimen the same as you would order a part for a disabled tractor or piece of farm machinery.

We can wish the agriculture of the future to be the same as we know it today. But wishing will not make it so. More likely, within the lifetime of our grandchildren, they will look back on our generation and remember antiquated things as we do when our grandpa replaced one of his teams of mules with a Farmall A tractor.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Harvest Ryelage

With this spring's unusual warm weather, rye is maturing very fast, according to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent. If you are planning to harvest rye as ryelage, it should be harvested very soon.

Once rye starts shooting heads, dry matter yields increase considerably, but feed quality drops rapidly. So, check your rye fields now to determine if they are ready to harvest as ryelage.

To Be Aware Of Rabies

There seems to be an increase in the number of rabies cases this year, especially in northern York County. Raccoons are by far the most common carrier. Other carriers include fox, skunks, bats, groundhogs and possums.

Pennsylvania law requires all pets, including dogs and cats, to be vaccinated for rabies. An infected animal may act dazed or disoriented or may appear ill. A wild animal that approaches people, especially in daytime, is a suspect for rabies. Parents need to remind children they should not go near animals they do not know, especially wild animals - no matter how cute they look.

If you see a strangely acting animal, stay clear and do not try to capture it. Call 911 or your local police department. If a human is attacked by a wild animal, call your local health department.

Remember, rabies is a deadly disease that needs prompt attention.

To Evaluate Winter Wheat Stands

While most wheat fields look good at this time, some fields should be evaluated to determine if their potential production is worth keeping, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. If stands are thin, total production will be reduced.

To check the potential production of a wheat stand, determine the length of row needed to equal one square foot. To do this, divide 144 by the row width in inches. For 7 inch rows it is 20.6 inches and for 8 inch rows it is 18 inches.

After determining the length of row needed to equal one square foot, count the number of plants in that distance at several locations in the field. Then determine the average number of plants (not tillers) you had. If you have an average of over 24 plants per square foot, the yield is near 100 per cent. If the number of plants per square foot is 18 to 21, the yield potential is 90 to 95 per cent. Once the number drops to 12, the yield potential is around 65 per cent. If the number is 7 or less, then the yield potential is 50 per cent or less.

Fields with a low yield potential will result in more income if planted to another crop. An early harvest of wheat as silage, hay or pasture forage crop should be done early enough to allow planting of the next crop in a timely manner.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "People may doubt what you say, but they will believe what you do."

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor,

My husband and I own and operate a 45-cow dairy farm in Susquehanna County. We also are raising approximately 40 replacement heifers.

The average age of our major equipment is over 25 years old. Our equipment is in constant need of repair because it is worn out. There is no money for investing in new equipment let alone enough money to update

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Is 'Seeing' 'Believing'?
April 12, 1998

Background Scripture:
John 20:19-29

Devotional Reading:
Mark 9:14-24

I've always thought that the Apostle Thomas has gotten a 'bum rap' from many people who have judged him from the comfort and safety of 20/20 hindsight. Without justification, I believe, he has been saddled with that unfortunate so-briquet, 'Doubting Thomas' and held as a negative example of how not to respond to the Good News.

Yes, I know that even before this post-resurrection encounter with the Christ Thomas had already gained a reputation for being a doubter. But did he deserve this reputation?

In John 11:16, when Jesus resolves to go to Jerusalem even though this decision fraught with danger, Thomas' response is one of both pessimism and intense loyalty and courage. In John 14:5, when Jesus assumes that the disciples know the 'way to the Father's house,' Thomas alone is humble and honest enough to confess that he doesn't know what Jesus is talking about. Are we to assume he was the only one who didn't 'know'?

We need also to consider Jesus' reactions to Thomas on these two occasions. It is not recorded that he was angry, impatient or disappointed with Thomas. In fact, his expressed doubts gave Jesus the opportunity to clarify what he was trying to say. When, at last, Thomas does understand, he is one of the most loyal disciples. So, up to John 20, I don't think he has deserved to be called "Doubting Thomas."

THE OTHER ELEVEN

Let us take a look at the other eleven apostles on the night when Jesus first appeared to them. Were they a group of fervent believers waiting for Jesus to appear? No, John tells us they were meeting behind locked doors "for fear of the Jews." What fears put us behind closed doors?

They were in hiding when "Jesus came and stood among them and said, "Peace be with you." Having heard those words, did they jump up and greet him joyfully? John doesn't say that. Instead he tells us that Jesus then showed them "his hands and his side." Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord" (20:20). Then and only then.

Notice, too, the message which Jesus brings them; "Peace be with you." Twice he says this to them because he knows that they have been without peace in their hearts (20:19,21). Shattered by sorrow and despair, they are deeply in need if the peace which the risen Lord bestows upon them. Is that not what we often need to hear hin say to us, too: "Peace be with you"? Most of the negativity that haunts my life comes from fear. And fear often manifest itself as hostility, faithlessness, and despair. With Christ's peace in my heart the fear doesn't stand a chance.

When Thomas enters the room where the rest are in hiding, they tell him, "We have seen the Lord!" It is then that Thomas speaks those words that have marked him through the centuries: "Unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and place my finger in the mark of the nails, and place my hand in his side, I will not believe" (20:25)

Once again Thomas is open enough to admit his doubts; and is his attitude really all that unreasonable? What the other apostles were asking him to believe was the very thing that up until his appearance before them they had not believed either! The consequences of this belief are of the most profound nature. Jesus was crucified and buried, but he has risen from that grave and was here with us!

"UNLESS I SEE..."

Their experience can open the door and point the way for us, but each of us must be able to say with Thomas "Unless I see..I will not believe." The resurrection of Jesus can mean nothing to any of us unless we too can say that in some way we also have 'seen' the Lord. The resurrection is too vital, of too great consequence, for us to accept it as a second-hand belief.

Note, then, what happened with Thomas. Jesus appears to the apostles again, but this time Thomas is with them. Instead of rebuking Thomas for his reaction to the report of his fellow apostles, Jesus invites him to actually touch his wounds. Unlike his fellow apostles on their first encounter with the risen Christ, he exclaims, "My Lord and my God!"

Still not rebuking Thomas, Jesus says: "Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe" (20:29). Blessed are those who will be able to encounter the risen Lord without having to experience his physical wounds and presence. We do not have to 'see' Jesus physically, but we do have to encounter him spiritually and, when we have, we join Thomas in proclaiming, "My Lord and my God!"

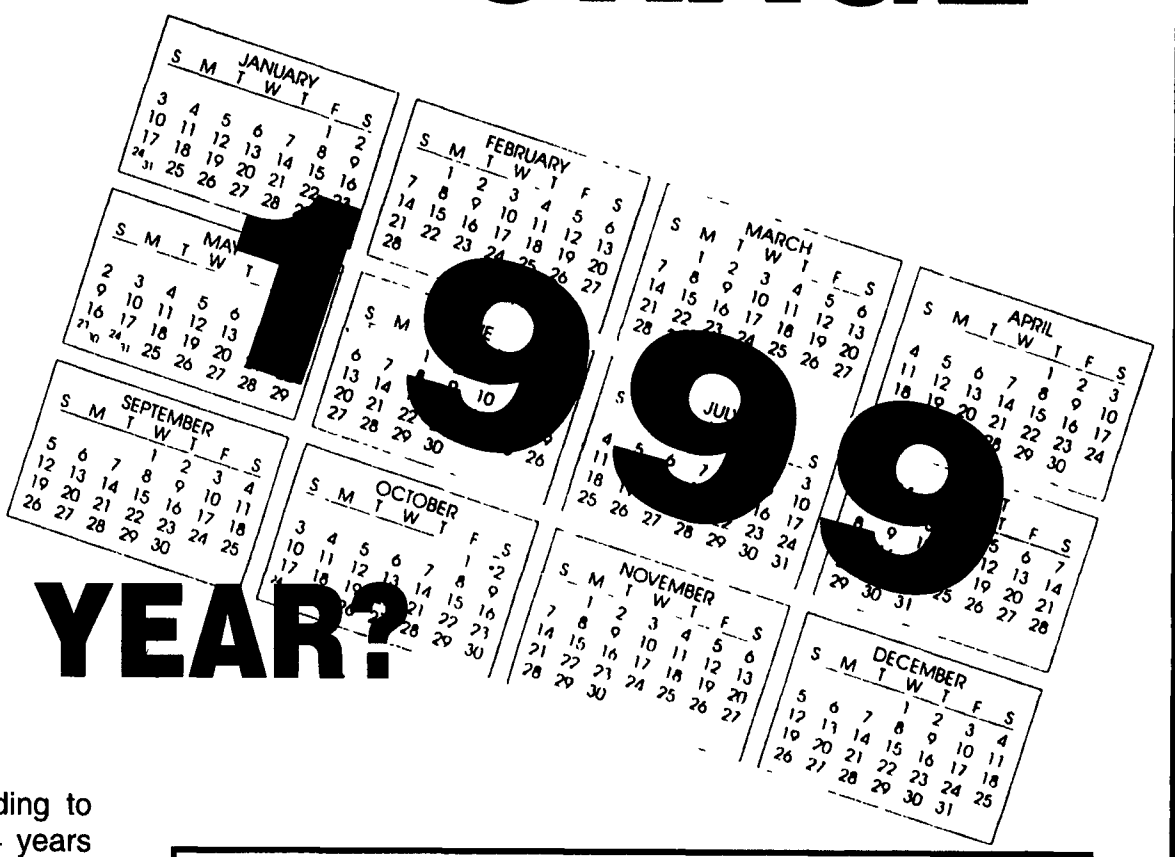
FULL TIME™ FORAGE

CAN YOU AFFORD TO WAIT ANOTHER YEAR?



All corn silage is not created equal according to Ron, Donna, Mark and Ronnie Hough. Until 4 years ago, Valleys End Farm, Rebersburg planted Ciba-Geigy corn hybrids. At that time Dave Martin, Young's Nutritional Consultant entered the picture. At first they were skeptical about his insistence about the importance of NDF digestibility and its relationship to dry matter intake. No questions anymore.

Thanks to feeding high-quality corn silage hybrids like 6511FQ and 7301FQ, their cows are making 102 lbs of milk and 246 days in milk, with a DHIA tank test butterfat of 3.8. Their 57.35 forage to 42.65 grain ration below is giving them income over feed costs of $10.07.

Ingredient	Pounds DM	Cost
Grass Hay	2.70	.12
Haylage	13.32	.70
Corn Silage	15.46	.46
Urea	.14	.03
High Producer Top Dress	4.80	.79
Base Protein	5.16	.90
High Moisture Shell Corn	11.42	.83
MAGNI-FAcT	.50	.22
Minerals, Buffers, etc.	1.38	.41
	54.88	4.46

Income 102 lbs milk x $14.25 =	$14.53
Feed Costs	4.46
Income over feed costs	$10.07

The Houghs value cow comfort in their tie stall barn and are an excellent management team on their dairy farm. But without a doubt, Forage Quality Hybrids from Cargill Hybrid Seeds have made their income over feed costs escalate. So how do you improve on 102 lbs of milk at $10.07 income over feed costs? They are planting 20 units of FULLTIME™ Forage this spring. Can milk production and income over feed costs get any better? ABSOLUTELY!

Because it's derived from fungicides found in certain wild mushrooms, new QUADRIS® fungicide has its roots firmly planted in nature. As a result, it carries less risk to workers and the environment than other currently registered fungicides.

Yet QUADRIS is merciless to a broad spectrum of tomato diseases. Its novel mode of action combines preventative and systemic powers to control early blight, late blight, anthracnose, Septoria leaf spot and other problems. All told, QUADRIS is the strongest and most unique disease prevention ever available.

Thanks for the idea, Mom.

Philadelphia and Washington D.C. offices and the news that the Philadelphia office will need to relocate since the building has been sold.

The consolidation will enable the Council to become more effective and cost-efficent without sacrificing the high quality nutritional materials produced for school students, health and education professionals, school food services, and individuals. The site of the new office has not been determined.

"We will still work with the same people, but the consolidation allows us to expand services," Stanton said.

One of Dairy Council's most complex projects was the "familyfoodzone," nutritional website to promote good eating habits. The Philadelphia office joined with 11 other Dairy Council offices in other states to share the expenses and provide a low-cost, high quality website. Since its release on Jan. 1, the website has already received six national awards.

Some of the other nutrition education work that Dairy Council continues to promote is done with the PAWS Farm, Garden State Discovery Museum, Philadelphia Zoo, health professionals, educators, and the school breakfast program.

Tom Gallagher, chief executive officer for Dairy Management, spoke on how national issues affect the regional and local organizations.

The mergers of Dairy Management Inc. (DMI), MilkPep, and the U.S. Dairy Export Council bring national and local efforts to work hand-in-hand in a more unified fashion to deliver the milk message to consumers.

Gallagher praised the efforts of the U.S. Dairy Export Council for its successful work. "Four years ago, it received $700,000 from the government. Now government funding has increased to $2.5 million because the government says the council has really got its act together and wants to support it."

DMI's mission is to increase demand for dairy products, to have an industry-wide plan, a market-driven business plan, invest resources in strategic manner, and offer the best possible economical advantage to dairy farmers.

The role of the checkoff is to increase demand, not merely promote, Gallagher said. He believes the effectiveness of the checkoff is evident by noting that in 1983, there was a large surplus of milk and cheese. By 1996, there was no longer a surplus despite production being up 10.5 percent and the population only rising 13.5 percent.

DMI and MilkPEP have agreed to work together instead of having separate programs. This will enable $190 million to be used for local and national advertising. Gallagher predicts that advertising monies will be supplemented by companies such as Dean Foods pushing brand-name products such as its highly successful milk drink called Chug.

Market studies have determined that 6-11 years old should be the most targeted group for milk promotion. They drink more milk at this age but milk consumption drops dramatically during the teen years when their bodies actually need more milk. Education during these formulative years should help them realize the importance of maintaining milk consumption when they are teens.

Studies also show that where the mother in the household believes in the importance of milk in the daily diet, an average of 35 gallons of milk are consumed in the households annually but drops as low as seven in households where mothers are not supportive of kids drinking milk.

Gallagher praised Dairy Council for its highly successful nutrition education program. Distributing 20,000 classroom kits far exceeds its formerly set goal.

"Dairy Council here always exceeded goals for state and regional impact compared to other states," Gallagher said. He praised the local Council for spearheading recommendations that the daily calcium consumption for 9-18-year-olds be increased because the previous recommendations did not provide for optimal bone growth and health. The recommended serving of milk for 9-18 years of age is 4 compared to the previous 3 servings.

The nutrition advantage in milk compared to soft drinks must be our focus, Gallagher said of the soft drink industry, which is considered to be milk's most fierce competitor.

Joan Horbiak, president of the Health and Nutrition Network, spoke on marketing your message. Communication skills are more important than technical skills and intelligence when it comes to achieving success, she said.

Horbiak challenged the audience not to be afraid of the media. "You can reach 500,000 people in five minutes when you go on television, and it's free," Horbiak said of many stations that allow short food segments, especially those related to seasonal holidays.

She praised Althea Zanecosky of Dairy Council who appears regularly on television. Several spots from the segments were shown to the audience. Of Zanescosky's work, Horbiak said, "I never saw a more sophisticated program with the media."

When talking with the media, Horbiak said, "Stand up. Studies show that you are more persuasive when standing than sitting."

She also said, "Remember, visuals are the most powerful way to communicate. You must have a prop but hold it to the side, not directly in front of you."

"When you communicate too many things, you communicate nothing," Horbiak said. "Keep it simple. You lose your marketing campaign if it is not simple and a consistent message. The message must be clear and repetitive."

A Yale University study revealed that the 12 most persuasive words in the English language include the following: you, money, save, new, easy, results, guarantee, safety, love, discovery, proven, and health.

Horbiak challenged the audience to use those words often. Some words are more effective than others. For example, use the word "fix" instead of "repair." Repair has the connotion of an existing problem, but fix promotes the idea that the problem is solved. The word "contract" is often scary to people. It is better to say "a letter of agreement," when doing business.

Horbiak used a variety of interaction techniques with the audience to show the importance of creating positive first impressions so necessary in getting the correct message across.

She taught the audience the proper way to offer a handshake. "Be the first to stretch out your hand and hold onto their handshake a bit longer than is comfortable. This portrays the message that you are comfortable and secure in who you are."

Despite effectively communicating, Horbiak acknowleged that statistics show that people forget 90 percent of what you say one week after a presentation. That's why it's so important to be repetitive in your message.

Dairy Council presented two Friend of Nutrition Education awards. Cindy Dawso Van Druff, school food service professional, was recognized for a project in collaboration with the Dairy Council to establish healthy eating habits in Montgomery County second-grade students. Lou Ann Good of Lancaster Farming received the award for her articles focusing on nutrition education that reach children and adults.

Pennsylvania State Grange Asks For Continuation Of Premium

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – A member of the Pennsylvania State Grange's Dairy Committee asked members of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board Wednesday to continue the over-order premium of 80 cents per hundredweight due to the ongoing dairy crisis across the Commonwealth.

Robert Pardoe Sr., who farms 360 acres and has a dairy herd of 150 animals in Northumberland County, told the PMMB that higher feed costs coupled with lower milk prices is driving farmers in his area out of business.

"To emphasize the serious financial situation of dairy farmers in Pennsylvania," Pardoe told the board at a hearing in the PA Department of Agriculture, "There are three dairy herds that have recently been dispersed. Additionally, there is another one scheduled for same and a fifth herd where one partner left for other employment. These are not retirees, but young established farmers. It is clear that all the factors the board considered in establishing an over-order premium of 80 cents are still extremely accurate."

As an advocate for rural Pennsylvania, the Grange is a leading force in agricultural and rural issues The Grange, with over 30,000 members in every county, is a rural, agricultural and community service organization dedicated to improving the lives of rural Pennsylvanians through legislative action, offering member services and participating in community affairs.

The Grange has actively participated in raising the price paid to dairy farmers during this continuing financial crisis. In September 1996 the Grange successfully helped raise the over-order premium from 50 to 80 cents, and in Sept. 1997 worked to raise it from 80 to $1.20. The first increase of 30 cents and the second of 40 cents are set to expire on April 30. The 40-cent increase was granted temporarily after an emergency hearing held at the request of the Grange due to the Drought of 1997.

Pardoe said that dairy farmers face numerous uncertainties and that the premium adds some stability to their industry.

"The expansion of the federal orders and what it will mean to our pricing system is still dubious," Pardoe said. "The new proposed United States Department of Agriculture pricing and the proposed floor under the basic formula price is still under consideration. Also, there is some increasew in production in Pennsylvania making premiums more difficult to negotiate."

The over-order premium on Wednesday was the first of two hearings the Grange was testifying at concerning dairy issues this week. A second hearing, set for Williamsport on Friday is being held to gather testimony on the creation of a dairy compact for pricing Class I fluid milk in this state.

Equine Clinic At Mountain Springs

SHARTLESVILLE (Berks Co.) – More than 50 area horse owners attended the Equine Educational Clinic on March 14 here at the Mountain Springs Rodeo Arena Sale Barn.

Sponsored by Mountain View Supply, Inc., Shartlesville, the seminar featured Julie D. Buzby, D.V.M., of Mountain Shadow Veterinary Clinic, Schuylkill Have, and Dr. Harold Wade, representing Fort Dodge Pharmacueticals, Johnson City, Tenn.

Horse enthusiasts enjoyed a free lunch, many free product samples, and a chance to question new equine products appearing on the market and emergency care of the horse.

The newest dewormer on the market, Quest, was the main topic of discussion. Quest is gaining popularity because of the ability to control parasite populations with only a four-time-a-year use, according to Dr. Harold Wade.

Dr. Julie Buzby provided handouts to all participants as reference for first-aid kit suggestions for horses as well as slides depicting emergency situations and first-aid tips. Discussions centered on severe bleeding, colic, and lacerations.

Company representatives were on hand to answer questions. A wide variety of feed samples were available.

So Far, Cherry Season Looks As Sweet As Ever

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW DANVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Despite dire predictions of complete fruit loss and possible fruit tree damage, orchardists have looked on their trees with mild — maybe even mildly excited — surprise.

A blast of cold arctic area invaded the area in mid-March, sending flower lovers scurrying to protect buds and bulbs and causing a lot of worries for apricot, peach, and cherry growers.

But with growing fruit and vegetable crops, nothing is simple to predict.

For one grower, Richard Haas of Cherry Hill Orchards in New Danville, the cherry growing season looks as sweet as ever.

"The bloom looks real good," he said during a tour of his farm Wednesday morning.

Last summer, farm workers on the 200-acre orchard spent time extensively pruning trees. A combination of factors, including the trees' natural winter hardiness and acclimation to the growing conditions at the New Danville location, may have figured in their survival during the mid-March cold spell, according to Lancaster County horticulture agent Tim Elkner.

Overall, according to Elkner, fruit from apricot trees in many orchards look almost completely lost because of the fruit's cold susceptibility. But cherry and peach growers are reporting mild, if any, damage to the crops.

The same with Haas. Haas has been growing cherry trees at the orchard for 35 years. There are about 60 acres in cherries, making him one of the largest sweet cherry growers in the region.

He maintains about 25 different varieties of cherries with a focus on about 5-6 varieties. Haas also grows about five acres of sour cherries.

The farm is about 95 percent pick your own, Haas noted.

While weather has crops about 2½ weeks ahead of schedule, the season should open about June 20 or maybe earlier, said Haas. The cherry picking season lasts until about July 15-20. Cherries go for about $1 a pound.

For one grower, Richard Haas of Cherry Hill Orchards in New Danville, the cherry growing season looks as sweet as ever. "The bloom looks real good," he said during a tour of his farm Wednesday morning.

During the tour, many trees were blooming rapidly with little or no damage to any of the buds. Inspections early Wednesday morning turned up no damage from the March cold.

Several rows were located up on ridges, many planted on the Conestoga silt loam soils.

Recently, bee colonies were shipped in to help with tree pollination. About 240 colonies, numbering about 20,000-30,000 bees each, were placed on the orchard.

Years ago, Haas completed work on identifying and planting sweet cherry varieties that work for his soil and climate conditions. Some of the heavy clay subsoil has proven a challenge — in many cases, good topsoil is used to provide "berms" or ridges for trees to grow on. The rows are in sod cover.

Haas indicated there are five conditions he observes when selecting sweet cherry varieties. They are:

1. Do they live? Can they be productive under the soil and climatic conditions of the orchard?
2. Do the varieties taste good? Are they what consumers want?
3. Are the sweet cherries free from cracking?
4. Is the fruit size large enough?
5. Do they provide fruit early enough?

A combination of factors, including the trees' natural winter hardiness and acclimation to the growing conditions at the New Danville location, may have figured in their survival during the mid-March cold spell, according to Lancaster County horticulture agent Tim Elkner.

If the trees meet those conditions, "they're part of our Big 5 varieties," said Haas.

One variety, "Bing," is not grown at the orchard because of soil and climate conditions.

There are other essential management considerations. Haas noted that, when pruning, it is important to maintain uniformity and get rid of weak or deadened branches. Last summer, the "weak wood" branches were removed from the interiors of trees to provide more sunlight for the cherries and air flow.

Haas has fumigated for nematode control. No irrigation is used on the sweet cherry trees.

About 5-6 varieties are persistent, cold hearty, and consistently produce a crop. These persistent varieties are shallow-rooted and do well on the challenging soil conditions of the farm.

In one row, no cold damage as evident. Haas said, "All are alive here. They look real good."

Along with extension agent Tim Elkner, Haas opened up several of the buds to examine the bud's ovary. All looked healthy and vibrant, ready for pollination.

Also, Haas inspected some of the colonies of bees. One box contained about 100,000 bees, comprised of about six colonies. More sunlight in the next several days will help the bees to leave the boxes to do their work.

Haas noted that new trees, comprised of German root stock, cost him a lot in simple royalties for the "use" of the stock at $3 a tree. Overall, sweet cherry trees cost him about $8-$10 per tree, compared to about $4-$6 for apple trees.

Cherry Hill Orchards is also home to about 25 acres of nectarines, 20 acres of peaches, 50 acres of apples, 1½ acres of apricots, and 1½ acres of plums.

Overall, however, cherry trees are the most challenging to grow, "no question about it," Haas said.

"It's an art form," said Haas. "After 35 years, you hope to develop (these) skills — to find out what works and what doesn't, what survives and what doesn't."

Last Chance To Qualify For Dairy Of Distinction Program

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — If your farm looks good and you want to join the program that helps sell milk from your farm lane, you must do it now. The Dairy of Distinction Program has already named more than 600 Pennsylvania dairy farms that help give a good impression of the dairy industry by keeping their farmsteads clean and in good repair.

But for this year, the deadline for entering your farm is next Wednesday, April 15. You can use the entry form found on page D9 in this issue of Lancaster Farming.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program that oversees the Distinction program was first started in 1983 in Pennsylvania to recognize the hard work and dedication of farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by the farm.

The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are all areas taken into consideration when a team of judges takes a look at your farm from a roadside point of view. Judging is conducted during the month of May. Award winners are announced during your local June Dairy Month activities.

As in past years Lancaster Farming plans to present a color portrait of each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program to the farm family owners. These photos are taken by your local district committee and we work together to present these portraits at Ag Progress Days in August. In addition, a nice sign to hang at your farm comes from the program.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk.

All applications must be completed and returned to your state secretary by Wednesday, April 15, 1998.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by dairy farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in cooperation with many local agribusiness organizations. The program is conducted with advice and help from Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Applications are available for Pennsylvania dairy farms from Michael O'Conner, 324 Henning Building, Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802. Phone: (814) 863-3913.

For New York State applications are available from Carol Keene, RD 1, Box 31, Gilbertsville, NY 13776. Phone: (607) 783-2169.

For New Jersey applications, send to: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867. Phone: (908) 735-4989.

Conservation District Announces Poster Contest

YORK (York Co.) — The York County Conservation District is hosting its annual poster contest in conjunction with National Wildlife Week, April 19-25. This year's theme of the contest and National Wildlife Week is "Nature's Web: Caring for the Land."

Posters will be judged in five grade categories: K-1, 2-3, 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12. Winners are chosen based on simplicity, creativity and relation to theme. Posters must be received at the district office by April 17. Judging is April 22 and winners will be notified by letter. First place winners receive $50 savings bonds and second and third place winners receive subscriptions to Ranger Rick or National Wildlife, depending on age. All winners receive ribbons.

In early March, the distance distributed 1,100 National Wildlife Week packets to elementary schools throughout the county.

Winners at the York County level will go on to the state level, competing in the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District's contest held in August.

For a complete set of contest rules or more information, call 840-7430 or 800-441-2025 ext. 7430 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Stutzman competed against 16 others in the contest. Second place went to Nelson Beam of Chester County and third went to Steven Wenger of Lebanon County.

The Washington-Duffield silt loam soil was minimum tilled (chisel plowed) before planting. Soybean planting was the first week of May using a corn planter on 30-inch rows.

The variety, an early 4 full-season soybean, works well with a 30-inch row planting. Stutzman noted that if planted early enough, 30-inch row seed placement can yield as much as narrow-row seedings, though the best yield potential will always be with narrow rows. The Stutzmans are making best use of the equipment available. Many growers who decide to plant later on, in late May or early June, use 15-inch rows or narrower to get a quicker canopy and better yields.

Stutzman used a 5-15-15 starter fertilizer at planting. No other manure was applied — and hasn't been applied since manure went on from the dairy years ago.

"We had a good plant population," he said, lowered this year to help with standability. The goal was to plant about 160,000 seeds per acre and end up with about 150,000 plants emerging.

Going to the lower plant population from previous year may have helped standability and disease control. "If you overplant, they lodge, which causes disease problems," he said.

Stutzman used a dry inoculant at planting. And consistent depth control — planting the beans from 1-inch to no more than 1¼ inch deep — helped in emergence and stand uniformity. The challenge was to ensure accurate seed depth placement, considering the planting was to heavy corn residue from the rotation.

The cool weather early in the season delayed emergence — but not enough to seriously affect the stand. Stutzman paid close attention to the possible emergence of spider mites because of lower moisture during the growing season. Fortunately, the drought growers experienced in the southeastern part of the state wasn't enough to create the problem.

Stutzman cultivated between rows in the season. He said that cultivation helps not only with weed control, but to aerate the soil and help the root zone of the plants. He was the only one of the 17 contestants who cultivated.

"While I can't attribute aerating the ground to good yield, it wouldn't hurt it," Stutzman said. "It could have some benefits." Weed control also included all post-emergence applications of Pursuit/Pinnacle.

Fortunately, rains arrived just in time in mid-July to ensure good standability. The southeast part of the state dried down in August, but rain arrived to help finish the stand.

Harvest was mid- to late October. A three-acre "block" was cut out of the main field and weights were taken separately.

Stutzman enlisted the help of Mena Hautau, Berks County crops agent, in helping to measure the yields on the field.

Years ago, in the '70s, the farms owned by the Stutzmans were in dairy production. In 1980, the Stutzmans decided to switch to all cash grain and hay.

Jon attended Kutztown High School and was graduated from Lancaster Mennonite High School. He obtained a degree in ag science from Penn State in 1989.

Stutzman is an agronomist for Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service in Ephrata. His territory includes Berks, Lehigh, and Northampton counties, and northern New Jersey. His wife Holly is a registered nurse at the Lutheran Home in Topton.

Stutzman noted that nothing special or differently was done to the ground with the yield contest winner. Normally they strive for 60 bushels per acre for an average yield. As to the award — it was simply a matter of "good weather, good timing, and being lucky," said Stutzman. The award, Stutzman believes, reflects positively on his accomplishments and his job at Brubaker's, he noted.

Many growers, who are aware of the statewide contest, often find it hard to take the time from busy schedules to sign up.

But first place proved to be an extra incentive for Stutzman. The prize? A trip for he and his wife to the Commodity Classic in February to Long Beach, Calif.

For the winners, overall, 61 percent had current soil tests.

Forty-four percent fertilized or applied manure. Tillage included 53 percent who used minimum till and 29 percent no-till. Sixty- seven percent planted before May 10. The earliest planted acreage in the contest was April 28 and the latest May 29. Ninety-four percent of the contestants inoculated and 67 percent used a drill. Fifty-six percent seeded in rows less than 10 inches apart and 33 percent seeded into 14-15-inch rows. In overall plant population, 53 percent had plants per acre totalling 200,000 or more. Ninety-four percent of the participants noted good weed control. No one rotary hoed and plant lodging was noted as "very little."

Last June Stutzman hosted about 25 members of the Kutztown Young Farmers Association at his farm. The field day looked into his crop management strategies. Jon specializes in a variety of agronomic crops.

Ideally, Stutzman indicated he would like to raise more vegetable crops. Five years ago the family began a sideline business, selling fall ornamentals, including pumpkins, gourds, and Indian corn.

"We enjoy entering our crops in the fair," he said.

Scope Of Ag Ed Law Under Scrutiny At Meeting

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Since the implementation of Act 26 in the state's public schools in 1995, formulated to help educate young Pennsylvanians about the significance of agriculture to the commonwealth and the world, no funds have been put in place to implement the law, according to Carol Ann Gregg, education coordinator for the Agriculture Awareness Foundation of Pennsylvania.

Gregg, along with several other agri-industry educators and representatives, testified Wednesday afternoon during a special Agricultural Education Update meeting of the House Education Committee at the state capitol.

The meeting was selected to gauge the effectiveness of the act and what affects it has had on educational sectors throughout the state. It was also held to provide information on corollary programs being conducted to reach out to the schools and to help schools recommend and formulate agricultural education programs.

Gregg noted that the largest project for the Foundation is a summer training program "to provide teachers with the tools to teach their students about the importance of agriculture in their lives and to the economy of our state and nation." Acting simply unlike another "piece to the regular curriculum," the Foundation hopes that agricultural examples should be used in a typical school's regular subjects of science, math, social studies, language arts, and other programs. The Ag In the Classroom workshops have proven largely a success.

Under Section 8 of the law, the act is amended by adding a section to read that the General Assembly declares a purpose of the section to require the education department to "develop and disseminate agricultural education materials" for schools. The key is under section b, paragraph 2, to "provide for distribution" of said materials about agriculture — and the vagueness of that wording could be under question. In section d, paragraph 1, section ii, it is noted that the secretary of education shall consult with the secretary of agriculture and a cross section of the ag and education communities to "consider the manner in which any funds are used to support agricultural education activities."

"We worked very hard to see that Act 26 became law and were disappointed when the Pennsylvania Department of Education took such a narrow view of the implementation of the law," she said.

Gregg noted the implementation was focused on the "environmental component of agriculture. As I see agriculture, this initiative could have and should have been implemented with science, social studies, or other disciplines involved."

Gregg indicated that a position should have been created at the department of education to liaison with the department of agriculture. "Such a position would bring credibility to agriculture within the department and the education community," she said.

Carol Sizemore, first grade teacher in the Dover Elementary School (who will soon be teaching at the Leib Elementary School in Dover), spoke about the teacher training workshop and the importance of the materials to the school curriculum.

Sizemore said that many students lack the life experiences that many of those involved in agriculture have. The students believe ice cream cones come from plastic bags and "milk from plastic jugs" that are purchased in a store — and that's as much as they know.

Before, if teachers such as Sizemore wanted to implement ag into their regular classroom activities, she would have to dig up information from books in the library. How much the information was out of date or irrelevant to today's issues was in question.

But the workshops proved to be "an eye-opener for me," said Sizemore, allowing ag experts and educators to share knowledge of the field.

"Teachers need to be given the resources and materials," said Sizemore, to do the work.

In 1996, the Ag In The Classroom Workshop provided enough information for teachers to "easily tie agriculture into practically any topic" being discussed in the schools. The students learn "more from doing activities than by hearing how it's done," she said.

This year, instead of wondering about where french fries and potato chips come from, students have been growing potatoes in a 10-gallon flowerpot. The marble-sized potatoes gives them some indication of where potatoes come from, and they "didn't know that before," said Sizemore.

Gregg pointed out that some schools use glass aquariums with the seed potatoes up against the glass to show how they root and grow.

Mimi Lufkin, project director of the Vision for Pennsylvania Agricultural Education Project, said, "We all eat food and we are all directly impacted by ag, and we all need to be educated."

She spoke about the broad-based philosophy of the program, a project of the Solanco School District in partnership with the state departments of education and agriculture, Penn State, and the state vocational agriculture teachers association.

Seven sites were selected to participate in a statewide field test of the process and materials outlined in a program planning and curriculum development handbook. The extent of the program was reviewed in the Jan. 3, 1998 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Also testifying at the meeting was Frederick C. Brown, a lobbyist representing the Pennsylva-

Ken and Dennis Marshel farm 250 acres northeast of Rising Sun Maryland. They are fifth-generation farmers and have 70 Holstein milk cows that average 22,800lbs. Ken is the president of the new Lanco Dairy Farmers Cooperative.

in the Amish community of Lancaster County though no attempt locally has been made to set the price of milk at production costs plus a profit.

However, since by law, ARMPPA need a "Marketing Agent In Common" (MAIC) to carry out any pricing agreements it forges, farmers, especially Amish dairy farmers in Lancaster County, have felt the need to have more than one local MAIC to handle the large number of ARMPPA members from their group. Before Lanco, only the National Farmers Organization (NFO) was ready to work toward ARMPPA's efforts.

The Allied Federated Umbrella

To handle bookkeeping, quality inspections on the farm, check writing, and milk route scheduling, Lanco officers have put their small cooperative under the umbrella of Allied Federated Cooperative, headquartered in New York State. Allied cares for 32 small cooperatives, some as small as 45 members and is already moving milk to market for its members. Allied and Lanco have signed an agreement with a more local handler, and the 45 dairy farmers have given notice to their present handlers they will be succeeding as of May 1.

Lanco is composed mostly of Amishmen, and they have four of the five officers in the cooperative. But they do not want it to be exclusive. In fact, Ken Marshel, a dairy farmer from Rising Sun, Maryland, located just south of the Lancaster County border, was elected president at a board meeting last Thursday night.

"We were were sort of opposed to a new cooperative at first," Marshel said. "The large mega-cooperatives are legally owned by farmers, but we don't seem to have a voice. That's why ARMPPA was formed. These large cooperatives seem to keep tying the farm price to the BFP, and that's so manipulated because of the large cheese companies.

"The bottom line is that the farmer is not getting the fair share of the consumer's dollar. By forming these small cooperatives, we can maintain more control over pricing."

An Amishman from the Ronks area who is a strong support of this cooperative movement told Lancaster Farming he wants to keep the membership small enough to have volunteer directors and officers. They are also concerned that the small family farmer will be history if something is not done to increase milk prices at the farm. "Until about a year ago, I thought the small farmer could make it," the Amishman said. "But now I see things that make me realize larger farms have an advantage. For example, the "stop charge" to kick up milk at the farm is the same for large or small farms. This can make the cost anywhere from two or three cents to 23 cents per hundred."

The Amishman also expressed belief that the large cooperatives are squeezing out the small handlers so they can take over the whole market. By banning local farmers together, they feel they can help keep local handlers in business.

The farmers ask that their handler not be named because of repercussions. But this handler wrote agreements to take this local milk because of the need to insure a local supply of milk from the farmers.

Lanco has agreements to supply up to four trailer loads of milk per day with an increasing supply needed until fall. Pricing will be done under what is in place for Order 2. They are not setting over-order prices and expect to gain only 10 to 15 cents per hundred at the farm gate because of lower overhead in the local cooperative. But those involved hope the potential change in the source of supply will cause prices to remain higher than they otherwise would be.

Marshel said there was no fear of moving to a different milk marketer because "if we don't try to do something to put pressure on the farm price by moving milk around, we wouldn't be in business much longer, and then we won't need a milk market.

A meeting open to all dairy farmers who have an interest in the cooperative will be April 21, starting at 8 p.m. at Harvest Drive Restaurant, located southwest of Intercourse. The official announcement says the meeting is for English, Mennonite, and Amish dairymen who are concerned about the merging dairy markets.

Cliff Jones To Headline Annual FARMER Dinner

Clifford Jones, a well-known political analyst and state government leader, will be the guest speaker at the 18th Annual Statewide FARMER Dinner. He will discuss "Pennsylvania Politics and You."

FARMER (Farmers Allied for Responsive More Effective Representation) is the bipartisan political action committee of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB). FARMER is dedicated to help elect and keep "friends of agriculture" in the Pennsylvania General Assembly.

The FARMER fund-raising event will take place Monday, May 4 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center, Hershey. The event will begin with a reception at 5:30 p.m., followed by the dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets for the FARMER Banquet are $125 per person, or $175 with spouse. To order tickets, send a personal check, payable to "FARMER" to: Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Governmental Relations Division, P.O. Box 8736, Camp Hill, PA 17001-8736. Deadline for ordering tickets is April 20.

Cliff Jones

"Cliff Jones has made a career in public service as a negotiator, administrator and problem-solver," said FARMER committee chairman Ed Hartman of Reading. "He brings a wealth of experience on the workings of government which is sure to enlighten those attending the FARMER banquet."

Jones has served under four governors in cabinet positions as secretary of Commerce, of labor and Industry, and of the former Department of Environmental Resources. He also served as a member of the Public Utility Commission including a brief stint as its chairman.

In the private sector, Jones was president of the political action committee, Pennsylvanians for Effective Government, for four years. Under his leadership, the PAC's political budget climbed to over $200,000 each election year. He was also chairman of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania for four years and during the period erased a $600,000 debt which he had inherited. In addition, he was president of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Business and Industry from 1983 until his retirement in 1991. He was successful in forming coalitions to lobby for a broad spectrum of issues that have sustained and improved the business climate in Pennsylvania.

Jones is presently co-chair of Governor Ridge's BRAC PAC, a volunteer position created to help save defense industry jobs in Pennsylvania. He is also executive director of the Pennsylvania Health Care Cost Containment Council. In addition, he serves on 25 other boards and commissions, mostly in the non-profit areas of health, conservation and culture/education.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a voluntary, statewide farm organization which represents 25,247 farm and rural families.

Keystone Farm Credit Reports

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) —Last week, Keystone Farm Credit scheduled its annual series of meetings for customers at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland and at the Holiday Inn and Conference Center in Fogelsville.

Philip Kimmel, president and CEO of the farmer-owned cooperative, announced that stockholders of Keystone Farm Credit will receive patronage refund checks for 1997. The patronage refund for borrowers of Keystone Farm Credit will total more than $4.5 million. Borrowers will receive, on average, 15.42 percent of the interest Farm Credit earned on their loans for 1997.

Also, the results of the elections at the meetings are:

Nominating committee: Region 1 (Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia, Pike, and Schuylkill counties): Position 1: Elvin L. Kurtz, Elverson, Chester County; Position 2: Stephen R. Burkholder, Alburtis, Lehigh County. Region 2 (Dauphin, Lancaster, and Lebanon counties): Position 1: J. Richard Brenneman, Quarryville, Lancaster County.

Directors: Region 1 (Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia, Pike, and Schuylkill counties): Wilmer L. Hostetter, Oxford, Chester County. Region 2 (Dauphin, Lancaster, and Lebanon counties): Position 1: James M. Garber, Mount Joy, Lancaster County. Position 2: Ezra H. Good, Denver, Lancaster County.

Safe Drinking Water Clinic May 4

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — On May 4, Clarion County residents will have a chance to learn more about managing their private well or spring at a safe drinking water clinic.

The clinic will be held at the Clarion County Cooperative Extension Office, Mayfield Professional Building, Clarion, from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. at a cost of $2 per person.

Extension agents from Forest and Warren counties will be discussing "Managing Your Water Supply To Avoid Contamination," "Common Water Contaminants," "Standards of Water Quality," and "Water Treatment Options."

A water test is being offered for any single family unit getting their water from a well or spring. The test will be for iron, total dissolved solids, and pH. A fresh sample of about one pint is needed and should be brought in a clean jar.

To register for the water clinic, contact the Clarion County Cooperative Extension Office, Mayfield Professional Building, RR 3, Box 263A, Clarion, PA 16214, (814) 226-4956.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

the equipment that we already have.

Financial planning for farms of any size is next to impossible because of the uncertainty of the price of milk.

The average age of a dairy farmer today is 58 years old. They have raised their children on farms that have been in their family for generations. Parents hope to pass their farms on to their children. It is not happening. Their children see the love and care their parents put into their farms, but also see the hardships that they have encountered. They end up getting off the farm jobs, leaving no one to take over the farm.

Small farms spread throughout the state are better for the environment than large farms that have a high concentration of animals.

Expansion is a never ending rat race because of the huge cost involved and milk prices that are too low to produce enough acreage to support expansion.

The American agricultural system is the best in the world, but I have seen a noticeable decline and decay in agriculture in recent years. I have witnessed the indifference of the government and a willingness to allow our nation to become dependent on foreign food. A safe and abundant food supply is not something to be gambled with in order to save a few cents.

That is why the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact is needed to set a reasonable price on class I milk which would stabilize the overall price of milk. I urge you to write or call your Pennsylvania state Senator, and ask them to support the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact or Senate Bill No. 170. This is only a short term solution. In the long term farmers need to be involved in the pricing of their milk. That is why it is important to join ARMPPA. ARMPPA, American Raw Milk Producers Pricing Association is the only nationwide bargaining agency truly interested in getting a fair price for milk for dairy farmers. For more information on ARMPPA call (717) 833-4592.

Dairy Compact Hearing Held

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — An informational hearing held last week on proposed Dairy Compact legislation for Pennsylvania brought out a standing-room, nearly 200-head strong, crowd of dairy farmers and industry representatives.

The hearing, called April 3 by the Pennsylvania Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and hosted at the Pennsylvania College of Technology, was to gather input on Senate Bill 170. The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact bill, if enacted by the Senate and Legislature, would lay the groundwork for the state's dairy industry to become part of the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact. The bill was originally introduced to the Senate on January 21, 1997, by Bradford County Senator Roger Madigan and referred to the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee for consideration.

Because the Dairy Compact is structured for only contiguous states to join, with mirror enabling laws, Pennsylvania participation hinges on the passage of similar legislation in New York. New York's state Senate has already passed its version of Compact legislation, but it has yet to be acted upon by the Empire state's Assembly side.

The Northeast Dairy Compact was authorized by the 1996 Farm Bill and first used for pricing milk in late summer 1997. Included in the original Compact borders area are Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. New Jersey recently had enabling Compact legislation signed into law and more than a dozen other states either have, or are working toward, similar compact proposals. Maryland's legislation, thwarted in previous attempts, was working through the state's Senate earlier this week.

While some dairy hearings pit the state's farmer-member organizations against one another, that has not been the case with the Compact issue. One by one, the Farm Bureau, Grange, Farmers' Union, and the state's major dairy cooperatives, Dairylea, Dairy Farmers of America, Land O'Lakes and Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers, all presented testimony at the hearing solidly bearing one united message. Pennsylvania's dairy producers need Dairy Compact enabling legislation.

One recurring theme through several presentations of testimony was that dairy farmers are having difficulty paying their bills, as input costs have continued to rise while milk prices remain at price-levels of years ago.

Daniel Smith, executive director of the Northeast Dairy Compact which is presently pricing Class I milk in the six New England states, addressed that same issue in his supportive testimony.

"It is allowing farmers to stay more current with their bills. The expectation of wholesale dairy farmer sellouts has stemmed," said Smith, of the legislation which has added as much as $1.30 and as little as a few cents to the Class I price paid to New England's producers of fluid-class milk. According to Smith, the pricing mechanism has added eight cents per hundredweight to all milk produced in the Compact area.

The Compact currently sets the Class I price at $16.94 per cwt., and pays producers the amount between the level and the Federal Order Class I price. As Federal Order prices rose during the winter, the Compact's "extra check" diminished in amount. As Federal Order prices drop with seasonality, the Compact is designed to collect the over-order premium to hold the Class I to the established $16.94 level.

As expected, it was the processor and manufacturing side — buyers of raw milk — which voiced some opposition to the floored Class I prices which would result if the Compact's present $16.94 was extended to Pennsylvania-produced drinking milk. Presentations by the state's Milk Dealers Association and Food Merchants Association criticized the Dairy Compact proposal as not in keeping with the intent of the 1996 Farm Bill and a short-term program currently designed to end in less than a year.

Most vocal in opposition was Hershey Foods Corporation, which used 1.5 million pounds of milk daily, or 5 percent of the state's production, according to presenter Audrey Throne, manager of dairy ingredients for the candy giant. Hershey's position is that "the free market is the best way to price milk."

Under cross examination, the Hershey representative acknowledged that the bulk of the food company's milk purchases are not Class I fluid priced.

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, represented by chairman Beverly Minor, did not take a position pro or con on the Compact issue but applauded the hearing committee for its efforts. Chairman Minor noted that certain of the Compact's elements are similar to those of the PMMB, and the Board assumes that it would continue to perform its functions if Compact participation did become reality. The PMMB prices milk produced, processed and sold within the Pennsylvania state borders, about 20 percent of the state's total milk production.

Lancaster Senator Noah Wenger, acting chair of the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, quizzed many of the pro-Compact supporters on the likelihood of increased milk production in response to a higher Class I price for milk.

Northeast Compact executive director Dan Smith acknowledged that the Compact has changed the area's supplies more than anticipated, with milk flowing in from outside areas and diluting the pool, and that a hearing process is under way to tighten the rules.

Under the Compact regulations, if production in the pricing region grows more rapidly than the nation, and causes the Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase excess supplies, monies from the Compact must be used to pay for those extra CCC purchases. In anticipation of that possibility, a large portion of the February Compact premium, 14 cents per cwt. which would have been paid out in March, was escrowed. If CCC purchases from regional oversupply are not necessary, those escrowed funds will be distributed at a later date to the Compact's producers.

Senator Wenger's office and the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee expect to take some time to study and evaluate the hearing before generating any further action.

"We will be in the process of reviewing the testimony and will discuss the next step," says Chet Weaver, chief of staff for Senator Wenger.

Seminar To Discuss Urban Tree Establishment Practices

WEST PITTSTON (Luzerne Co.) — Establishing trees in urban and suburban areas is no easy task these days. Growing a healthy tree is not as simple as digging a hole and planting the tree. Many times, conditions are such that trees will not survive more than a few years.

Whit is it so difficult to grow trees in urban and suburban landscapes? As we build or rebuild our cities, towns, and suburban residential communities, we change physical and chemical soil properties, or completely remove topsoils, the growing medium for our trees. In other situations, we are compacting soils for sidewalk paving to the point at which roots cannot grow. With compacted soils comes poor drainage which can kill trees. Chemically, soil pH is driven upward when construction debris is left in soils. Landscapers then cut a small opening in the concrete and plant a species of tree that requires good drainage and an acidic soil.

On April 16, a seminar titled "Establishing Trees In Urban Areas" will examine new research on plant establishment techniques that Cornell University's Urban Horticulture Institute and others across the nation have been working on for years. The seminar is scheduled for the National Institute for Environmental Renewal in Mayfield. Preregistration for the program is required and an $18 fee will cover lunch, breaks, and a packet of reference materials.

The day will be full of usable practices from site assessment and modification to plant selection and transplant strategies. The seminar is also designed with a hands-on session that will be held outdoors in the afternoon.

If you are a landscape contractor, architect, designer, civil engineer, horticulturist, forester, arborist, shade tree commissioner, municipal official, or planner, and wish to learn the latest findings that are improving tree establishment and survival, attend this seminar. For more information, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 825-1701.

Phosphorus Conference Provides Forum For Understanding

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — A three-day conference on agricultural phosphorus in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed was held this week at the Penn Stater Conference Center in State College.

Jointly sponsored by the Chesapeake Bay Program's Scientific and Technical Advisory Committee and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, the conference was attended by a varied audience representing a range of interest, educational background, and practical experience regarding plant nutrients.

Overall, the conference was mostly attended by those with a working interest in nutrient management, soil science, agricultural operations and the nutrient phosphorus.

Represented were those involved with commercial fertilizer businesses, integrated livestock operations, feed companies, manure application and nutrient management businesses, state enviornmental and resource conservation agencies, environmental awareness and support groups, and, of course, university and government research and Extension services.

The conference objectives were clearly stated in the conference program. There were four listed:

- Determine the inputs of phosphorus to the Chesapeake Bay watershed and assess the current status of phosphorus in agricultural soils;
- Establish the relative impact and location of source areas;
- Identify and delineate what processes control the critical sources and pathways of phosphorus export over a range of scales in the Bay Watershed; and
- Discuss and prioritize future trends for phosphorus management in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed.

There is not enough space not time to report the details of all the speakers at the conference.

There were 12 speakers making half-hour to hour-long or more presentations during the first two days, and on Wednesday, a panel of four people with practical nutrient management experience discussed their practices and concerns. That was followed by participants breaking out into four working groups to discuss soil phosphorus testing, nutrient managment planning, and development of best management practices.

The proceedings of the conference are to be published later this year, after speakers follow up with formal submissions of their presentations, according to Dr. Andrew Sharpley, a soil scientist working for the USDA Agricultural Research Service at its Pasture Systems and Watershed Management Research Laboratory in University Park.

Sharpley is considered to be one of the most knowledgeable people at the Penn State Main Campus with regards to phosphorus and its activity in soils. Though a USDA employee, he works with staff of the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Department of Agronomy in conducting research and in sharing information.

One of the main discussion leaders, Sharpley also served as one of several chairpeople responsible for portions of the program.

While the technical aspects of the conference were extensive, and are to be available in the published proceedings, some speakers expressed opinions, based on technical work, as to why phosphorus has become such a concern in the Chesapeake Bay (as well as other areas with high density livestock operations and water bodies suffering from eutrophic symptoms).

The personal interpretation of the issues varied from speaker to speaker, depending upon background.

Information was presented by, and shared with, representatives of the other states involved with the Chesapeake Bay restoration effort, but for Pennsylvania agriculturalists the information presented suggested that nutrient management here will likely not become an "either/or" priority excercise.

More likely, practical nutrient management will be expanded in scope to go beyond focusing upon balancing nitrogen application levels with crop yield needs and existing soil levels.

From research demonstrating that agricultural phosphorus entering waterways comes from a small portion of a watershed, and in most cases from spot areas on a farm (generally along a stream or in a flood plain), it was suggested that perhaps the most reasonable approach would be to identify those "source" areas on the farm as part of the existing nutrient management plan and manage them for the phosphorus levels (meaning withholding phosphorus heavy manures from those areas, and using commercial nitrogen supplies until the area is suitable to again receive manure).

As currently practiced, a Pennsylvania nutrient management plan is an exercise in accounting for nitrogen available for application to land and crop needs, a description of the pathways for nutrient flow, and management practices.

Of course they are more complicated than that, but essentially it is a farm business plan that takes into account all the major characteristics, factors and products and describes how they are to be managed so as to prevent pollution.

The plans also should provide an accounting of the other two nutrients of concern — phosphorus and potassium — but manure spreading decisions are not yet required to be made based upon nutrients other than nitrogen.

However, in Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act, which targets agricultural nutrients (because they were thought at the time to be the major non-point source of nutrient pollution to the waters of the Chesapeake) there is language that directs the state Department of Environmental Protection to conduct research into other potential sources of non-point nutrients, and make further recommendations as to the importance of other nutrients and management practices to remediate their environmental effects.

For years many farmers discounted the nutrients in manures, especially nitrogen in manure, as being especially important to commercial crop production. Instead most farmers relied on known amounts of chemical fertilizers applied to start plants, and to provide nutrients during later growth stages (side dress).

However, the discovery of high groundwater nitrate levels in high animal agricultural areas, such as Lancaster County, stirred concern for human health, and led to public

Delaware Valley College Students Present A-Day

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — The students of Delaware Valley College will present the 50th "A-Day" celebration April 25 and 26 (rain or shine), 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., on the College's campus, 700 East Butler Avenue (Route 202).

Started in 1949 by a group of students to promote agriculture, "A-Day" has become one of the area's largest events. To reflect its broadened educational program, the meaning of the "A" in "A-Day" has evolved to symbolize "all" — all activities from all programs offered by the College. More than 50,000 area residents attended the two-day event in 1997.

Open to the public, "A-Day" is a student-run event that benefits student clubs and organizations at Delaware Valley College. There is a $5 per car parking fee, which includes a souvenir program book. For the safety of visitors to the campus, your cooperation in using only the designated "A-Day" parking lots along New Britain Road will be appreciated. There is no individual admission charge.

The A-Day program includes a variety of exhibits and demonstrations designed to acquaint the public with the educational experiences students enjoy at Delaware Valley College. During the weekend, the students will present agricultural and horticultural exhibitions, an equine show, livestock judging contest, a dairy show, tree climbing demonstrations, a hay ride that includes a tour of the College's farms and orchards, science exhibits, and educational displays. In addition, a variety of food is offered, as well as a craft show, plant and shrubbery sales, games for children, pony rides, a mule-drawn carousel, a petting zoo, face painting, sand art and much, much more.

Delaware Valley College, located in Doylestown, in the heart of Bucks County, is a comprehensive four-year institution of higher learning with over 1,400 men and women enrolled full time in more than 35 academic programs, ranging from agricultural, biological, and physical sciences, to business administration and computer information systems. In addition, 670 students are enrolled on a part-time basis in Del Val's Evening and Weekend Colleges, working to advance their careers.

For more information about the 50th "A-Day," please call (215) 489-2496.

Subsequent research and advice to farmers was to soil test and then use standardized book manure-nutrient values and application rates to substitute manure for a portion of the commerical nutrients being applied to raise crops.

Previously, the manure was being spread, but not effectively used. In many cases it was applied to the nearest field, whether it needed it or not.

Further, even with today's manure testing, soil testing and time-specified applications based on crop yields and rotations, real world conditions can prevent timely applications or ability to spread upon an intended field.

The research on effectively using the nutrients available in manures was seen as a way to help farmers save money and stay in business while at the same time ameliorating a growing public environmental concern.

Under former Gov. Robert Casey, Pennsylvania committed itself to a 40-percent reduction in the flow of nutrients down the Susquehanna River into the Chesapeake Bay.

While efforts were begun to upgrade declining waste water facilities and to deny on lot septic systems, and construct larger capacity and new waste water treatment plants, more needed to be done, according to those supporting and leading the effort.

A little later, the poultry and swine industries rapidly changed over to almost being entirely "integrated" businesses — previously independent, small scale producers went out of business or converted to contract production on a larger scale in coordination with feed companies and/or slaughter and meat packing businesses.

Under the integrated system, while the producers benefitted from establishing a guaranteed income, as long as a contract was not broken, production houses increased in number and size relative to the size of the farms on which they were sited.

In the poultry business for example, the contractual business arrangements normally provide birds and feed to the farmer who supplies the raising facilities, with loans to build such facilities secured on the basis of the contract and life expectancy of the building.

The farmer receives a set amount of income per live bird.

What the farmer is also left with is the poultry manure, or litter (litter contains more than manure, such as feathers).

This is important, because now the farmer is being told to dispose of the manure properly, and not to put too much on the land.

And, according to one of the speakers of the conference, Dr. Les Lanyon, a Penn State University research and extension professor of soil fertility, it isn't the farmer's fault that there is too much phosphorus on his farm.

Lanyon said that, especially since World War II, humans have become too good at having adequate phosphorus.

He said the system of agricultural production has changed dramatically and it is a global system, though the local farm is still seen parochially as an independent entity.

It has been coming for some time.

Nationally, a fast pace of protective or aggressive business mergers followed a relatively short, but widely affecting period of hostile takeovers.

That trend of mergers and consolidations spread into American mainstream agricultural production, especially after the 1996 Farm Bill.

Since production support prices were set to be eliminated, it became apparent that mergers, and technology allowing larger scale production and smaller scale administration, would be a solution to the overall reduced profits expected per commodity unit in order to position for national competition.

A longer term trend of mergers among farmer cooperatives had been occuring, but mostly from diminishing numbers of farmers, a result of many other factors, in addition to low profit margins.

In reaction to business mergers and other service industry mergers, the global direct ordering of perishable and non-perishable goods and services now available through the computer and the Internet (such as happened with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association), producer cooperatives began a quickly accelerated merging and consolidation process.

For other industries, integration allows for essentially setting a future price on a commodity and then working with less volatile cost fluctuations than what has become an sharp rise and fall in the non-government influenced market pricing system.

What that all has to do with agricultural phosphorus and the nutrient balance of the Chesapeake Bay may not be readily apparent from a local and non-historic perspective.

But Lanyon explained the dramatic changes that have happened in global and continential nutrient flow.

The bottom line of Lanyon's talk was that whereas the world was phosphorus poor prior to the World Wars, especially since World War II man has been able to get lots of it.

We have mined it from sediment loads made up to 250 million years ago, adding significantly to the existing amount of phosphorus that is now cycling in the world's ecosystems.

According to speakers, a lot of effort and money went into securing phosphorus for increased crop production and higher yields.

Lanyon said that, prior to the World War technology that allows greater production and availability of phosphorus for farming, the history of the world was that it sought out phosphorus where ever it was to be found — the United Kingdom had dug up the bones of the dead from wars in Europe to use for fertilizer, and common here more recently were fertilizer companies in the United States, such as in Lancaster County and Berks County, that converted animal bones and blood into phosphorus fertilizer.

In the United States, the originally fertile fields lost phosphorus to heavy erosion and continual removal of the nutrients in crops raised and sold, or fed to animals and then sold. Effectively exporting the nutrients.

The soil needed to be replenished with nutrients.

Manure was returned to the soil to help replenish the nutrients in a farm's soils, but the manure did not contain enough nutrients to keep up with the demands of crops.

Lanyon called that period of freely available phosphorus for farming as the exploitive years. Following those were years without enough phosphorus.

Further, Lanyon explained that while the nutrient flow on a farm was slightly imbalanced toward a deficit, it was more or less a balanced ecosystem unto itself — the flow of nutrients could be followed and accounted for in a cycle.

With farm specialization and integration and transportation, now, the system brings phosphorus from various parts of the world to grain and feed crop growing areas.

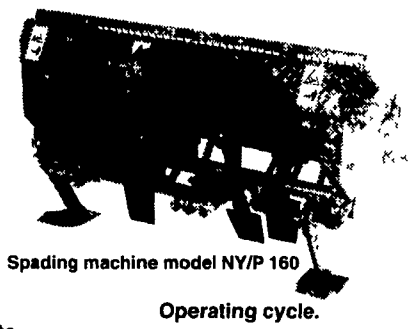
CELLI

SPADE CULTIVATORS

Spade Cultivators Are An Innovative Alternative To Conventional Plowing. They Work On The Principle Of A PTO Driven Crankshaft Connected To Steel Spades Which Vertically Penetrate The Soil One At A Time. The Operation Is Very Similar To A Person Digging With A Spade Shovel



Spading machine model NY/P 160

ADVANTAGES:
* Low HP Requirement Compared to Mold Board Plows
* Greatly Reduced Compaction And Eliminates Creation Of Plow Pan
* Allows For Working Wetter Ground For Earlier Preparation
* Works Equally Well In Hard, Dry Conditions
* Produces Small, Porous Clods For Better Water Absorption
* Ideal for Incorporating Compost, Crop Residue & Fertilizer At Proper Depths
* Leaves Topsoil On Top And Does Not Bring Sour Subsoil Or Rocks To Surface
* Will Fracture Hard Pan Left By Conventional Tillage

BEFORE

Hard soil in depth. Difficult water circulation and root growth

Digging with a Celli spading machine.

AFTER

FEATURES:
* Machines Available For Tractors For 20 to 190 HP
* Tillage Widths From 32" to 144"
* Depths Up To 16"
* Top Quality Components For Long Life In Hostile Conditions
* Over 8000 Machines Sold Worldwide

Meetings For Delmarva Horse Owners Set

DOVER (Del.) — In response to requests from concerned local horse owners, Dr. Beteh Valentine, Department of Pathology, College of Veterinary Medicine, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., will speak on the symptoms of EPSM, a muscle disease in horses, tell how common it is in various horse breeds and share their research regarding a cure.

This meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 24, at the Modern Maturity Center, Rt. 8, Dover, Delaware, in the Longwood Room, (use back entrance from parking lot), and is free. All interested persons are welcome.

Dr. Valentine is donating her time, to come inform local horse owners of her findings, at the invitation of the Delmarva Driving Club and The Delaware Equine Council.

She will also be speaking at the Farm Plow and Field Day, on the Miller farm, 962 Dennys Rd., Dover, Del., Saturday, April 25 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Working the ground with horses will begin at 7 a.m. until 3 p.m.

For more information, call Organizer Ed Banning at (302) 628-0100 or 337-3900.

Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Honors Members

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BOALSBURG (Centre Co.)– Cattlemen from across the commonwealth gathered at the Boalsburg Fire Hall, Centre County, to honor outstanding contributors to the beef industry. The Pennsylvania Cattlemen Association's (PCA) annual awards banquet and brief business meeting kicked off the four-day Pennsylvania Beef Exposition held at Penn State's Ag Arena.

At the banquet, PCA treasurer Paul Slayton from Bedford County presided over the meeting while Dr. Lowell Wilson and committee chairperson Kathy Allen emceed the award presentations.

The Commercial Cattlemen's Award went to Gerald and Ginger Woolcock of Orangeville, Columbia County. The Woolcocks manage a 95-cow mainly Simmental herd and farm 900 acres (450 tillable).

The New Seed Stock Award was presented to Robert and Ann Kinsley of York County for raising 217 out of 200 calves in 1997. Their Southbranch program is plan, goal and results oriented.

The Industry Award went to Dr. Max Van Buskirk. A graduate of Bucknell and the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School, Van Buskirk served as a state veterinarian in the Department of Agriculture for 17 years, retiring from he Bureau of Animal Health.

The Cattle Feeder Award was presented to the Nissley Brothers Partnership of Mount Joy, Lancaster County. Darwin and Bernard formed a partnership in 1983 and raise white-face beef cattle. They've just completed a major expansion project and can now feed 1,000 head.

The Stewardship Award went to Glen and Carol Turk of Warren County. Tur-Crest Farms is located near Youngstown.

The PCA presented a special appreciation award to Millard "Bunk" Smith of York County. Smith has donated considerable time to the association as co-chair of the food booth committee for the Beef Expo. Smith is a sales representative for J.J. AgriProducts in Dillsburg. He helps manage a small herd of Angus.

The Top Hand Award went to Dr. Lowell Wilson of Penn State. Wilson serves as secretary for the PCA, teaches introductory animal courses, and raises Simmentals in Tioga County.

Stephanie Biggerstaff earned the Outstanding Junior Member Award from the Pennsylvania Simmental Association. President Larry Bullis presented the award.

Scholarship awards were presented to Penn State students Rozanne Kirst, a senior in food science, James Walker, a sophomore in dairy animal science, and Keith Carlisle, a freshman in elementary education.

Renee Kerstetter from Centre County became the new Cattlemen Queen while Heather Fuls of Berks County will serve as Princess.

Board members elected the following officers: President Bill McCoy of Lancaster County, Vice President Paul Slayton of Bedford County, Treasurer John Myers of York County, Secretary Lowell Wilson of Centre County.

The 9th annual Pennsylvania Beef Expo was held in conjunction with the 25th Performance Tested Bull Sale and featured quality assurance exhibits, beef management demonstrations, a trade show with over 45 commercial exhibitors, Junior Skill-a-Thon, purebred cattle sales, Junior Bowl Quiz, and Junior heifers and bull shows that featured 215 head of cattle compared to last year's 150. The show was dedicated in memory of Ben Stine of East Berlin.

Ginger and Gerald Woolcock of Columbia County accepted the Commercial Cattlemen's Award.

New Market For Feeder Calves!

HOT SRPINGS, Va. — The recently concluded VA Beef Industry Convention held at The Homestead in Hot Springs, Virginia provided some valuable information for feeder calf producers.

Bill McKinnon, VA Tech's livestock marketing specialist, in hsi general session report, had some surprising numbers relating to the first Red Angus certified feeder calf sale in the November 17 Tel-O-Auction sponsored by the VA Cattlemen's Association. The certified Red Angus steers brought $12/cwt above all comparable weight red steers sold during the same week anywhere in Virginia, and the heifers brought $13/cwt more! That translates to $63/hd and $69/hd!! McKinnon used the sale information to show that when a breed association works to provide marketing opportunities for their commercial producers, as the Red Angus Association has done, good things happen!

There are reasons for these results. Since so many breeds have jumped on the "black bandwagon," a black feeder calf's genetic background is no longer a sure thing. Maybe that explains why the 170 Red Angus certified feeders in the Tel-O-Auction topped the rest of the lots in the 1,000 head sale. The top lot of Red Angus brought about $15/hd over the top lot of blacks. In this Mid-Atlantic area, Pennsylvania's Moyer Packing Company provides high quality beef for the restaurant trade, as well as Asian markets. "Angus" beef fits their program. The USDA audited Red Angus Feeder Calf Certification Program (FCCP) provides cattle for the Supreme Angus Beef and Imperial Angus Beef products. Moyer let their buyers know that they wanted Red Angus if they had the certification car tag. There are also other branded premium "Angus" products seeking Red Angus.

How can you qualify for the FCCP program? The calf must have at least one registered parent that can be verified. The simplest way to start is using a Red Angus bull. The ear tags cost $1.25, and include a FCCP number for USDA tracking. If you use a Red Angus bull on your black cows, it doesn't matter if the calves are red or black. If they wear the yellow FCCp ear tag, they're Red Angus. The good thing about your marketing opportunities in this area is that we co-mingle small lots to put together load lots. "Some basic health requirements must be met.)

Lancaster DHIA Lab Celebrates 100% Certification Score

Lancaster DHIA labratory recently celebrated their fourth consecutive year with a 100 percent certification score from National DHIA. Jere High, lab manager, attributes this success to his staff of dedicated employees. Tracy Zimmerman, assistant lab manager is responsible for the dairy operation, as well as, data transmission to DRMS at Raleigh, N.C. Rose Zimmerman serves fulltime and operates all the equipment, and does computer editing. Peg Randolph and Emily Heistand work part time and also operate equipment and computer edit. The cooperative effect of these employees has contributed to the success in achieving a 1.9 day turn-a-round for the dairymen. In the photo are from left, Joe Graybeal, president; Peg Randolph, Tracy Zimmerman, Rose Zimmerman, Emily Heistand, and Rodney Denlinger, lab committee chairperson.

Pennsylvania Holstein Assn. Looks For Committee Members

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) – The Pennsylvania Holstein Association will be selecting members to serve on various state committees for the next two years. There are four (4) Standing Committees for which members are needed.

The Committees and Their Duties are:

1) Activities: The purpose of this committee is to evaluate current membership, design programs to increase membership and promote the benefits of membership in the Association. The committee shall establish the membership goals, the membership timetable, and the membership awards and recognitions. The committee shall also be responsible for various educational programs, dairy promotion efforts and publications sponsored by the Association.

2) Sale: The purpose of this committee is to develop plans for the Association sponsored consignment sales and help carry out those plans.

3) Show: The purpose of this committee is to develop, plan and regulate the state and regional shows including maintaining rules and regulations and supervise the various recognitions.

4) Youth: The purpose of this committee is to develop and coordinate educational and recognition programs for juniors. The committee shall work with the Junior Holstein Association Executive Committee in assuring a wide range of junior activities.

The committees make suggestions to the Board of Directors on programs and activities for the Association.

Any Pennsylvania Holstein Association member who would like to serve on one of these committees can contact Pennsylvania Holstein Association by April 25, 1998 to express their interest.

Sire Alliance May Allow Beef Producers To Increase Beef Quality

SUNRISE BEACH, Mo. – Increasing the quality of cattle through the use of profitable genetics is one of the main objectives of many cattle producers. Some progressive Angus raisers have realized the potential of identifying these superior genes and have joined together to form the Angus Sire Alliance.

In its second year, the Angus Sire Alliance is the largest progeny test of its kind in the United States. The alliance boasts 35 members, reaching from New York to California, Georgia to Texas. However, only 25 members actually participate in the alliance, with the other ten members serving as alternates.

Ranches and individuals participating in the alliance are as follows: Generation Angus, Lexington, Ala.; Sauk Valley Angus, Rockfalls, Ill.; International Breeding Center, Spencer, Ind.; Eaglestone Farms, Carlisle, Ky.; Waldeck Farms, Crestwood, Ky.; Whitestone Farm, Aldie, Va.; Champion Hill, Bidwell, Ohio; Shady Brook Farms, Leoma, Tenn.; Aristocrat Angus, Platteville, Colo.; Koch Beef, Wichita, Kan.; A & M Circle T Ranch, Salem, Mo.; High Field Angus, Clinton Corners, N.Y.; Vintage Angus, Modesto, Calif.; McCurry Bros., Sedgewick, Kan.; Brost Angus Farm, Oxford, Ind.; Circle B Angus, Vienna, Mo.; Broken Lance Ranch, Bucyrus, Kan.; Weiker Angus Ranch, Fayette, Mo.; Twin Valley, Pratteville, Ala.; Davis on the Highlands, Springfield, Ky.; "Doc" Hinds, St. Charles, Mo. and Norb Siegfried, St. Louis, Mo.; Three Trees Ranch, Sharpsburg, Ga.; Springfield Angus, Louisburg, N.C.; Twin Oak Farms, Quarryville, Pa.; Toebbin Triple T Ranch, Union, Ky.; Southern Angus, Dothan, Ala.; Diamond W Ranch, Burton, Texas; Leachman Angus, Bozeman, Mont.; Bear Creek Angus, Cameron, Mont.; Circle A Ranch, Iberia, Mo.

Members should submit one purebred, registered Angus bull to the Angus Sire Alliance headquarters, located in Iberia, Mo. Each bull is then turned out with 50 commercial Angus cows. Semen from that same sire is used to artificially inseminate 50 more commercial Angus cows.

"The main objective of the Angus Sire Alliance is to identify the most profitable and predictable Angus genetics in the United States," said Fred Frey of Twin Oak Farms, one of the alliance's members. "This program will eventually spread throughout the country, making it profitable to all cattle producers by improving the quality of beef and making the animal more efficient."

In the progeny test, the steer calves are the only ones that will be slaughtered. The heifer calves will be retained for breeding purposes, Frey said.

Phosphorus Conference Provides Forum

The phosphorus containing grain and feed crops are then shipped to areas specializing in concentrated livestock production (crop growing for feed is economically and quality wise too much trouble to do locally).

The manures containing the nutrients, especially phosphorus (which doesn't move quickly unless excessive, in poor soils, or on the surface of the soil), are then spread on limited soils.

Thus, the phosphorus that doesn't get shipped away from the farm via the meat animals, gets put on the soils. Many of the farms are small and excessive phosphorus levels can be achieved quickly, even with balancing for nitrogen, all manure and especially some poultry manures contains more phosphorus than needed.

The issue then, according to Lanyon, is to discover a feasible means of completing a cycle of phosphorus flow, and distribution.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Day Designated

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Monday, March 30, was designated as "Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Day" in separate resolutions passed unanimously by the state House and Senate. The passage was witnessed by members of the statewide farm organization who were in the state Capitol that day as part of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's annual Harrisburg Legislative Tour.

"We came of age today," remarked PFB President Guy Donaldson at a banquet later that evening during which copies of the resolutions were formally presented. About 300 farmers from throughout the state had visited with their lawmakers earlier to discuss PFB's priority state legislative issues. PFB has been conducting Harrisburg Legislative Tours for decades. It was the first time their efforts had been honored by the General Assembly.

Recognizing Pennsylvania Farm Bureau as a strong voice for agriculture at the local, state and federal level, the resolutions congratulated PFB for its contributions to the Commonwealth and the economic welfare of the agricultural industry in Pennsylvania.

The Senate resolution was introduced by Sen. Noah Wenger (R-36th Dist.), acting chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

In the House, Rep. Ray Bunt (R-147th Dist.), chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee sponsored the resolution honoring Farm Bureau.

Donaldson, PFB Vice President Carl Shaffer and administrative secretary Lou Sallie attended the introduction of the resolutions as special guests and were introduced during the proceedings in both chambers.

Noting that the introduction of the resolution coincided with PFB's annual Harrisburg Tour, Sen. Wenger said legislators have come to look forward to the "free interchange of communications" that takes place every year with Farm Bureau members. Sen. Patrick Stapleton (D-41st Dist.), minority chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, expressed his support for the resolution and told his colleagues that a delegation of Farm Bureau members who had visited his office that day informed him that local tax reform is their number one priority. He urged legislators to heed their message.

In the House, Rep. Art Hershey (R-13th Dist.), a farmer-turned-legislator and former leader in the farm organization, expressed his appreciation of PFB. He remembered how, 25 years earlier, he had participated as a young dairyman in the Harrisburg Legislative Tour and how exciting it had been to see Farm Bureau policies, developed from the grass-roots level, being enacted into law. Other lawmakers also voiced their appreciation of PFB's efforts over the years.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau was established by a group of farmers as the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association in November 1950. PFB is a voluntary, non-government organization which represents 25,247 member families in 54 county units.

TODAY'S TILLAGE DEMANDS TODAY'S TECHNOLOGY.

The timed-release technology of
TOPNOTCH HERBICIDE.
For consistent performance in the heavier residue of conservation tillage.

Nothing gives you better grass control than TopNotch™ corn herbicide. Applied up to 6 weeks before planting, its timed-release encapsulation technology works all season – even in heavy crop residue. And TopNotch performs well on small-seeded broadleaf weeds, including lambsquarters, tall waterhemp and pigweed.
The timed-release technology of TopNotch is designed to fit the tillage systems and application timing on your farm. Ask your full-service crop protection dealer/applicator for TopNotch. Or call our Information Hotline at 1-800-759-2500.

Tradition Made Easy

SIMPLE SOLUTIONS FOR YOUR EASTER MENU

Festive new bonnets, sweet-scented lilies and the excited bustle of family and friends gathered for a bountiful meal All are cherished traditions that mark an Easter celebration and welcome springtime

Whether your gathering is large or small, preparing and sharing an Easter dinner that will win raves is easy using the following delicious recipes and suggestions They make the cooking (and cleanup) for this special holiday meal simple, quick and stress-free. The result? A lively menu featuring distinctive flavors from convenient pantry staples that give new zest to traditional favorites

Baking a traditional Easter ham to star as the main course has never been easier Choose a lean, boneless whole ham of highest quality that's been naturally slow-cured and packaged without added water or processing Baked in an oven bag, it's a snap to prepare without the worry of overcooking, the oven bag keeps a boneless ham from drying out by holding its natural juices

For a main course everyone will enjoy, choose sweet fruit flavors sparked with zesty Dijon mustard in "Ham with Tangerine Apricot Sauce" or "Ham with Strawberry Dijon Sauce " With versatile Dijon mustard on hand, you're guaranteed a burst of tantalizing flavor Either recipe can be prepared in an oven bag, and both the ham and the tangy-sweet mustard sauces are ready to serve at the same time What could be easier?

Oven bags can also be used to conveniently prepare vegetable side dishes like "Holiday Asparagus" in the microwave oven Using oven bags saves room in your conventional oven for the main entrée and other dishes, and insures even cooking of this recipe's crisp springtime spears, red bell peppers and mushrooms

Enhance these dishes with the sophisticated flavors of a "Blue Cheese Walnut Salad " Crisp greens, toasted walnuts and coarsely crumbled blue cheese tossed with a creamy dressing made from either tangy Dijon mustard or honey mustard are all combined in a refreshing salad that's sure to become a holiday favorite

From start to finish, this is one holiday menu that keeps its promise to be simple, quick and stress-free — as well as delicious And it just may inspire some new Easter traditions

Ham with Strawberry Dijon Sauce

Makes 10 to 14 servings

1 oven bag, large size, (14″ x 20″)
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 (6-ounce) cans pineapple juice
3/4 cup honey
1/2 cup Dijon Mustard
1 (5-to 7-pound) boneless fully cooked ham
Whole cloves
1 quart strawberries, cleaned and halved

1 Preheat oven to 325°F
2 Shake flour in oven bag, place in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan
3 Add pineapple juice, honey and mustard to oven bag Squeeze oven bag to blend ingredients
4 Using a table knife, lightly score surface of ham in a diamond pattern, insert cloves Place ham in oven bag Close oven bag with nylon tie, cut six 1/2-inch slits in top
5 Bake for 1 3/4 to 2 1/4 hours or until meat thermometer reads 140° F To serve, cut open oven bag and transfer ham to serving platter Stir strawberries into sauce in oven bag, serve with ham

1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup margarine
3/4 cup light cream or half-and-half
1/3 cup Dijon Mustard
1 tablespoon chopped fresh chives
1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

1 Place potatoes in 1 inch depth of water in large pot Heat to a boil Cover, simmer for 15 minutes or until potatoes are fork tender Drain, keep warm
2 Cook and stir onion and garlic in margarine in small saucepan over low heat until tender Stir in cream, heat to a boil Reduce heat, simmer for 2 to 3 minutes Stir in mustard, chives and pepper Drizzle over potatoes Toss and serve immediately.

Holiday Asparagus

Makes 8 to 10 servings

1 oven bag, regular size (10″ x 16″)
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1/4 cup water
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 pounds fresh asparagus spears
1 medium red bell pepper, cut into strips
8 large fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons margarine

1 Shake flour in oven bag, place in 13 x 9 x 2-inch microwave-safe baking dish
2 Add water and garlic to oven bag Squeeze oven bag to blend ingredients Add asparagus, red pepper and mushrooms Arrange ingredients in an even layer in oven bag Dot with margarine Close oven bag with nylon tie, cut six 1/2-inch slits in top
3 Microwave at HIGH (100% power) for 9 to 11 minutes or until asparagus is tender To serve, remove from oven bag and transfer vegetables to serving dish, spoon sauce over vegetables

Blue Cheese Walnut Salad

Makes 8 servings

2 (10-ounce) packages mixed salad greens (iceberg, romaine, leaf lettuce, radicchio, frisée)
1 cup walnuts, toasted and chopped
1 medium red onion, thinly sliced
4 ounces blue cheese, coarsely crumbled
1/4 cup Dijon Mustard or Honey Mustard
1/3 cup red wine vinegar
3/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup sour cream

1 Mix salad greens, walnuts, onion and blue cheese in large bowl, set aside
2 Blend mustard and vinegar Whisk in oil and sour cream
3. Pour dressing over salad, toss and serve immediately

Dijon Breadsticks

1 (11-ounce) package soft breadstick dough
2 tablespoons Dijon Mustard
1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

1 Preheat oven to 375°F, unroll dough
2 Brush mustard onto 1 side of breadstick dough Sprinkle with rosemary and pepper
3 Separate dough at perforations to form 8 strips Cut strips in half to form 16 strips
4 Twist each strip two or three times, arrange on lightly greased foil-lined baking sheet
5 Bake for 12 to 14 minutes or until lightly golden Serve warm

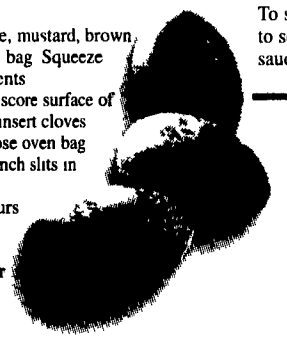
Ham with Tangerine Apricot Sauce

Makes 6 to 8 servings

NOT PICTURED

1 oven bag, regular size (10″ x 16″)
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1-1/2 cups tangerine orange juice
1/3 cup Dijon Mustard
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1 (6-ounce) package dried apricot halves
1 (2-to 4-pound) boneless fully cooked ham
Whole cloves

1 Preheat oven to 325°F
2 Shake flour in oven bag, place in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan
3 Add tangerine orange juice, mustard, brown sugar and apricots to oven bag Squeeze oven bag to blend ingredients
4 Using a table knife, lightly score surface of ham in a diamond pattern, insert cloves Place ham in oven bag Close oven bag with nylon tie, cut six 1/2-inch slits in top
5 Bake for 1 1/4 to 1 3/4 hours or until meat thermometer reads 140°F To serve, cut open oven bag and transfer ham to serving platter Spoon sauce over ham



What could be easier?

STEP 1
Close oven bag with nylon tie, cut six 1/2-inch slits in top Insert meat thermometer through slit in oven bag into center of ham

STEP 2
To serve, cut open top of oven bag and transfer ham to serving platter Stir fresh strawberry halves into sauce in oven bag

EGGS-TERMINATED

My mind was not on nests that mourn,
I clamored up the straw.
Had bills to pay and notes to write,
A list of folks to call.

The wind was whipping, doors a'banging,
Tin roof in a clatter.
I yanked a bale to toss below...
Good grief! What is the matter?

For at my foot a small explosion
Blasts into the air.
Straw and feathers float about.
From what? I'm not aware.

But then I spy at booted foot
Eggs piled in a depression.
While we've passed by in busyness
This hen's had quite a session.

'Tis not the first time I've disturbed
A nest tucked in the mow.
The first chicks hatched out weeks ago
But they're long gone by now.

I spied them, too, while tossing down
Some bales to bed the cattle.
Bent down, peeked in, got warning sound
From hen, a throaty rattle,

But armed with gloves, I took a chance
And spied beneath the mother.
A bright-eyed, fluffy chick peered out,
First one, and then another.

We built a stair-steps out of bales
So she could lead them out
To feed and water, safer site
In which to move about.

That was the last we saw of them
And thus we speculate
A cat, most likely, also found
The Nest...and hence, their fate...

So here she has a second chance
To raise a family
If smart, she'll find a better spot
Than in the straw and hay.

Now, chickens aren't known for their brains
But for their egg vocation
Instinct will lead her right on back
To nest in same location.

And that is why, when some would search
In yard, flower beds and bush
Our kids soon learned where eggs were found
And to the barn they'd rush.

As Easter now is here once more
This message, let me warn:
Take special care to hide your eggs
Elsewhere than in the barn.

Because the barn's a busy place
And thus....alas! Alack!
The egg you hide so carefully
Could.... watch!.... look out!.... oops!.... SPLAT!

Fresh eggs can make a yucky mess
And thus – no doubt – the reason
We've always favored hard-boiled ones
To celebrate the season.

Have a very blessed and eggs-tra special Easter!
(And our apologies to one irate, stepped-on hen...)

Dairy Princess Candidates Needed

Consuming Thoughts

by

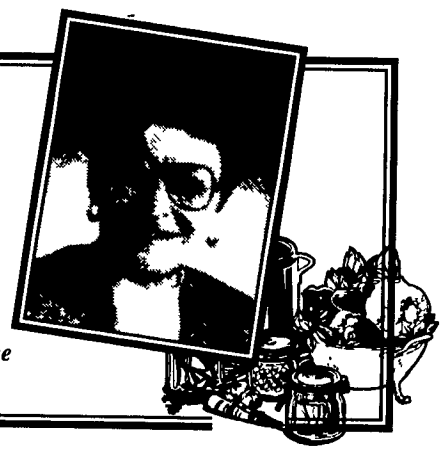
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Sometime ago a co-worker teased me about eating a roast beef sandwich and jokingly said that I must have gotten a big increase to afford roast beef while his lunches usually consist of bologna sandwiches.

My roast beef sandwich was from leftover pot roast and was at least half the price of lunchmeat.

In many cases beef roast is cheaper than bologna and given the choice between homemade roast beef or hot dogs, what consumer wouldn't choose the roast? But some people think that beef is more expensive and decide to buy cold cuts or prepared meats from a deli rather than treating themselves to roast beef. But remember that you are paying for convenience since cold cuts are ready to eat – and the beef needs to be roasted. If you carefully check prices and compare the cost per serving, you may find that the roast is actually less expensive.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture compared the cost per 20 grams of protein provided by several meats, and came up with some surprising results. Some processed meat products, such as frankfurters and bologna, cost more as sources or protein than some beef roasts and steaks. And some cheap cuts of meat, after trimming off fat and bone, may cost more than the expensive cuts.

Shopping for specials can make protein choices even less expensive. "Buy when the price is right" is a cost-cutting principle for all consumers. Most stores offer specials on meat, poultry, and fish. Read the weekly newspaper ads and keep records of your purchases.

The cost per serving of protein isn't the only consideration for consumers. Food choices made at the supermarket affect health as well as budget.

In light of current dietary guidelines, getting enough protein into most people's diets is not a problem. Eating a balanced diet that doesn't contribute to health problems such as excess fat and cholesterol is probably of greater concern to most consumers. Some prepared meat products, like luncheon meats and hot dogs, contain larger amounts of fat and sodium than are found in fresh, lean meats.

The desire to eat healthfully is reflected in new shopping trends. Shoppers now, on average, spend more time in front of chicken and turkey counters, and less time at the beef and pork counters, and fish is getting more attention.

More good news: chicken breasts and other tasty poultry dishes, while also being lower in fat and sodium, cost less per 20 grams of protein than some varieties of bologna and hot dogs.

Over the last 20 years, beef prices have increased 257 percent; pork prices, 252 percent; and chicken prices, 220 percent. Hence, the price of chicken relative to beef dropped by 14 percent between 1970-74 and 1990-94.

The consumption of chicken has increased over beef. In the years from 1990-94 U.S. consumers per person ate 66 pounds of beef, 51 pounds of pork and 76 pounds of chicken.

Minimum Till Gardening

This is the third article in a monthly series looking at ways of saving and enhancing our garden soils. Tilling your garden correctly preserves the soil and its fertility, enhances the absorption of rainfall, and protects local streams from run-off sediment.

Gardeners often ask: Do I plow or till my garden soil in the spring or fall? Working soil in the fall is far better than spring plowing. Why? Fall plowing allows earlier spring planting. As a result large amounts of organic matter are turned under in a complete decomposition in the spring.

But, fall plowing is not recommended for hillside or steep garden plots. Soil left exposed all winter, is subject to erosion when spring rains come. Minimum-till gardening is recommended for these areas. Minimum-till gardening uses a winter cover crop to prevent soil erosion. Till in the fall to prepare the soil for seeding the cover crop. In the spring, turn the cover crop under as a green manure crop.

Spring plowing is also recommended for sandy soils and those where only shallow tilling is practiced. Generally, all gardens require light tilling and cultivation in the spring to kill weeds and smooth the soil for planting.

As an alternative to standard plowing and tilling procedures, minimum-till gardening known as conservation tillage, is ideal when transplanting tomatoes into the vegetable garden. Here are the steps you want to follow:

Step 1. In the fall, prepare the soil for cover crop seeding. Tilling under all summer crop wastes. Remove tomato vines and/or corn stalks to make tilling easier.

Step 2. Plant a cover crop that combines winter rye and hairy vetch (2 lbs. of winter rye grain and 3/4 lb. of hairy vetch per 1000 square feet). The rye provides a mulching surface for spring planting. Hairy vetch, a legume, contributes beneficial nitrogen to the soil. The vetch seed must be coated with Rhizobium inoculant prior to seeding to insure nodulation with nitrogen-fixing bacteria.

Step 3. In the spring, use a scythe or string-line trimmer to reduce the height of the crop cover. Rake off the extra grass and put to the side of the planting row. Use a lawn mower to finish trimming the cover.

Step 4. A week later, mow the area again. Now the area is ready for planting. Dig a wide hole for each plant, large enough to accommodate for root spread. Pull weeds in the surrounding area including any cover crop roots. Water in the plants or use a water-soluble fertilizer according to the directions on the label. If available, put a quart of compost in the planting hole. Mulch the entire area between plants with the clippings that were removed the previous week. Leave 6 to 8 inches of space around the base of plants to allow the soil to warm up quickly.

Step 5. Additional mulch hay may be needed for proper weed control. Use grass clippings or shredded leaves saved from the previous fall. If weeds appear, pull them by hand If hoeing is needed, try to keep the blade from disturbing the transplants.

Step 6. Repeat the process the following fall. You may want to experiment with small plots rather than your entire garden.

To learn more about minimum till gardening, ask for USDA publication #FB-229 titled: Sustainable Production of Fresh-Market Tomatoes with Organic Mulches by Aref A. Abdul-Baki.

Horse School Expands

A third farm has joined Grazing Acres and KA Equestrian Center in running a series of Schooling Horse Shows this season.

Meadow Stables of Unionville is the third sponsoring stable for the series, now named the Triangle Series.

Grazing Acres is located in New London and KA Equestrian is located in Cochranville, so series participants can "travel the Triangle" for the nine scheduled shows.

The series begins on Sunday, May 10, at Grazing Acres with Pam Tawes of Chester Springs as judge, runs through the summer, and concludes on November 1 at Fox Meadow.

A year-end banquet will be held following the November 1 show to present season high point awards.

In addition to series-end awards, Championship and Reserve Champion ribbons will be awarded in each division at each show.

New for this season is a three-class Leadline division, open to riders of any age, and a Baby Green division for horses and ponies in their first year of showing. The "money" classes are also being expanded, with cash prizes offered in Pleasure, Low Hunter, and Hunter.

Western classes, which can be difficult to find locally, will continue to be held, and Western riders are also encouraged to show in the Pleasure, Leadline, and equitation divisions.

Ag Women Learn How To Get The Most Out Of Life

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Family relationships can be the most rewarding and the most frustrating. Combine them with operating the family farm, and the realities of human nature often surface.

"The family farm should exist to serve the family and not the other way around," said Ron Eberhard, motivational seminar leader and humorist.

Eberhard was one of the speakers at the day-long Women In Agriculture Seminar sponsored by Monsanto last week. Held at State College, seminar topics dealt with how to get the most out of life from farm profits to family relationships.

Eberhard poked fun at the idiosyncracies of family relationships while giving rules to set up the groundwork to keep the farm and the family operating happily together.

Eberhard's research is drawn from his work in helping 602 families in 43 states and from his own experiences. After college he had returned to the 210-acre family farm to farm in partnership without a written agreement.

"I was fired by my own father," Eberhard said. Through the experience Eberhard recognized the need for better communication among farm families and the need to put every verbal agreement in writing. He heads Eberhard Planning Services to help other families work together successfully.

He explained the dynamics that cause frustration and tattered relationships.

Eberhard tackles sticky family business problems with a list of 'Ron's Rules," which include some of the following:

- Have a business plan.
- Limit farm ownership to family members involved in the business.
- Always put a business plan together as if the business was going to end.
- Listen to what is being said and to what is not being said.
- Best way to set up a business is to plan as if you are working with the enemy.
- Communicate goals to people who can help achieve them.
- Primary reasons we need agreements in writing is because we are family.
- Whenever children are involved in the family business, the children should know the details of the family estate.
- There is no independent financial decision. Every decision affects someone else.
- Nothing is so unequal as giving equal treatment to unequal people.
- Most family businesses are always cash short.
- Life insurance is the best way to transfer.
- How generous you are with written plans should also depend on who (spouses) your children brought home.

In the afternoon session, Eberhard used a series of quotes in a humorous and entertaining manner to emphasize the importance of good family relationships.

To improve communication, Eberhard challenged the audience to learn to change communIcation, where too much emphasis is on the "I" to commUcation, in which listening to the other person is the most valuable tool in handling problems.

Eberhard addressed the need to learn to handle setbacks and disappointments. He told of his family's struggle when a granddaughter was born with Down's syndrome and of their ultimate acceptance of it with joy.

"A single word that can make all the difference is 'faith.' God doesn't give us faith in advance," Eberhard said.

Brad Hilty, owner and chief consultant of PLS Agrimanagement Associates, laid out the groundwork to do a financial analysis and to develop a strategic business plan. During the afternoon session, Hilty also taught a workshop on how farm software and the Internet can save time and money.

Hilty said that on the road where he grew up, there were about 50 dairy farms. That number is now reduced to two.

"We are at a crossroads in the dairy business, not only due to technology but also as a business," he said of the need to remain solvent. "You must manage as a business, not as a family farm."

Hilty has worked with more than 250 farm families to analyze farming businesses and to establish strategies that enable many of them to improve the profitability, liquidity, and solvency of the family business.

He has developed loan proposals and obtained financing for major dairy expansions and business restructuring for approximately 60 farming businesses, ranging from 200 to 500 cows.

Fluctuating milk prices and drought and wet weather make it difficult to establish financial plans, but Hilty showed how graphing milk prices and crop yields over a 10-year period comes out with a fairly consistent average. Milk price trends from 1987 through 1997 showed an average $14 for both the first five years and the latter five.

The ability to thrive and survive is necessary despite dealing with record grain prices but poor forage quality, low milk prices, and drought.

Hilty said that changes in the dairy industry has been brought about from less government involvement, restructuring of the milk pricing system and marketing order, shift of production centers, decreasing number of farms, and a change in philosophy.

Why do you need a dairy business plan?

"Dairying is a complex business and a business plan will greatly increase your chance of succeeding. It serves like a road map for the future and as a blueprint for success. More and more lenders are requiring one," Hilty said.

A business dairy plan should be enacted prior to major changes, such as an expansion, debt restructuring, adding a partner, shifting enterprises, or when exiting or transferring the business.

Hilty said that a plan is ineffective unless a strategy is developed for implementing it.

"Set up a monitoring system," he said.

Identifying a mission statement can be the most difficult part of your plan, but it need not be. A possible example could be to be a leading producer of high quality breeding stock.

Hilty said the plan should be based upon a review of the past five years' records—not tax records, but profit margins and working capital compared to debt ratio.

Certain mathmatical formulas can be helpful when determining efficency ratios of the business but are not always the total picture. A general rule of thumb is that 65 percent or less of income should be used for paying expenses before salaries for yourself and other farm workers are deducted.

In the past, an acceptable debt per cow was $2,000-$2,500, and that certainly allows a better chance of financial survival, Hilty said. But some cows provide much more income through high production. A better formula would perhaps be 1.5 times cow producing income. Some cows can carry as high as a $5,000 debt load and still be acceptable.

"Earnings on a cow before interest, taxes, and depreciation can be an average of $400 to $450 per cow, but the actual goal should be $750 to $1,000 per cow," Hilty said.

To examine if you are overmechanized, you need to look at production costs per unit and labor efficiencies. "Sometimes it is financially better to replace machinery rather than keep repairing it," Hilty said.

"Poor forage quality and low cow comfort can put you out of business. There is no difference between productive versus nonproductive expenses," Hilty said.

As a rule of thumb, each farm worker should be able to generate $250,000 for a $25,000 income.

Because the conference was sponsored by Monsanto, the day-long event included a session by Dr. Jennifer Garrett, technical services specialist for Monsanto, and a panel discussion about the usage of Posilac, a natural hormone used to boost milk production. Panel participants Rhonda Laudenslager, Karen Hawbaker, Chambersburg; and Melanie Richman of New Jersey talked about their attitudes and experiences in using Posilac, better known as bovine somatotropin.

Several participants not using Posilac and with no plans to do so in the future said that they found the session informative and interesting.

Kay Slusser, who with her husband was a former Holstein breeder and now head of Pennsylvania DHIA, taught a session on time management tips for farm wives, which appeared in last week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Boxes of Cereal, Wishing Jars Teach Lessons

Last week, by governor proclamation, Pennsylvania recognized Savings and Investing Week. One of the week's goal was to urge adults to teach children about money.

Last weekend, while grocery shopping, I saw a boy struggling to read the price of a box of cereal on the top shelf. "How 'bout this one, Dad? How much is it?

I helped him read the price – $2.99. "No. Whatever kind you pick has to be less than $2 per box." I was so impressed with that family's rule. The child had freedom to choose a cereal, but he was learning to read prices and make choices within limits.

Children don't have built-in skills. They need to be taught. They learn in two main ways – observation and experience. First, realize that children and grandchildren are absorbing lessons from you by listening to you and watching you.

Second, they learn from experience. A common way to give children experience is through an allowance. Most financial educators believe that the amount of an allowance should not be solely tied to doing chores. Each child should receive a base amount of money. She should also complete routine chores. If she wants to earn additional money, she can tackle other, less ordinary jobs. Once given the money, he should be able to use it as he wishes.

A common mistake adults make is to give an allowance and then totally control how it can be used. This doesn't teach the child anything. Another mistake parents make is to rescue the child once she's spent the allowance by giving her cash or loaning her money when "something came up." One of the best learning experiences a child may have is to sit home on a Saturday while all her friends are at the movies because she spent her money on some earrings earlier in the week. Having an experience like this may come back to her when she's thinking about housewarming parties and filling her first home with furniture. Allowing children to experience discomfort in small doses may keep them from very painful financial experiences later on.

Parents should discuss what items a child should be financially responsible for. It is reasonable to expect a child who receives an allowance to pay for his refreshments at the movies or at the Little League game. A teen who spends a lot of time "on-line" should be asked to pay a portion of the computer bill (maybe the amount due above the base charge).

This spring as you discuss vacation options, include your children. Set a dollar amount that can be spent. Write down a budget and see how each of the options fits into the plan. This is a valuable planning experience for the child. And if you have never planned for expenses before leaving on a trip, you'll benefit, too.

One tool I encourage all families to use is the "wishing jar." This is used when a person really wants an item and has the money for it. Write the item and today's date on a slip of paper and place it in the jar. Wait for 30 days to pass. If the item is still what the person wants most to spend his money on, then consider purchasing the item. With children, often the item has changed. If it has, write the new item down, and start the process again. This is a way to fight against the trend toward immediate gratification. Being able to wait is a valuable quality.

One caution I would give parents of older children is to avoid the urge to co-sign for a credit card. College students are bombarded with credit card offers. If they choose to get a card, it should be based on their own financial assets. And (as often occurs) if they get into credit trouble, they need to deal with the co sequences, even if it means starting out their adult life with a blemish on their credit record or being denied a loan because of poor management. Let them learn now.

I think Sarah Kornfield, age 10 from Dallas, summed it up well. When asked, "What are the most important things you have learned about money and investing?" she responded, "First, I know to save money for the things I really want. Second, stocks are a better investment than banks. Third, I should not spend all my money on myself but should be willing to give some away. Last, but not least, money doesn't grow on trees – I need a good job!" Obviously, some adults were taking their job of teaching seriously. Take time to do the same.

HAPPENINGS

Gum Tree 4-H

Gum Tree 4-H will be having its 26th fundraiser horse show on Sunday, April 19, at KA Equestrian Center, Cochranville.

This is the only fund raising activity for this 4-H Club. Money earned from the program and class entries support all of the club activities for the upcoming year.

The show begins at 8:30 a.m. and features Kathy Bradley of Port Deposit as the judge. There will be Hunter, Western, and Saddle Seat classes.

Gum Tree always gives a prize as well as a ribbon for first place in each class and more substantial prizes for division championships, making this a popular show for participants. Call (610)869-0746 for prize lists and/or information.

Gum Tree is one of the largest 4-H Horse and Pony clubs in Pennsylvania and has over 65 members.

QUESTION — A reader tasted a delicious cottage cheese soup at the Red Fox Inn at Snowshoe. Does anyone have a recipe for cottage cheese soup.

ANSWER — A. Keller, Fisher, W.V., wanted a recipe for French toast. Thanks to Eileen Greenaway, Somerville, N.J., for sending several recipes.

Caribbean French Toast

½ orange juice
¼ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 large egg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
6 1-inch thick slices French bread
2 tablespoons butter, divided
Powdered sugar

Combine first six ingredients in 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Place bread slice in mixture; turn slices to coat evenly. Let stand 5 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in a large skillet. Add 3 slices bread; cook over medium heat 3 minutes on each side or until golden brown. Repeat with remaining slices. Sift powdered sugar over toast; serve with maple syrup. Serves 3-4.

Overnight French Toast Deluxe

8 slices French bread, ¾ -inch thick
4 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons orange juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons butter
Powdered sugar mixed with a little cinnamon

Place bread in a 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Combine egg, milk, salt, sugar, orange juice, and vanilla; beat well. Pour over bread slices and turn slices to coat evenly. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Melt butter in large skillet. Saute bread in butter on each side until golden brown. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

RICE DELIGHT

2 cups white rice
1 onion, minced
4 tablespoons butter
4 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
2 beef bouillon cubes
¾ cup seedless raisins
½ cup slivered almonds
1 teaspoon ginger (or to taste)
½ teaspoon cinnmaon (or to taste)

Saute rice with onion in butter 3-5 minutes. Add water, salt, and bouillon cubes. Bring to a boil, cover and reduce heat. Cook 20 minutes. Add raisins, almonds, ginger, and cinnamon. Serve immediately in heated bowl. Serves 6-8.

ROAST LEG OF LAMB

5-6 pound leg of lamb
1 clove garlic, slivered
3-4 fresh mint sprigs, finely chopped
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon ground thyme
1 medium onion, cut into eighths
⅓ cup dry sherry
⅓ cup mint jelly

Make several slits in lamb and insert garlic slivers. Combine mint sprigs, salt, pepper and thyme; rub on roast. Layer onion in roasting pan and place roast on onions. Insert meat thermometer making sure it does not touch bone or fat. Bake at 325 degrees for 2-2½ hours. Combine sherry and mint jelly. Glaze roast with mixture; bake an additional 30 minutes or until thermometer registers 160 degrees. Let stand 10 minutes before carving. Serves 8-10.

CIRAK (EASTER CHEESE) EGG ROLL

12 eggs
1 quart whole milk
¾ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon fresh cracked pepper
Pinch of salt

Pour milk into saucepan and bring to a boil, being careful not to scorch. Beat eggs slightly. Add one cup of the boiled milk into eggs while mixing. Pour this mixture back into the remainder of milk. Add pepper, salt, and sugar. Stir constantly so mixture will not scorch. Cook over low heat for about seven minutes.

Line a one-quart bowl with double thickness of cheese cloth. Pour mixture into bowl. Gather up ends of cheese cloth and squeeze by turning ends. Tie securely with string. Hang and let drain for two hours. Cover with aluminum foil and place in refrigerator. Will keep fresh for several days. To serve, slice cheese in half and then into slices.

As part of the Easter dinner, I serve this as an appetizer on a platter with sliced baked kielbasa, beets, and horseradish. My children love it and make sure I make it every Easter. My mother made this for Easter, as did her mother who came from Slovakia.

SWEET AND SOUR CARROTS

1 pound carrots, diagonally sliced
1 medium green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
8-ounce can pineapple chunks with juice
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Cook carrots, covered, in small amount of salted water until tender. Add green pepper. Cover and cook 3 minutes more; drain. Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Add water to juice to make ⅓ cup liquid if needed. In saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Stir in pineapple liquid, vinegar, and soy. Cook, stirring until bubbly. Stir in vegetables and pineapple. Heat through. Makes a pretty and colorful dish. Serves 6-8.

ANSWER — Carolyn Stear, Home, wanted a pancake recipe that tastes similar to that served by the Perkin's restaurant chain. She also would like pancake recipes that taste like those served by other restaurants. What is the best substance to use on the griddle to get nice even brown pancakes? She'd also like other information and cooking techniques for pancakes. Charles Strouse, Perkasie, writes that he agrees Perkin's pancakes are good, but he suggests she tries a bag of pancake mix from Golden Barrel made by Good Foods in Honey Brook and sold in many supermarkets.

Thanks to Eileen Greenaway, Somerville, N.J., who writes that the best substance to use to get pancakes that are a nice even brown is butter. Here are two recipes she enjoys.

Best Ever Buttermilk Pancakes

1¾ cups flour
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups buttermilk
2-4 tablespoons butter, melted

Sift flour before measuring; then resift with sugar, baking powder and baking soda. Mix eggs with buttermilk. Combine dry ingredients with liquid ingredients with a few quick strokes; then add butter. Mix with as few strokes as possible. Batter will be lumpy. Bake on hot buttered skillet until browned on each side. Makes about 20 4-inch pancakes.

German Pancakes

6 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons sugar
3⅓ cups milk
⅓ cup salad oil
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat together yolks, sugar, milk, and oil. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt; add to milk mixture and fold in egg whites. Bake on hot buttered skillet until browned on both sides. Serves 6.

ANSWER — Concerning Sally Reinaehl's request for making better bread, M. V. Runkles III, Parkton, Md., writes that she has been making her own bread for more than 30 years. You need to obtain wheat that is high in gluten, which is milled from hard, red, winter wheat. Some supermarkets carry bread flour, but she orders it from King Arthur Flour, Norwich, Vermont, and from Stafford Flour Mills Co. of Hudson, Kan. Another source is bulk food stores.

Thanks to Arvilla Keeny, New Freedom, who writes that the following recipe produces light and airy bread. She also stresses the importance of using western (hard) wheat. Bread should have just enough flour that you can handle it without it sticking to your fingers much. Do not add too much flour.

Enriched White Bread

1 tablespoon shortening
2 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon yeast
6½ to 6¾ cups bread flour
2¼ cups lukewarm water

Put shortening, sugar, salt, and water in bowl. Sprinkle yeast in. Stir yeast into the water. Let dissolve. Add flour. Stir. Knead until smooth and satiny (about 8 minutes). Or mix on a mixer with a dough hook. Mix on low, the run on medium a few minutes. Grease bowl. Cover and let stand until double in bulk. Punch down. Let rise again until double. Make into 2 large or 3 small loaves. Grease pans and put loaves in them. Let rise until double. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

(Turn to Page B11)

TIPSY SQUIRE

12 ladyfingers
½ cup apricot jam
½ cup sherry
Soft custard recipe
1 cup heavy cream
¼ cup toasted, slivered almonds

Split ladyfingers and put together sandwich fashion with jam. Arrange in single layr in shallow dessert dish. Pour sherry slowly over ladyfingers and chill at least one hour. Pour custard over ladyfingers. Whip cream and mound on top. Scatter almonds on cream and chill until ready to serve. May be made a day ahead.

Soft custard: Scald 1½ cups milk in top of double boiler. Beat together 3 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, and 4 egg yolks. Gradually stir in small amount of hot milk. Stir back into milk and put over simmering water. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens and coats metal spoon. Remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool then chill before pouring over ladyfingers.

Treat Crabgrass Now

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – In mid- to late summer, some homeowners may see crabgrass taking over their lawn and head to the garden center. Unfortunately, according to a turfgrass specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, there is little that can be done about crabgrass in summer. The time to kill crabgrass is now – in early spring.

"Crabgrass is a summer annual grass weed," explains Peter Landschoot, associate professor of turfgrass science. "That means the plant starts growing in the spring or early summer and is killed by the first frost in fall. During its life cycle a crabgrass plant can produce thousands of seeds, which will infest your lawn and germinate the following year."

Landschoot says that your first line of defense against crabgrass is to use good cultural practices – such as proper fertilization, mowing and irrigation – to thicken the lawn and "crowd out" the weeds. "This should help to cut down the amount of crabgrass in the lawn, but good cultural practices may not eliminate the problem," he says. "Where crabgrass is a stubborn problem, homeowners can apply a 'pre-emergence' herbicide designed to kill the plant before it starts to grow."

Most pre-emergence herbicides are marketed as weed-and-feed products; that is, herbicide and fertilizer rolled into one. The herbicide and fertilizer are granulated, allowing homeowners to use spreaders to apply herbicide while fertilizing at the same time.

Landschoot warns homeowners not to grab the first weed-and-feed product they find at the garden center. "There are two types of weed-and-feed products: one for crabgrass and another for broadleaf weeds, such as dandelions," he says. "In addition, crabgrass control must be used in early spring, while broadleaf weed controls are most effective in late spring."

If homeowners cannot distinguish between the two weed-and-feed products, Landschoot strongly suggests asking a garden center employee or the manager for help.

"A common backyard rule of thumb is to apply crabgrass herbicide when forsythia blooms begin to drop off the plant," Landschoot says. "But that doesn't always work, so it's better to go by date."

Southeastern Pennsylvania: March 15 to April 15.

Northern tier and high-altitude counties: April 20 to May 20.

Other Pennsylvania areas: April 1 to May 1.

"Spring seems to be coming early this year, so homeowners probably should apply earlier in those time frames," Landschoot explains.

Landschoot also says that most herbicide applications will not provide 100 percent control, but they will eliminate most of the crabgrass plaguing a lawn for the remainder of the growing season.

Landschoot warns against applying a pre-emergence crabgrass herbicide in the summer or fall. The herbicide is not effective once the crabgrass is visible in the lawn. If you miss your spring treatment, let the frost kill the plants in fall, then consider making an application next year.

"Most pre-emergence herbicide also will kill lawn grass seedlings, so don't overseed your lawn for three to four months after using a pre-emergence products."

These two Lineback calves need names. Visit the Landis Valley Museum to see them and enter the Calf-Naming Contest.

Watch the age-old process of sheering sheep by hand, which will be demonstrated at the Landis Valley Museum on April 18-19.

Mother's Day Idea

Mother's Day is May 10. Here's an idea to surprise your mother with a special tribute. Write a few sentences telling us what you like about her. Include a picture if you can. Make sure that you include your name and address.

Submissions will be printd in the May 9th issue but must be received in our office by May 4. Send the information to Lancaster Farming's Kid's Korner. Attention Lou Ann Good. P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

Calf-Naming Contest

LOU ANN GOOD

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Ever want to name a calf?

Enter the calf-naming contest to be held at the Landis Valley Museum from April 18 through May 6.

Timothy Essig, museum educator, said that the museum recently acquired two Lineback heifer calves that need names. Lineback cows are identified as one of the earliest breeds mentioned in the American colonies. Lineback cattle are appropriate for the Landis Valley Museum, which is the largest Pennsylvania German Museum in the nation.

On May 9, two grand prize winners will be selected from all the entries received. The winners will receive four complimentary passes to the Landis Valley Civil War Weekend on July 18-19 and for Harvest Days on Oct. 10-11.

A special weekend, "Talk to the Animals," is set for April 18-19. The grounds will open on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Sunday from 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Two Clydesdale horses, Prince and Chief, each weighing about a ton, will be used to pull historical farm equipment.

Experienced volunteers will work with Landis Valley's sheep in the historic log farm area. They will demonstrate the age-old process of sheering sheep by hand.

Tickets are required. Admission fee is $7 for adults or $6.50 for groups and seniors; $5 for 6-12 year-olds; children under 6 free; or $19 for one-household families.

The museum is open daily Monday through Friday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The museum is operated by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and supported by Landis Valley Associates.

Landis Valley Museum is located 2.5 miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 272 Oregon Pike, a marked exit off both Route 30 and Route 222. For more information, call 1-800-564-5984 or (717) 569-0401, extension 212.

Why does a carrot have hair?
That's right — the orange crunchy vegetable could use a shave.
The hairs are easier to see if you pull a carrot directly from the ground. But if you leave a store-bought carrot wrapped in a plastic bag in a warm, moist spot, the fine hairs most likely will start to grow again.
Carrots can't help the 5 o'clock shadow. The tiny, fine hairs that cover most of the carrot help the plant absorb water and minerals from the surrounding soil.
Plants usually have one of two kinds of roots. All roots, no matter what kind, hold plants in the soil, absorb water and minerals, and store excess food for the plants where animals are less likely to find it.
Fibrous roots send out a lot of tiny roots over a large area of soil. Because there are so many, the roots usually don't have to go very deep into the soil. Grass and trees have these roots. The other kind of root, called tap roots, have one or two main roots that push deep into the soil. Carrots and parsnip are two kinds of tap roots. (But not all underground veggies are tap roots. Radishes and beets have tap roots, but the fleshy part you eat forms above the root.)
Tap roots are able to store a lot of excess food because they can enlarge in diameter as well as length. When the tops die back, the plant uses the stored food to grow new foliage and the flower stalk the following spring — and it's that extra food that makes the root such a tasty treat.

Choose Right Lawn Care Products

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – Before you resign yourself to having another mediocre lawn this year – or to spending a hefty part of your salary to improve it – take a few tips from a turfgrass specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Revitalizing your lawn doesn't need to be a costly, time-consuming process," says Peter Landschoot, associate professor of turfgrass science. "It's more a question of correctly evaluating the trouble spots before you invest in solutions."

•Soil Test. The Penn State soil fertility test, which tells consumers how much fertilizer and lime are required, is available for a nominal fee at Penn State Cooperative Extension offices across the state. The test helps determine what nutrients the lawn needs and when to apply them.

•Weeds. The least costly way to control weeds is to follow good lawn management practices designed to prevent reinfestation. A sound program of mowing, watering and fertilizing is your best defense against weed invasion, Landschoot says.

"Before purchasing herbicides, first identify the weeds you want to control," he says. "If you're unsure what the weed is, or how to control it, don't just guess what product would be best. Bring a sample of the weed to a lawn and garden center or to your county Cooperative Extension office and get a professional recommendation.

•Weed Control. "Most weed problems can be reduced by using a weed-and-feed product – herbicide and fertilizer rolled into one," Landschoot says. He recommends buying or renting a spreader to ensure that the product is distributed evenly across the lawn. Homeowners should be sure to identify what types of weeds are in the lawn before choosing a product. Not all weed-and-feed products are the same.

•Read Labels. When it comes to fertilizers and herbicides, more isn't necessarily better, says Landschoot. "Follow the instructions on the label. Not only are you wasting money if you apply more than the recommended amount, you could damage the grass."

•Timing. "To combat crabgrass, you have to apply herbicide before the weed germinates," Landschoot says. "Some people use forsythia bloom as an indicator, but a good rule of thumb is to apply a pre-emergence herbicide before April 15 in southeastern Pennsylvania, during late April in central Pennsylvania, and between May 1 and May 15 in the northwest corner of the state.

"For broadleaf weeds, such as dandelion and clover, wait until the weeds appear before treating them," Landschoot says.

Before purchasing grass seed to replenish thin areas, homeowners should assess why the grass disappeared in the first place. "Ask yourself if the lawn was too wet, too shady or poor in fertility before you spend time and money trying to replace the grass," he says.

"The best time to reseed is in late summer or fall, when there isn't much competition from weeds. If you apply herbicides in spring, you can damage young seedlings.

"When it's time to reseed, you don't just throw seed on the lawn," he says. "First, get rid of weeds, break up the soil surface and put down the seed so it makes good contact with the soil. Place straw mulch over the area so the soil doesn't dry out."

Choose a high quality seed or seed mixture adapted to the site conditions, says Landschoot. For more information about specific varieties suited to your area, contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in your county.

Goulash

1 pound box macaroni
1 pound ground beef or turkey
28-ounce can crushed tomatoes
8-ounce bag shredded cheddar cheese
8-ounce bag shredded mozzarella cheese
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook macaroni as directed on box. Brown ground meat in separate pan and drain. Mix macaroni, meat, and tomatoes well. Add sugar. Over very low heat, add cheese, stir continuously until all cheese is melted.

ANSWER — Janet Spangler, York Springs, sends a recipe requested by Beverly Bishop of Landisburg.

Cocoanut Bon-Bons

2⅓ cups macaroon cocoanut
¾ cup Karo (red label)
1 pound melting chocolate wafers

Mix well and cool. Shape into eggs and dip in one pound melted milk chocolate wafers. Macaroon coconut and milk chocolate disks can be purchased in the bulk food section of supermarkets.

ANSWER — Thanks to Eileen Greenaway, Somerville, N.J., who sends spinach recipes requested by Bonita Martin.

Spinach Souffle

10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach
1 teaspoon lemon seasoned salt
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten until light
1 cup sharp shredded cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon horseradish
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Cook spinach 10-12 minutes and drain, pressing out excess liquid. Melt butter and add flour, milk, salt, and pepper. Add egg yolks, cheese and remaining seasonings. Add spinach. Allow mixture to cool completely then fold in egg whites. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes in a greased 1½ quart casserole. Serves 4-6. May be frozen.

Creamed Spinach

2 10-ounce packages frozen spinach
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
8-ounces cream cheese, cut into pieces
1 tablespoon milk
½ teaspoon pepper
Parsley for garnish

Cook spinach, onion, and salt 10-12 minutes (covered) in boiling water. Drain, pressing out excess liquid. Return spinach to saucepan and add cheese, milk, and pepper. Cook over low heat until cheese melts and mixture is well blended, stirring constantly. Garnish with parsley. Serves 6.

Thanks to Anna Martin, Denver, for sending this spinach recipe for Bonita.

Popeye's Favorite Snack

1 cup herb seasoned stuffing mix, crushed to crumbs or bread crumbs toasted and seasoned.
⅓ cup grated parmesan cheese
3 eggs, beaten
1 onion, chopped
4 tablespoons butter, melted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, cook spinach according to package directions and drain well. Combine spinach with remaining ingredients, mixing well. Roll into walnut-sized balls. Bake at 350 degrees on ungreased cookie sheet for 10 minutes. Then can be frozen before cooking. Without thawing, bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Fun in lunches.

Grandfather Builds Trucks To Benefit Grandchildren's School

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — For 45 years, Earl Horst milked cows in the New Holland area. During some of those years he ran a truck hauling business. Occasionally he'd think about trying woodworking, but he never had time until he retired in 1992.

Then Horst built a truck—not just any truck—but a Peterbilt one like those he owned. People oohed and awhed over it and begged to buy one, but Horst maintains, "I don't take orders and don't sell them."

He might not sell them, but that doesn't mean that you can't buy one of his handcrafted works of art.

Horst has donated one to the Manheim Christian Day School Benefit Sale to be held Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, at the school located along Rt. 72, one mile north of Manheim square.

"I did it for the grandchildren," Horst said of three of his 14 grandchildren who attend the school.

Horst has previously donated a few to other benefit sales. One went for a bid of $3,200.

"But don't put that in or it might scare off the bidders," Horst said.

A few of his other donations brought bids such as $2,200, $1,800, $800, and $270.

Horst makes the truck without any pattern. Although each one is a bit different, Horst said, "I always try to make each one a little bit better, and it gets easier every time."

The wooden van trucks are fashioned from oak and cherry woods, complete with air hoses, handle on the exhaust, a steering wheel, seats, and beds in the bunk. It takes a lot of painting, sanding, and varnishing until the trucks are finished, but Horst is uncertain how many hours. He said, "I don't get tired of making them. It's not like a job. It's just something that I do whenever I feel like it."

It's the 22nd year for the school benefit auction, which will include a new feature this year. On Friday at 7 p.m., a children's auction will be held by auctioning off students' class projects. The actual auction will begin at 6 p.m. on Friday with Winross trucks to be sold at 8 p.m.

As usual, Ken Stoner will be making his famous chicken barbeque chicken with sales to begin at 3 p.m. In addition to the chicken halves and dinners being available in the school gym, the chicken will also be sold at Manheim's Gazebo on the Square and at Longenecker's Hardware Store.

Soft ice cream with strawberry topping and an assortment of desserts can be purchased to complete the meal.

Art and 30 quilts in both original and traditional designs will be on display Friday evening and sold at the Saturday auction.

Saturday's activities begin with an old-fashioned country breakfast served from 6 to 10 a.m. Auction action begins at 9 a.m.

Some items of interest include handpainted fabric, the Abner Zook 3-dimensional picture, a Windsor infant cradle, antique secretarial desk, and handcrafted bird house from Tennessee.

The Manheim Christian Day School Benefit Auction on April 24-25, will be held at the school located along Rt. 72, 1 mile north of the square. Look for the big tents.

For more information, call the school at (717) 665-4300.

Life Skills Education

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) – Agency personnel and volunteers who work with individuals, groups, and families with limited resources should attend the Life Skills Education Training on Wednesday, April 29, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m at the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Government Services Center, Suite 370, 601 Westtown Road, West Chester

Learn how to teach your clients parenting skills, home care and cleaning techniques, housing laws and myths, nutrition basics and healthy habits, and money management facts. Instructors for the course are Penn State Extension Agents.

The $30 registration fee includes a notebook of educational materials and supplemental information organized into mini-lessons for clients. Class size is limited so register early! The registration deadline is April 22.

Science Fair Students Examine Natural Defenses Of Cotton, Eggs

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Like the scientist who discovered plastic, researchers — of any age — can turn up some surprising facts.

Just ask Polly Leonhard, 17, a junior at Ephrata High School. The daughter of John and Karen Leonhard, Ephrata, became the grand champion of the recent Lancaster Science and Engineering Fair.

Polly chose an independent science project that involved the use of cotton that contains color from its own natural genetics. What some would consider "organic" cotton, from a more wild origin, according to Polly, has its own pest resistance built in. The more commercial varieties, bred to form the pure whiteness to allow for the use of dyes, don't have the same kind of natural resistance.

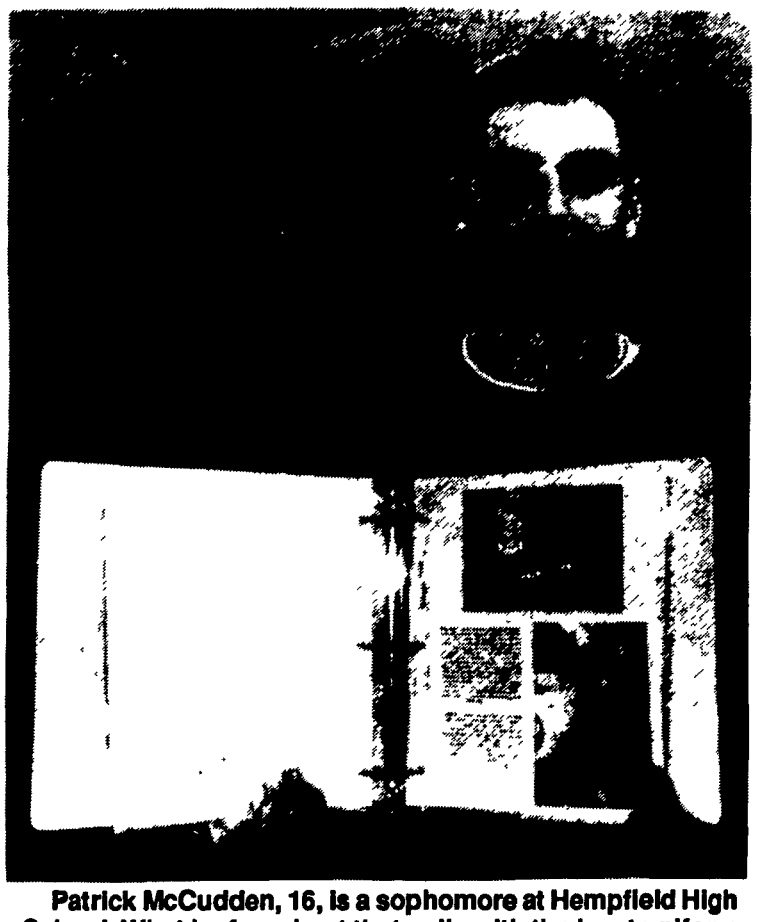
Or ask Sarah Woodling, 16, a junior at Hempfield High School, Landisville. The daughter of Russell and Barbara Woodling, Landisville, Sarah found out some interesting information in the second year of a two-year study, "A Comparison of European and American Egg Processing and Storage Methods." Her second-place project in the biology division discovered that boiling whole eggs for only 7-10 seconds can preserve them for up to 3 months.

But even more revealing was the fact that Sarah found Europeans are forbidden to process eggs like Americans do. And the processes that eggs undergo to make them look completely clean and sanitary to a consuming public actually remove the "cuticle," a natural substance in the shell that serves as a natural defense and anti-spoilage barrier to the egg.

Ephrata's Polly Leonhard and another winner, Gregory Plotner, champion of the senior division for his five-year study on stream water purification, will voyage with Hempfield High School science instructor Robert Hertzler to the 49th International Science and Engineering Fair in Fort Worth, Texas, May 10-16. There, about 1,000 students and another 1,000 judges will be on hand to look at the country's brightest young scientists.

Here's a description of each of the projects that highlight agriculture and related scientific studies by the best minds at the fair, held at Franklin and Marshall College March 19.

Polly Leonhard, 17, is a junior at Ephrata High School. The daughter of John and Karen Leonhard, Ephrata, became the grand champion of the recent Lancaster Science and Engineering Fair.



Patrick McCudden, 16, is a sophomore at Hempfield High School. What he found out that soils with the least uniform particle size have the potential to be the most erosion prone. In his project, "The Effectiveness of Erosion Control Methods On Various Soils," Patrick found out that Duffield and Beddington silt loams can be worrisome for erosion. Patrick, son of David and June McCudden, placed first in the earth/environmental science category in competition at the county science fair.

Polly's Studies On Cotton

Polly Leonhard, Ephrata High School junior, came across a copy of Mother Earth News that contained a story on naturally colored cotton. Polly admitted she knew "nothing about cotton" before reading about a grower who discovered some ancient seeds grown in South America.

Originally, cotton had natural colors — pastels such as green, brown, red, and mocha (light brown).

In the magazine was a story about a company called Planet Vision Pure Organic that sold fabric and T-shirts in the naturally colored cotton.

So Polly contacted a grower, Mark Wilkes, from Meadow, Texas, and began growing her own plants in the Ephrata High School greenhouse. She began a study eventually called "A New Crop for Pennsylvania: Gossypium hirsutum Research For Improved Strength, Shortened Growing Season, and Increased Wax Content."

This "organic" cotton had a more wild origin and was more pest-resistant than commercial, white cotton. The cotton changes color because of the effects of sunlight.

She planted the seeds for the first colored cotton in January 1996, including nine varieties. She also planted an organic, natural "white" cotton. Polly became intrigued with the notion that, in the commercial industry, a lot of chemical dyes are used to provide the color for cotton. She wondered, could there be a way to find colors without environmental worries?

The cotton was grown in the greenhouse until May 1996. Afterward, the plants were taken outside to grow. At the end of August to early September, the plants defoliated and the bolls opened. Like commercial harvesters, Polly had to return a few times to "harvest" the bolls. By the end of September, 1996, the cotton harvest was complete.

Polly entered the science fair in 1997 and entered again this year. But this year delved more deeply into "qualitative" tests of the cotton grown, including wax content of the cotton (a higher level is beneficial in processing); seed index, or the mass and weight of seeds; germination tests; staple length, which looking into how long the fibers are (Pennsylvania white cotton's staple length went as long as 1¼ inches); and a stickiness test, or how much fiber can be expected to stick to machinery or metal.

Other tests looked into fiber strength, fiber elongation, upper length, short fiber content, and micronaire (which measures fineness and maturity). The grower, noted Polly, "wants to have cotton with the longest fiber, strongest fiber, and low micronaire (meaning they want it more fine), with good wax content."

Growers are also looking for improved upper length and uniformity of the fibers — and she found this consistently in the colored cotton from Pennsylvania. Polly wants to try breeding for improved red natural colored cotton, perhaps

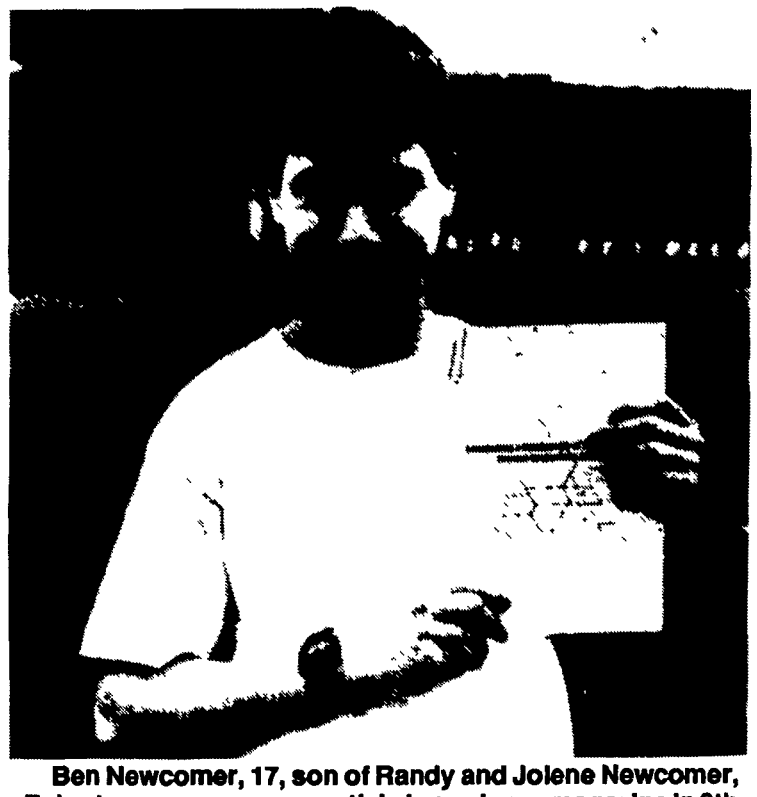
Sarah Woodling, 16, is a junior at Hempfield High School, Landisville. The daughter of Russell and Barbara Woodling, Landisville, Sarah found out some interesting information in the second year of a two-year study, "A Comparison of European and American Egg Processing and Storage Methods."



Ben Newcomer, 17, son of Randy and Jolene Newcomer, Ephrata, came across an article in a science magazine in 9th grade about using electro-osmosis in soil remidiation. Simply put, Ben was fascinated by how electrical streams decreased the friction of a rotating drill bit and added to depth of penetration. Ben wondered, could electricity be used to "move" contaminants out of the soil?

with a natural Pennsylvania white cotton for longer staple length. She would like to enter in the fair again next year.

Polly plans to apply to Penn State to enter a pre-vet program, eventually to move onto the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School. Polly's adviser on the project is science instructor Patricia Wee.

Ben's Electrical Soil Cleanup Effort

Ben Newcomer, an Ephrata High School junior, has been fascinated with ways to apply electricity to solving the problems of the environment.

Ben, 17, son of Randy and Jolene Newcomer, Ephrata, came across an article in a science magazine in 9th grade about using electro-osmosis in soil remidiation.

Ben also was fascinated by how electrical streams decreased the friction of a rotating drill bit and added to depth of penetration.

Ben wondered, could electricity be used to "move" contaminants out of the soil?

Ben's project soon was titled, "Establishing A Correlation Between Texture and The Efficacy of Electro-osmosis In Effecting the Removal of Contaminants From Soil," which won reserve senior champion at the Lancaster County Science and Engineering Fair.

Ben obtained eight soil samples from various teachers, one from his backyard, and another from a nearby creek. He wanted to see how using electro-osmosis worked on different soil types.

He took the soil samples and placed them in a long florescent light tube measuring about a foot long, with contacts on each end. He used alligator clips to hook wires to the tube. The wires were connected to an 8-volt generic direct current power supply. The contaminant used was tannic acid, structurally similar to the aromatics such as benzene, toluene, xylene — gas additives and potential environmental hazards.

The soil was charged six hours. Ben conducted tests at three points along the tube every two hours. He used a gradient measure to point out the contamination at each site. The tannic acid test kit used a color comparator to determine concentration of acid.

What he found was that soil types affected how the contaminants would move in surprising ways. Ben discovered that too concentrated of an amount had a "seep-back" effect that was undaunted by the current flow.

It's possible that commercial industries could use the information gathered about the use of electro-osmosis to clean up radioactive contamination of soils. Another application could be to see what affects the process has on soil nutrient load levels.

Ben had help from the USDA NRCS office to assess the aspects of soil science. He read and researched extensively on the project, of which he garnered reserve senior champion.

Ben intends to go to college to study for an environment-related career. His adviser is Patricia Wee.

Sarah's Egg Storage, Processing Comparisons

Sarah, 16, daughter of Russell and Barbara Woodling, Landisville, continued a project begun last year on "A Comparison of European and American Egg Processing and Storage Methods: A Two-Year Study."

Sarah noted that her dad, who suggested the project, learned years ago through the Boy Scouts that a way to preserve eggs would be do boil them for about 10 seconds. Intrigued, she decided to study how egg shelf life could be extended — in a variety of ways.

So Sarah obtained 40 dozen eggs from Sauder's Eggs, including 20 dozen processed and 20 dozen unprocessed. She tried four different tests: boiling the eggs for 10 seconds, microwaving eggs for 10 seconds, refrigeration, and storage through a contained atmosphere technique.

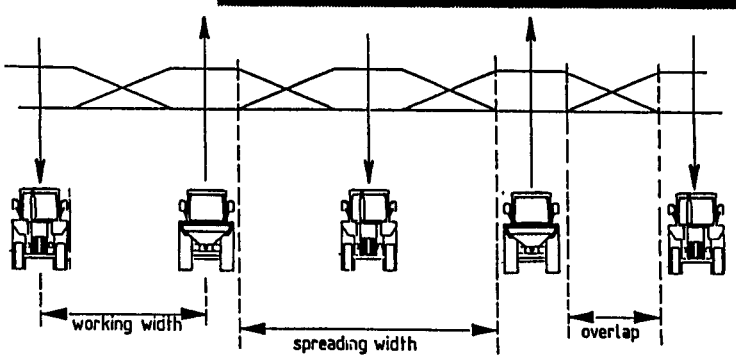
Spreaders are the most accurate broadcast spreaders in the world. The unique pendulum action keeps the spread pattern close to the rear of the machine while at the same time providing a symmetrical pattern on both sides.



The pattern allows "back and forth" as well as "around and around" operation. The "truncated" pattern offsets inaccurate overlap problems, eliminating streaking.

Rust free polyester hoppers, "DURA-COAT" enamel on painted components with stainless steel metering plates, precision adjustments, and a variety of spouts for a multitude of applications have earned Vicon Superflow seeder spreaders a world-wide reputation as the premier broadcast spreader.

Versatile Vicon spreaders band material in vineyards, orchards and nurseries, as well as spread lime, and salt and sand for winter use.

Gala Woolley Brings Youthful Energy To Maple Festival

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) – The newest member of the Pennsylvania Maple Festival's board of directors is just shy of 20 years old, but everything Gala Woolley does is accompanied by a strong commitment and a sunny disposition.

No doubt when they asked her to join their ranks, the outstanding elements the former maple queen who reigned over the 49th Annual Pennsylvania Maple Festival in 1996, possessed – coupled with her energetic enthusiasm – were qualities the board found compatible to its mission.

The maple queen's committee of which she is a member, handles the maple queen scholarship pageant, a classy affair for the 12-15 talented high school senior girls chosen as finalists in auditions held earlier for three times that many girls.

"Being maple queen was my world for a year. They (the committee) became my extended family," the California University of Pennsylvania sophomore reported.

"They amaze me with all the work they do, but they have everything under control."

She alludes to final preparations for the 51st annual maple festival coming up the last two weekends in April when in Meyersdale, the harvest of sweet water from the Somerset County sugar bush, is celebrated and features good-for-you-all-natural-100 percent pure, maple syrup.

Children, especially special needs children, respond to Woolley's winsome personality. She's an expert hugger – a spontaneous one – operating in the belief that hugs given away, happily, are returned in abundance.

Special education (her preference), and elementary education, compose the dual major she's taking, hopefully to fill an immediate position after graduation.

"I think it's important to teach and get the experience," she said. A master's degree will come later.

"I take a full load, do some extra and do summer. In summer I work with gifted children," she says.

In three and a half years, plus student teaching in the fall of 1999, she will have completed college.

She can hardly wait, yet, along the way, where youngsters are concerned, she ceaselessly gives of her time.

"The more severe or profound the disability, that's what I want to do," Terry and Alice Woolley's daughter says.

"To help the children have independence and self-help life skills will be so rewarding, I think," she says.

A poem she found for a high school forensics competition about the daily limitations afflicting a person with mental retardation, deeply impressed Woolley.

"Just Smile," the mother of a mentally-challenged teen entitled the work about her daughter.

The imagery of living with the inability to turn a door knob, open a water faucet or brush one's own teeth, etched itself in Woolley's imagination.

Initially, some teens snickered then grew silent as Woolley on the stage, quoted the winning poem.

She later repeated her performance in the Junior Miss and also, the maple queen contests. The monologue, she felt, would touch people and enable them also, to understand.

"I never wanted to do it to win," she said.

Each week, after days and nights spent cramming textbook knowledge into her mind, Woolley says that working with special children renews and invigorates her spent energy.

She recognizes that Special Olympians, unlike many persons, accept whatever blessings life provides for them.

The various races, for instance.

"They feel so proud," she reports. "They cross the finish line even though they don't win."

"They don't criticize and are so pleased with simple things. They love to dance."

Still, each Saturday at the pool the little one she is trying to teach to swim is a very challenging case to the patient Woolley. In time, as tiny victories are achieved, the no longer fearful child, hopefully, will relax enough to loosen her death grip around Wolley's neck.

"Working with the really delayed is hard," Woolley said. She foresees a future where conquering her natural emotional attachment to these special lives, as a professional, will be her private challenge.

"I know I'll want to bring them home with me."

Each child is a precious gift whom God has given a purpose for living is her resolute conviction. And those who have tried dissuasive arguments have found her opinion on the matter, unshakable.

Woolley belongs to an education honor fraternity – Kappa Delta Pi; is on the Educational Advisory Board which deals with the university's education department; in the mentor program to assist incoming freshmen, and holds a part-time job at Polo's in the Horizon Outlet Center.

She also collects Precious Moments Dolls. Her favorite one is a child in a wheelchair holding a basketball. "Give Ability A Chance," is its caption.

Giving Woolley's ability a chance is what the queen's committee did last fall when they turned over the maple princess fashion show and let her coordinate it at the Somerset Country Club.

"Mom was my backbone," she reports of the assignment to entertain and feed several hundred guests, while the starlets modeled clothes a la mode.

Obviously, the two are the very best of friends.

In the contained atmosphere technique, Sarah controlled the amount of gases reaching the eggs under cool conditions. Several different tests were conducted on the eggs: after candling, she tested them for the relative thickness of the albumin, or the egg white; pH of albumin; and others.

What Sarah soon discovered was that, because of the natural cuticle of the European-style eggs, without processing, after 20 weeks without refrigeration the European method stood up to the American processed eggs. They were of better albumin quality.

"When Americans process eggs, they break down the quality of the eggs," she said, because the washing removes the cuticle. The cuticle allows the egg to regulate the transfer of gases from the outside of the shell to inside the egg — critical also to prevent egg quality degradation. The cuticle coating also provides a natural defense against microorganisms that break down egg quality. Sarah believes that Americans, who want "sanitary" eggs, are "lulled into a false sense of security" by the effects of egg washing. A lot of why consumers shop for the washed eggs is simply "aesthetics."

Next year's project will look into using anti-bacterial jells, similar used by restaurant employees, and the effects on egg quality. Sarah has applied to the Governor's School For Ag Science this year.

She intends to study ag science and minor in poultry or food science at one of several colleges, including Penn State, North Carolina State, or University of Tennessee. Sarah placed second with her project in biology. Her adviser is science teacher Robert Hertzler of Hempfield.

Patrick's Look Into Soil Types And Erosion Control

What he found out that soils with the least uniform particle size have the potential to be the most erosion prone.

In his project, "The Effectiveness of Erosion Control Methods On Various Soils," Patrick found out that Duffield and Beddington silt loams can be worrisome for erosion.

Patrick, son of David and June McCudden, placed first in the earth/environmental science category in competition at the county science fair.

He collected soil from various sites in the school district, including Beddington silt loam, Lindsod, Duffield, and Manor silt loam. In all, he collected about a half cubic meter of soil in all. The soil was dried with dehumidifiers.

The project was set up with the bare soil on a 10-degree slope. Fifteen liters of water were used on the slope. Three buffers were used to determine their effectiveness, including a grass buffer strip, a stone filter bed, and a mesh netting.

Water was entered over the top of box and run through the box. What Patrick discovered was that the least uniform soil particle size proved to be most erosive — especially the Duffield and Beddington silt loams.

Patrick became intrigued when, in 8th grade in an earth science project, he saw the erosion results in some local streams. He saw stream erosion, a "very major problem in Lancaster County," he said.

The most effective erosion control method was the grass strips using a commercially available mix. The mesh netting worked to control erosion. The least effective was the crushed stone.

In all tests, grass was the most effective because the blades protrude up higher and screen, slowly the water down and allowing the sediment to drop.

Next year's projects will look into tillage methods and their effects on erosion control, according to Patrick, who plans to attend college and study biology.

Patrick's adviser is Vicki Strohecker.

Greg's Quest For Pure Water

Gregory Plotner, 17, is the son of Edd and Cheryl Plotner, East Petersburg. An 11th grader at Hempfield and an Eagle Scout, Gregory found out that more than 40 percent of the nation's waterways are contaminated to the point they can't be used for drinking or recreating.

So during the first year of the project, "A Five-Year Study On Stream Water Purification: Developing A Method," Plotner looked at the microbiological effects of iodine and boiling to remove bacteria from water. He used them separately and found that boiling the water removed 68.2 percent of the bacteria Staphylococcus Edidermidis and E-coli. Iodine, a nonmetallic chemical element, removed 75.4 percent of the bacteria.

In the third year of the study, Plotner used a man-made filtration system that, like the iodine and boiling, proved only partially effective at 79.9 percent.

Additional research included adding enzymes to the experiment. But the concentrations required were not effective in eliminating E-colo because of the bacteria's tough cell membrane.

More work is needed, using another enzyme to break down the fatty lipids in the wall, Plotner noted.

Mother's Day Tribute

Surprise your mother, wife or grandmother by sending one of her recipes to be included in a special tribute to mothers in the May 9th issue of Lancaster Farming.

Include a few sentences about her and a picture if you have one. Make sure that you include your name. Your address must also be included if you want the picture returned.

Airville Milk And Money 4-H Club

The first meeting of the year for the Airville Milk and Money 4-H Club was Feb. 24 at 7:15 p m. at the Chanceford Presbyterian Church with 26 members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, along with the treasurer's report and approved with the newly elected officers announced; president-Susan Richardson; vice president-Sara Greek; recording secretaries, Erin Marks and Raechel Kilgore; corresponding secretary, Barbara Richardson; treasure, Christi Knight; reports, Lisa Jones and Candice Knight; and historians, Nicole Marks and Will Reinsfelder III.

Susan Richardson reported on the Third Annual Pennsylvania All-Breeds Dairy Convention Feb. 13-15 at Penn State University, where 18 club members and five chaperones attended workshops, including topics on computer website applications, ag careers, and dairy nutrition.

Upcoming club activities for this year include dairy judging, dairy bowl, "June is Dairy Month" promotion at a local grocery store, a fitting and showing workshop, local fairs, and shows with member's dairy project animals Other club activities include parades, a spring fundraisers, project tours, and group holiday parties.

For more information, contact club leaders Melvin and Barbara Marks at (717) 862-1742 or club president Susan Richardson at (717) 382-1495

Toastmaster Leadership Program

Eleven 4-H youth celebrated their graduation from the Toastmaster Junior Leadership Program recently at Skippy's Cilantro's Restaurant in Doylestown. The eight-week course focused on public speaking and meeting management and was taught by Doylestown toastmasters Vickie Aikens, Perkasie and Edurry, Warrington.

Acting 4-H President Emma Kaminski, Bensalem, introduced Tim Conniff, Toastmaster Club President to the group. The two 4-H speakers for the program were Lori Snyder, Upper Black Eddy, and Kristen Durning, Pipersville. Both teens spoke about their horses. Their speaking skills were critiqued by 4-H members Amber Zezeck, Chalfont, and David Rombold, Hatboro.

Short table topic speeches were presented by 4-H'ers, their parents, and siblings. Led by Aikens, each group created a different story about a bear, a circus, or the Wild West. Other 4-H members participating were Michelle Durning, Pipersville; Heather Gordon, Yardley; Michael Koehler, Dublin; Greg Little, Bensalem; Michael Suchodolski, Warminster; and Dan Rombold, Hatboro.

Pat Freiler, Bucks County Cooperative Extension 4-H Coordinator, expressed appreciation to the Toastmaster Club volunteers. Each 4-H member received completion certificates from 4-H and Toastmasters.

For more information on this and other county 4-H programs, call the cooperative extension office at (215)345-3283.

Golden Fleece 4-H Club Elects Officers

Officers were elected at this year's first meeting of the Golden Fleece 4-H Club Feb. 15. The meeting was held at the Thompson home of leader Barb Cottrell.

Elected officers are as follows: president, Amanda Gaffey; vice-president, Jason Corey; secretary, Sarah Corey; treasurer, Nicole Harvatine; and news reporter, Karl McDonald.

The group discussed possible new times for the Harford Fair sheep shows. The two new members were shown sheep equipment as well as how to handle their sheep when showing them at the fair.

Born To Show Dairy Club

The Born to Show Dairy Club had its first meeting of the new 4-H year on March 14. Pledges were led by Brad Castrogiovanni and Amanda Hoover.

Elections were held and the new officers are as follows; president, Andrea Garner; vice president, Jeremiah Fearnley; secretary, Tiffany Gesford; treasurer, Ben Hibbard; historian, Amanda Hoover; callers, Shana Mack and Ben Hoover; and news reporter, Hilary Gesford.

Leader Steve VanKuren talked about some of the club's members, including Andrea Garner who received the award of Outstanding 4-H'er, and Ben Hibbard who is one of the five ambassadors from Susquehanna County. All members participated in a cow judging contest sponsored by Hoard's Dairyman. Andrea adjourned the meeting and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held April 11 at 7:30 p.m. a the Montrose Presbyterian Church.

Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club

The Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club held its reorganizational meeting on Monday, March 16, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The meeting was called to order by last year's president, Travis Douough. The pledge of allegiance was led by Joelynn Douough and the 4-H pledge was led by Sara Boyd.

Project books were handed out. The Woolies Club Roundup will be held Thursday, August 13, at the West Lampeter Fairgrounds

Election of officers was held as follows: president - Jessica Schmidt, vice president - Radell Peters; secretary - Sarah Boyd, assistant secretary - Ashley Funk, Treasurer - April Leaman, assistant treasurer-Sarah Zurin, news reporters - Derick Bollinger and Joelynn Donough, social chairman - Andrew Gerhart, Holly Hoover, and Allison Hughes

East Rush Community Club

The first East Rush Community 4-H Club meeting of the year was called to order at 2:15 p.m. on March 14.

First was the election of officers. The results are president, Megan Wescott; vice president, Jen Grillo; secretary/news reporter, Ben Hardic; treasurer, Kelly Stockholm; and game and song leader, Kyle Stockholm.

After the election, the leader, Marie Hardic, gave out the pins from last year. The members decided that the dues would be 50 cents each meeting and discussed idea for fund raisers: food booths at the horse shows on May 16 and another in July, and maybe a rockathon if necessary.

The club thought of some new ideas for community service. One idea was to plant flowers and clean up the churchyard. The leader passed out the 4-H code and conduct and registration forms that were to be filled out by each member.

The next meeting was set for April 11. Members must enroll before May 1. The Jones and Chilson families will provide the refreshments for the next meeting.

Baconeer's Swine Club

On Feb. 22, the Baconeer's 4-H Swine Club had their first meeting. The members got their club books back from the previous year.

Next they elected officers: president is Brian Dana, vice president is Mike Snow, secretary is Ronalyn Corbin, treasurer is Miranda Herbert, and reporter is Chad Welch.

After the club elected officers, they discussed the fund raiser. The last thing they talked about was a pig roast at Harford Fair.

North Jackson Ag 4-H Club

The first meeting of the North Jackson Ag 4-H Club this year was held March 15 at the home of John and Bonny Onyon. Families met for a covered dish dinner before the business meeting. The meeting was called to order by former President Matt Pavelski. Pledges were led by Matt Pease.

Elections were held for officers. The results were president, Andre Onyon; vice president, Matt Pavelski; secretary, Abby Onyon; treasurer, Katie Onyon; news reporter, Beth Giangrieco; song/game leaders, Tim Carey, Aaron Onyon, and Kyle Miller; and historian, Sara VanCott.

This year's calendar was discussed, enrollment cards were completed, and projects were chosen for the year. The club will be going bowling April 4, with a meeting and pizza party to follow at Onyon's house. The meeting was adjourned by president, Andrew Onyon.

Pennsylvania 4-H First In Nation

On March 27-29, Pennsylvania became the first state in the nation to host an innovative seminar designed to pave the way for the inclusion of youngsters with physical disabilities into their 4-H shooting sports safety programs.

A NRA/SCI Disability Awareness Workshop was presented as part of the annual Pennsylvania 4-H Shooting Sports Weekend, which attracted close to 100 instructors to Camp Lutherlyn in Prospect.

The workshop was developed and conducted by Dave Baskin, manager of NRA Disabled Shooting Services and chairman of shooting sports for the International Paralympic Committee, which is based in Bonn, Germany. Up until recently these workshops were offered exclusively by the National Rifle Association, but the value that the workshops have provided to members of the hunting, shooting, and outdoor recreation communities resulted in Safari Club International joining the NRA in the nationwide promotion of these innovative educational seminars.

The workshop for the assembled 4-H instructors consisted of two evening sessions. In the first segment, Baskin provided a history of disabled hunting and recreation from the turn of the century up through the dramatic changes immediately following World War II. He continued with an overview of the traditions, customs, and commonly held perceptions of citizens with disabilities, including stories about President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the popular cowboy character Hopalong Cassidy.

The final phase of the workshop was devoted to a display and explanation of adaptive shooting and hunting equipment. Baskin demonstrated a unique spring-mounted rifle support stand and two types of mouth-operated trigger mechanisms for those individuals who have diminished motor control function in their fingers. One apparatus was an electric "sip 'n puff" design and the other was a mechanical version.

The NRA/SCI Disability Awareness Workshop was designed to provide the participants with a better understanding of our disabled population. Pennsylvania 4-H instructors took away a heightened awareness of disability issues and improved skills necessary to teach youngsters with physical disabilities.

Ida's Notebook

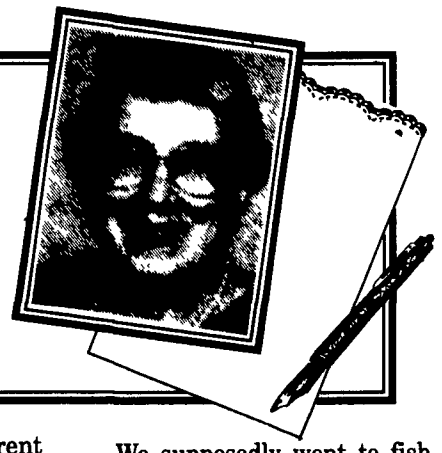
Ida Risser



We've just had a different weekend as our son invited us to his cottage in Virginia. It is along the Piankatank River. Now I had never even heard of that river, so I was surprised to see the enormous expanse of water. The traffic on the way there was very heavy as sometimes there were six lanes in one direction.

Kenneth has done a lot of work on the cottage the past few months and with his wife's help has decorated the rooms beautifully. His daughter helped to wallpaper the rooms and his son helped to put up a new television aerial. So, he really does not rough it when he goes to his cottage to relax. He tells us that he can have a dozen people sleep there at one time.

We supposedly went to fish. Well, we fished and we fished but did not catch fish. The rockfish that I caught had to be put back in the water as it was not in season. The fish simply were not hungry.

But, we had several long boat rides as he put his pontoon boat with a 50 horsepower motor in the water. It takes a while to go through all the steps of preparing it for the water and then just as long to store it. The salt water must be washed off, the roof lowered and all of the swivel chairs covered to protect them from the weather, etc.

The tide was an important factor as to when we could use the boat. During low tide, the boat settles on the bottom and so we carefully watched for high tide. One day he told me that we could go out and fish at midnight as that was high tide, but I said, "No, thank you."

It was quiet in the woods and we all enjoyed the many birds that came to his feeder. However, one night as I sat alone reading, I heard an awful sound as two raccoons were fighting. It was different.

Moisture Problems In Your Home?

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) – Learn about causes and a range of possible techniques to correct home moisture problems at the "Moisture Problems in the Home" seminar sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension. The seminar will be held Thursday, May 7, from 7:30-9 p.m at the Extension office, Suite 370 in the Government Services Center, 601 Westtown Road, West Cheater. To register, call (610) 696-3500 by May 4.

Condensation on interior windows, wood decay, and growth of mold and mildew on walls or ceilings are sure signs of excessive moisture. Because excess moisture can cause hidden problems as well, a clear understanding of why problems occur is an important first step towards a successful solution Join Dr. Robert J Thee, extension agent/housing, for "Moisture Problems in the Home" to learn more about the problem – and the solution!

Fertilization Is Central To Revitalizing Lawn

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – Lawn care do-it-yourselfers can save serious money by following a few tips from a turf specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Dollar for dollar, fertilization does more to revitalize thin, weedy lawns than any other single management practice," says Peter Landschoot, associate professor of turfgrass science. "With more user-friendly products on the market, lawn fertilization has never been easier – provided you follow a few basic steps."

•Soil Test. Soil tests tell consumers how much fertilizer and lime is needed. Test kits are available for a nominal fee at Penn State Cooperative Extension offices throughout the state. Soil tests can be taken and sent to Penn State any time of the year, but make sure you allow 2-3 weeks to receive your report.

•Fertilizer. Fertilizer should be bought on the basis of its quality, not the size of the bag or the price. Landschoot says that value depends on the amount and source of nutrients in the bag. Fertilizer labels have three numbers that designate the percentages of nitrogen, phosphate and potash in the bag. A 30-3-10 analysis, for example, means that the product contains 30 percent nitrogen, 3 percent phosphate and 10 percent potash. Lawns usually require annual applications of all three of these nutrients, with some lawns needing higher amounts than others. Your soil test report will provide information on which fertilizer is best for your lawn.

Landschoot points out that some products contain "slow-release nitrogen" or "water insoluble nitrogen." "It's a good idea to have some slow-release nitrogen fertilizer in the bag," he says. "This will provide longer-lasting green-up and reduce the chance of fertilizer burn. However, if all or most of the product is is slow-release nitrogen, green-up of the lawn can be very slow. It's may take weeks or even months to occur."

•Spreaders. There are two types of spreaders for lawn fertilization – rotary and drop types. "Rotary spreaders will do the job faster than drop spreaders since they are equipped with a rotating apparatus that throws the fertilizer out in a wide swath," Landschoot says. "Thus, fewer passes are required to cover the lawn. Drop spreaders are typically more accurate, but since they don't throw the fertilizer, the swath is narrower, and more passes are needed to cover the lawn."

Rotary spreaders are more practical for larger lawns, while drop spreaders are only suitable for small to medium-sized lawns. Many lawn fertilizers now contain spreader settings on the label. The setting, usually a number or letter, controls the amount of fertilizer applies. Look for a fertilizer that lists your spreader type (rotary vs. drop type) and model on the bag, then adjust the setting accordingly.

•Don't Overuse. "When it comes to fertilizer, more is not necessarily better," says Landschoot. "Never exceed the setting listed on the label. Doing so can result in excess growth, which requires more frequent mowing and weakens the turf, making it more susceptible to heat and drought in summer." Too much fertilizer also can dehydrate the grass, resulting in "fertilizer burn" or dead turf.

•Careful Application. To apply, pull or push the lever that closes the openings in the bottom of the spreader, pour in the fertilizer, and adjust the spreader setting. Find a spot on the lawn where you want to begin the application – typically along the strip of turf nearest to the street or driveway so you can minimize the amount of fertilizer that gets onto pavement. "Always begin walking before you open the spreader," Landschoot says. "This will eliminate burn marks that result when too much fertilizer falls out of the spreader while it is standing still." At the end of the pass, close the spreader openings before you stop walking.

•Maintain Spacing. To avoid creating dark and light green stripes in the lawn, ensure that each pass is adequately spaced. With rotary spreaders, space each pass so that a small amount of fertilizer overlaps with fertilizer applied from e previous pass. With a drop spreader, each pass should begin right up against the strip of the previous pass – like laying strips of wallpaper.

•Use Grid Pattern. The best method of applying fertilizer is to use the half-rate setting suggested on the fertilizer bag and go over the lawn twice in a crisscross or grid pattern. This will further reduce the chances of striping. Remember, fertilizer does not move once it is on the lawn – wherever it lands, your lawn will turn green, and where it does not land, it will not turn green.

•Multiple Applications. Land-schoot suggests applying fertilizer two or three times per year. Homeowners should fertilize lawns in mid-spring (late April or early May), late summer (around Labor Day), and late fall (around Thanksgiving).

•If Hot, Don't Apply Finally, never apply fertilizer during hot, dry weather in mid-summer.

Finally, a proven way to beat hoof disease!

Victory Topical Solution, when applied directly to the affected area, eliminates the lesions and pain associated with hairy foot warts.

Victory Footbath Concentrate offers dairy producers a cost-effective alternative to other footbath compounds commonly used to control the incidence of hoof rot and hairy foot warts.

Victory Hoof Trimming Equipment & Utensil Sanitizer (E.P.A.-registered sanitizer) provides dairy producers and hoof trimmers with a method to prevent the spread of highly contagious foot warts by sanitizing tools and equipment used in hoof trimming.

Organ And Tissue Donor Month

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – The Pennsylvania House of Representatives has adopted a resolution designating April as "Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Month" in Pennsylvania, announced Rep. Sheila Miller (R-Berks)

"Pennsylvania has 14 transplant centers and is recognized as a world leader in organ and tissue transplantation," said Miller.

Miller added that it is estimated that more than 55,000 people are waiting for organ transplants in the United States.

"Organ and tissue donations save lives," said Miller. "I am pleased to support this resolution in the House's efforts to raise awareness of organ donation."

Pennsylvania law enables citizens to donate their organs and tissues through written statements and also allows relatives to consent to the donation or organs and tissues of a deceased family member. Pennsylvania residents also can designate themselves as organ donors on their driver's license.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

When Should You Fix The Leaky Roof?

There's the old story about the fellow whose house has a leak in the roof. When it wasn't raining, it didn't need to be fixed. When it was raining, he couldn't get out to fix it. Homeowner's insurance is sort of like that. When there is no windstorm, you really don't need it. But after the storm, it's too late.

What can you do to minimize losses? First, be sure you are adequately insured. Second, be sure you can document your claim in case of a loss. And third, be careful who you hire to repair the damage.

The basic principle behind insurance is that in purchasing a policy, you are accepting the certainty of a small loss, in the form of a premium, in exchange for the protection against an uncertain large loss. This is the time of year when those large losses to your home may occur as a result of high winds, a tornado or flooding.

Home insurance coverage varies depending on the type of policy you have and where you live. Windstorms are usually covered in even the most basic home insurance policies. But there are two perils that no regular home insurance policy will cover: floods and earthquakes.

Flooding is second only to fire as the most common and widespread natural disaster. The National Flood Insurance Program, administered through the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA), is usually available through your regular insurance agent.

Earthquake insurance is most important in places like California and those states in the New Madrid Fault (Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Arkansas). But parts of eastern Pennsylvania are also prone to earthquakes.

The second part of minimizing your losses is have an inventory of your personal property. Not only does it provide better verification for losses reported to your insurance company, but it will be less likely that you have overlooked something if you're relying only on your memory.

Start your inventory by taking photographs using a still or video camera. Begin with one wall and systematically go around the room taking as many pictures as necessary to capture everything. Overlap one photo with another so nothing will be missed If using a video camera, slowly pan around the room. For special items, take close up shots. Be sure to open drawers and closet doors so that you have a record of the contents. This is not the time to be embarrassed about it if everything is not neat as you would wish it to be.

A written record is also essential. On the back of the photograph, in an inventory booklet, or on your computer, record the serial and model numbers of appliances and household equipment, the purchase price and date, and the approximate replacement cost.

There are two more things you need to do after completing your personal property inventory. Store a copy of the inventory, a copy of your insurance policy and receipts from major furniture and appliances in a safe place such as a safe deposit box. Keep a copy in your house, however, so you can update it at least every two years. The review your coverage with your insurance agent.

The third part in preventing a loss comes after the disaster. Unfortunately, con artists from across the country may descend upon a community where a disaster has struck.

Keep in mind that all electrical and plumbing work should be performed by a licensed and experienced worker. Uninsured workers may sue you if they are injured on your property. Unskilled workers may cause additional damage and cost you more by doing the work improperly.

Qualified repairmen may be in short supply after a disaster, but you should still shop around. Avoid the door-to-door or pick-up truck repairman. Insist on a contract that spells out the contractor's name, business name, phone number and address, description of the work to be completed, grade and quality of materials to be used, starting and completion dates, total cost, payment schedule, warranty limits and the contractor's signature.

If in doubt, check with the Better Business Bureau or the Attorney General's office. Make the first payment when the contract is accepted and the final payment only after the work is satisfactorily completed.

Nobody expects to be a victim of disaster. Having proper coverage from your homeowner's insurance and personal property inventory won't prevent a disaster, but they can give you some peace of mind and expedite the recovery process. The time to fix the leaky roof is now.

Indian Steps Museum Opens

YORK (York Co.) – Indian Steps Museum will open April 16, Thursday through Sunday and holidays. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Sunday and holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Group tours at other times by special arrangement. Call (717)862-3948 when museum is open or (717)993-3392 at other times.

The Conservation Society of York County is celebrating its 75th anniversary, having formed in 1924. They have published "75 Years of Conservation: The Story of the Conservation Society of York County" which can be purchased at a cost of $7.95. This will be available at the museum or call (717)764-4318 or (717)755-3777.

Ealora Holland, special events chairperson, has announced plans for the summer season. An 18th Century encampment will be held on the grounds June 21. Also upcoming will be the ever popular Indian Festival to be held September 26 and 27. A new event will be a Children's Day program on July 19, with many activities for the younger set. A special program to be held this year is "Christmas at Indian Steps Museum," to be held week-ends of December 12 and 13 and December 19 and 20. The museum will be decorated inside and outside for the holiday season with many holiday treasures to be purchased.

The Conservation Society's other facilities are also open to the public by appointment. These are Wills School on Route 124 in Delroy and the Bonham Wake Robin Wildlife Sanctuary, 101 Spencer Road, Airville. These places are also open for group tours. Wills School is an ideal place for elementary school classes. The sanctuary is used many times for group picnics. Contact Wills School at (717)755-7277 and the Sanctuary at (717)862-3872.

All of the above events are free to the public and there is no charge to any of the other facilities. However, donations are greatly appreciated.

Hershey Gardens Bloom

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) – This is an exciting year for Hershey Gardens. The daffodils planted last fall are already starting to bloom, the rose garden is expected to reach peak bloom in early- to mid-June, and planning for the third annual Gardenfest has already begun.

Plan to visit during the 1998 season and see many new developments in the Gardens. A generous brick donation was installed as a new walkway radiating from the gazebo, and other new walkways extend to create a continuous path around the Gardens. The Japanese Pond has a new observation deck, and the decorative boulders were rearranged. The most exciting new addition to the Gardens is the butterfly House, the first permanent structural addition to Hershey Gardens since Milton Hershey built the Gardens in the 1930's. The Butterfly House officially opens June 20.

Hershey Gardens is open daily 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. from April 11 through October 31, Memorial Day through Labor Day evening hours until 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Admission to Hershey Gardens is: $5 adults, $4.25 seniors, $2.50 youths (ages 3-15), children under 3 are free. For more information, call (717)534-3492.

NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER

Complete hay control starts at the pickup. Hay is gathered and precompressed before reaching the bale chamber . . . for more-solid bales. Gear- and shaft-driven knotters adjust to different twines and crops. Easy to service, too.

QUESTION — Virginia Duff, Mt. Airy, Md., would like to know where to find a record of the "Prisoner Sang." She is willing to pay a fair price and wants the words to the whole song.

QUESTION — Maralee Chaffee, LaRayesville, is desperate to rid their house and lawn of crickets in the fall. They usually last two months, at least, until the first killing frost in Oct. In the fall, the Chaffees have millions of crickets in the yard, which becomes literally black with big black, juicy crickets. Hundreds are killed with each step to the clothesline. The crickets come into the house each night and the family kills hundreds each morning when they wake up. The family is planning a fall outdoor wedding for one of their children. Do they spray now to kill the eggs in the ground before they hatch or must they wait until fall to spray malathion and hope the crickets eat it and die? (The spray has a noxious odor—not nice for an outdoor wedding, but then it might be better than crickets crawling on guests). The lawn covers two to three acres.

QUESTION — George Spencer, Hopewell, N.J., wrote that a couple years ago he purchased pairs of jeans made by a Kentucky company by the name of Key Company. The store where he purchased them no longer carry that brand. Does anyone know where he might locate the jeans or an address for the company?

QUESTION — Robert Rauhauser, Thomasville, is a researcher and historian and would like to know if some one might have some old round Hinkle's Easter dye bottles to complete a display of Egg Dyeing Apparatus. The dyes came six in a carton. He writes that the dyes were patented Aug. 24, 1943, which is amazing since raw materials and all efforts were going in to support the war effort. Rauhauser understands that the dyes were invented by a York County man from Wrightsville by the name of Raymond Young, who probably assigned his invention to the Hinkle Drug Store in Columbia. Hinkle's continue to sell egg dyes in square bottles, but Rauhauser wants the round bottles, the box they came in, and information on the inventor Young or the first Hinkle's Drug Store.

Stoltzfus of Blain, who calls himself a fellow game fan, for writing that replacement parts for Milton Bradley games, including Scrabble letter tiles, can be ordered free from Milton Bradley, Attn: Customer Service Dept., 443 Shaker Rd., East Longmeadow, MA 01028. For Parker Brothers game parts, write to Parker Brothers, Attn: Consumer Response Dept., P.O. Box 1012, Beverly, MA 01915.

Both companies will send free copies of game rules, even for discontinued games, if you need them. Selchow and Righter parts and rules are possibly available from Milton Bradley, since they purchased the company. If you are interested in buying too, used games or are looking for old ones, call (515) 482-1939, or write for a free catalog to Funagain Games, 1644 #2 Ashland St., Ashland, OR 97501.

The Aushermans have decided to discontinue their dairy operation and will be selling a large group of young cattle. As you may remember, they had a production sale in October of 1996, and talking with the new owners they appreciated the type of cattle the Ausherman's had bred and developed. These are the same kind of cattle. Curtis also is a believer in BST and does use it in his herd management in the following manner; When cows have been fresh X-number days and body weight is analyzed, he uses it as he sees fit in his program.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS SELL THEIR BEST MILK COW FOR MEAT

I need lots of open cows. I still need about 80 more. Save my phone number as I only run this add once or twice a month. Please tell your neighbors to call my Toll-Free number. I keep hearing about Dairymen who sold some real good cows for meat because they couldn't get them pregnant, and then they found out I need open cows. I pay a little more then meat price and you save hauling, auction fee and shrinkage. Help spread the word before your best friend sells his best cow for meat. Give him a chance to buy her back pregnant to a top bull. I will get her pregnant or I will pay you double. I will give you a chance to buy her back. So far all of the cows I tried got pregnant. It is hard to beat a 100% average. Due to the price of feed I can only take the ones that are better then average cows. I am also looking for a farm where I can keep more cows.

United Soybean Board Reports On Oils In Herbicides

ST. LOUIS, MO. — The label on the jug says "crop oil concentrate." If you believe that means the product is made from a vegetable oil, you'd better read the label a little closer. Chances are, the primary ingredient is a petroleum distillate.

The United Soybean Board (USB) wants farmers and other herbicide users to know the difference and then make up their own minds whether to use a herbicide adjuvant made from petroleum or one made from a vegetable oil, such as soybean oil. The USB does not recommend any particular brand of herbicide or any brand of adjuvant. But, since vegetable oil is an important market for soybeans, and since the use of vegetable oils as an adjuvant could be an important growth market for soybean oil, they do want all herbicide users, farm and nonfarm, to be able to make an informed decision.

An adjuvant does not contain an active ingredient to control weeds or other pests; it is an additive used to help a pesticide work more effectively. This may allow pesticide manufacturers to recommend a lower rate of a pesticide or improve control of a pest so that retreatment is less frequent or unnecessary. But adjuvants are not regulated by the Environmental Protection Agency as pesticides are, and there are no consistent, national labeling laws for adjuvants used with herbicides and other pesticides.

Several different kinds of adjuvants are defined by the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM). The ASTM defines a crop oil concentrate as "an emulsifiable petroleum oil-based product containing 15 to 20 percent w/w surfactant and a minimum of 80 percent w/w phytobland oil." The name "crop oil" came from the fact that the product was formulated to be used on crops, not because it came from a crop.

The ASTM defines a modified vegetable oil concentrate as "an emulsifiable, chemically modified vegetable oil product containing 5 to 20 percent w/w surfactant and the remainder chemically modified vegetable oil." If the product says "methylated seed oil" or "methylated vegetable oil" or "methyl soyate" it is vegetable oil-based. But some vegetable oil-based products are mistakenly called "crop oils" or "crop oil concentrates" and may list ingredients with chemical names that are not recognizable to the lay person as coming from a vegetable oil. These vegetable oils primarily come from seeds such as soybeans, sunflowers, canola and cottonseed but, in some cases, may be derived from coconut or palm oils.

Almost all adjuvants contain or act as a surfactant to improve the dispersion of the herbicide in the water used as a carrier. Some surfactants, or surface active agents, may also be made from vegetable products or contain products such as soy lecithin as an ingredient. This surfactant action also improves the "wetting" of the leaf surface, so more herbicide stays on the weed. Vegetable oil concentrates and modified vegetable oil concentrates do both of these things, as do straight surfactants.

Additionally, modified vegetable oil concentrates improve the penetration of the herbicide into the weed. Experts don't agree on how this occurs physically, though the widely held theory is that the modified vegetable oil acts as a solvent to penetrate the waxy cuticle covering the leaf and allow more herbicide to be absorbed. Vegetable oil concentrates, those that are not chemically modified, have less solvency so they may not hasten penetration of the herbicide significantly, but do help to "stick" the herbicide to the leaf. This logically results in increased uptake of the herbicide, but less rapidly than with a modified vegetable oil.

Finally, the solvent properties of modified vegetable oils may help to dissolve some herbicides. This also helps to distribute the herbicide evenly throughout the spray mixture, which can lead to more consistent results.

For most post-emergence herbicides, use of either a vegetable oil concentrate or a modified vegetable oil concentrate will improve its performance. The amount of improvement depends on the herbicide; with modified vegetable oils working as well as, and sometimes significantly beter than, the petroleum-based oils. Control of larger weeds and/or longer-lasting weed control are some of the benefits attributed to the use of modified vegetable oil concentrates.

In recent years, work specifically with modified seed oil concentrates as adjuvants have shown them to be clearly superior to petroleum-based crop oil concentrates when used with specific herbicides. These herbicides recommend using a modified vegetable oil concentrate as an adjuvant. This is when it is most important to know whether the adjuvant you select contains a vegetable oil or a petroleum oil as its base. Just because it says "crop oil concentrate" does not mean it contains vegetable oil.

The use of a crop oil concentrate, or a modified vegetable oil concentrate, is not recommended with some herbicides. This should be clearly spelled out on the herbicide label. There can be serveral reasons for this: the herbicide may not be compatible with an oil and the spray mixture may form a jelly-like substance; the oil may make the herbicide move too quickly into the leaf, killing the leaf but not moving into other parts of the plant so the weed grows back; or the use of an oil with the herbicide may cause crop damage. In the last case, it may still be effective to use a vegetable oil concentrate. These non-modified vegetable oils with surfactants may improve the activity of the herbicide, although a modified vegetable oil does not.

There may be some basis for the perception that vegetable oil concentrates and modified vegetable oil concentrates are less likely to cause crop damage, but data comparing the potential for crop injury between petroleum-based crop oil concentrates and vegetable oils, or modified vegetable oils, on a wide variety of crops under various climatic conditions, is not available.

At recommended rates, vegetable oils and modified vegetable oils themselves do not cause crop damage. Because they enhance penetration of the herbicide into the plant, either petroleum-based crop oil concentrates or modified vegetable oil concentrates may intensify the activity of a specific herbicide on a crop and cause crop injury. Herbicicde damage to a crop varies greatly with climatic conditions and the development stage of the crop. The use of any adjuvant is one more factor which may, or may not, be the cause of crop injury in a specific situation. Avoiding contact between the herbicide spray and the crop is the best method of reducing or eliminating the potential for crop damage.

"Our goal is not to recommend one herbicide over any other, or any adjuvant brand over any other," David Durham, chairman of the United Soybean Board Domestic Marketing Committee stated. "I, personally, use methylated seed oil as an adjuvant whenever it fits my program, and I am pleased with the performance. That doesn't mean that it is the right choice with every herbicide or for every situation. It's up to each herbicide user to read and follow the label directions that come with the herbicide. I just want every farmer, every road supervisor, every utility company, every forest owner and any other herbicide user to know that they have a choice to use a vegetable oil-based product, instead of a petroleum-based product."

A list of herbicide adjuvants containing vegetable oils, particularly soybean oil, has been compiled and placed on the Internet at www.StratSoy.com and at www.omnitechintl.com. For more information about soy adjuvants please contact your state soybean board.

ASTM Definitions

Crop oil concentrate — an emulsifiable petroleum oil-based product containing 15 to 20 percent weight-to-weight (w/w) surfactant and a minimum of 80 percent w/w phytobland oil.

Crop oil (emulsifiable) — an emulsifiable petroleum oil-based product containing up to five percent weight-to-weight (w/w) surfactant and the remainder of a phytobland oil.

Phytobland oil — a highly refined paraffinic material with a minimum unsulfonated residue of 92 percent volume-to-volume (v/v).

Sticker — a material that assists the spray deposit to adhere or stick to the target and may be measured in terms of resistance to time, wind, water, mechanical action, or chemical action.

Surface-active agent — a material that, when added to a liquid medium, modifies the properties of the medium at a surface or interface.

Note — surface-active agent is the general term which includes soluble detergents in liquid medium, dispersing agents, emulsifying agents, foaming agents, penetrating agents, and wetting agents.

Vegetable oil concentrate — an emulsifiable vegetable oil product containing 5 to 20 percent weight-to-weight (w/w) surfactant and a minimum of 80 percent w/w vegetable oil.

NFU Applauds Secretary Glickman, Senators For Agreement To Combat Anti-Competitive Measures

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) fly-in participants were the first to learn that a group of U.S. senators led by Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., has agreed with Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman to aggressively pursue measures to combat anti-competitive practices in the livestock processing sector.

"We must end the secret deals in livestock sales right now," Dachle told NFU fly-in participants. "I'm very pleased to announce that the secretary has said he agrees with us and will aggressively seek mandatory price reporting (of livestock sales) with Congress and make suer that it becomes law before year end."

NFU has repeatedly called for mandatory price reporting on all livestock sales, including the price and terms of meat sales for export, on the basis that a lack of price transparency has contributed to a thinner market and lower livestock prices. NFU also has been frustrated by the lack of aggressive enforcement of Packers and Stockyards Act provisions which are supposed to be used to combat anti-competitive practices by the buyers and processors of livestock.

"We want to be sure that we put teeth into the Packers and Stockyards laws, and we want to see the Department of Agriculture use muscle to put competition back in to the system," Daschle said. "This isn't something that ought to be left just to the Department of Agriculture. I want to see the Department of Justice do for meat what it has done with Microsoft in the last month."

Daschle made the announcement on the steps of the Senate before 130 Farmers Union members immediately following the group's meeting with Glickman. Daschle was joined in the announcement by Sen. Tim Johnson, D-S.D., and Sen. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D. Others meeting with Glickman were Sens. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, Kent Conrade, D-N.D., Max Baucus, D-Mont., and Paul Wellstone, D-Minn.

Those addressing the Farmers Union members commended their participation in the fly-in and NFU's work in keeping concentration in agricultural markets on the legislative front burner. NFU has pointed out the danger to producers as well as to consumers of the current industry structure in which more than 80 percent of red meat processing natinwide is controlled by just four multinational firms. This compares with just 36 percent of red meat processing controlled by these firms in 1980. NFU also has pointed to the fact that consumer meat prices have remained constant despite precipitous drops in the prices of live animals.

"We need aggressive attention by the department (USDA) in each of these four areas. The secretary has said he will work with us to make it happen. Now we have to make sure the job gets done," Daschle said.

The announcement by Daschle follows an address to NFU fly-in participants yesterday by Vice President Al Gore, who stressed the importance of involving agricultural producers in the development and implementation of environmental regulations.

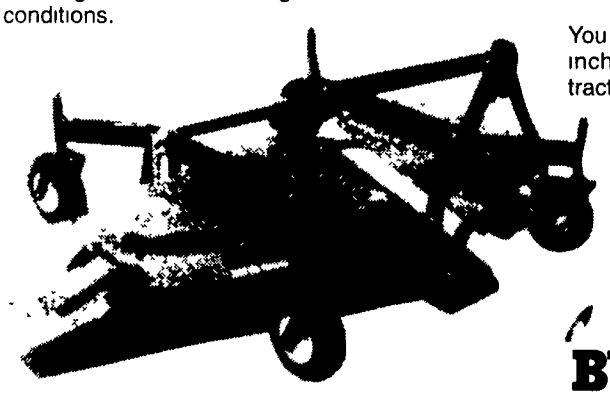
THESE LAWN CARE MOWERS MAKE GRASS CUTTING A PLEASURE

With Bush Hog's ATH Air Tunnel Finishing Mowers, cutting large lawns is fast and easy. Adjustments are minimal and simple to perform, and these mowers give you all the features you'll need to tackle heavy grass and uneven terrain Heavy, 7-gauge steel deck plate, floating top linkage and lower link allow uniform cutting High blade tip speeds and 1-1/2 or 2-1/4 inch blade overlap assure clean cutting The high volume discharge chute flexes to allow mowing in heavier or damper conditions.



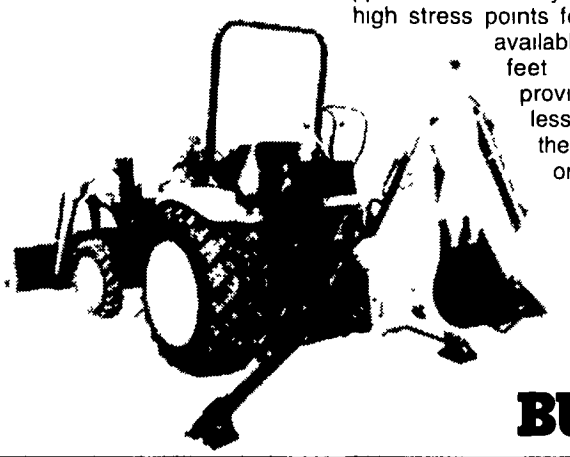
You can select a 60, 72 or 90 inch model to match your tractor and cutting needs

Come in and learn more about how Bush Hog's ATH Mowers can take the chore out of cutting big lawns.

BUSH HOG

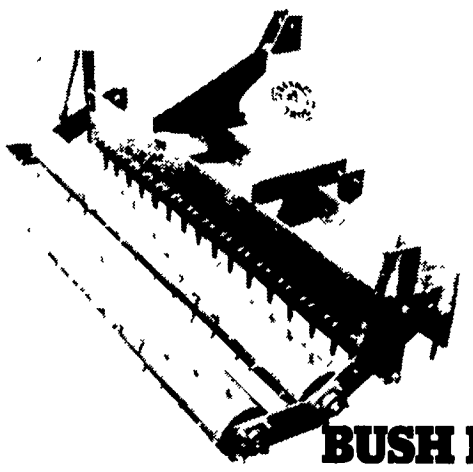
BACKHOES DESIGNED FOR PERFORMANCE AND COMFORT

Bush Hog Series 62 Backhoes feature a larger operator platform with a walk through design The control console is only 7-1/2 inches at the operator's knee Boom and dipperstick are heavy duty, with reinforcing plates at all high stress points for long life These backhoes are available in digging depths of 7, 8 and 9-feet All new hydraulic control valves provide smoother operation with 40% less lever effort Valves located under the platform to reduce heat and noise on the operator



BUSH HOG

PULVERIZE, SCARIFY, GRADE AND CLEAN WITH ONE TOOL



Bush Hog PV Series Pulverizers are available in a wide range of widths from 48 to 96-inches. These tools pulverize, scarify, grade and clean the soil. Soil and clods are broken, and unwanted rocks and roots are pulled away and contoured by the front teeth. These versatile tools are available with single or double rollers, and recommended for use with maximum 60 HP tractors.

Come in today and see why Bush Hog PV Series Pulverizers are the best choice for soil smoothing and clearing

BUSH HOG

WITH BUSH HOG POST HOLE DIGGERS YOU GET A CHOICE

Whether you have trees to plant, post holes to dig or large construction chores, there's a Bush Hog Post Hole Digger that will do the job.

Choose the utility model 2101 and you can select 6 or 9-inch auger diameters. And with 9-inch augers double flighting is available. Choose the agriculture model 2102 and you have a choice of auger diameters from 6 to 24-inches Or, with the rugged industrial model 2103 you not only have a selection of 6 to 24-inch augers, but also an optional down pressure cylinder that delivers 500 lbs. of extra digging force. Handles are available for all models to allow any post hole digger to be positioned from the tractor seat

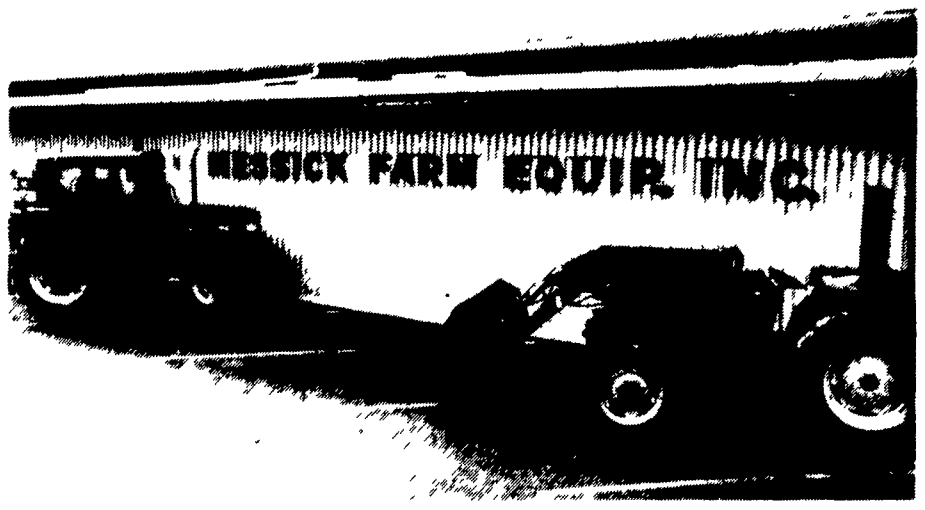
The staff at Messick Farm Equipment has a common mission to provide our customers with a broad selection of new and used equipment, parts and service with an emphasis on quality and dependability. Our philosophy is to work with credibility, honesty, integrity and courtesy, because sincere relationships with you, our customer, is important.

To Messick's staff the idea of simply making a sale is secondary to our goal of providing the customer with the correct equipment to get the job done. We are committed to keeping you, the customer, up and running with over 2 million dollars in parts inventory and over 14 employees in the parts department. We have 2 parts route sales/delivery trucks that make on-the-farm deliveries in Lancaster, York, Adams, Perry, Lebanon, Dauphin and Northumberland Counties. We also ship parts daily by UPS and a host of other carriers.

Our service department boast over 18 employees with a combined experience of over 200 years in the agricultural field. Factory trained as well as privately instructed we have the knowledge and tools to get you up and running fast. We use service vehicles equipped with cellular phones, torches, welders, air compressors, vice, jacks, etc. to efficiently complete the task.

Our Sales Department and Set-up Department consists of 10 knowledgeable personnel with many years of experience. We also have over 11 million dollars in machine inventory for a broad selection with competitive pricing.



Most recently Messick's is proud to have earned "Certified" status from Case IH for our well managed dealership. This is given only to selected dealers based on comprehensive analysis of all departments working together with the good of the customer in mind.

Messick's business hours are Monday thru Friday from 7:30 am until 5 00 pm and Saturday 7:30 am until 12:00. We also have personnel on standby to offer 24 hour a day parts service.

Agricultural Preservation Board Approves Farmland

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved easement purchases for 24 farms, including the first easement purchse in Beaver County.

"Gov. Tom Ridge is commited to the future of agriculture in Pennsylvania," Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. said. "By protecting prime farmland, we are securing the strength of Pennsylvania agriculture and the food supply both here at home and around the world."

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board is responsible for oversight of the state Farmland Preservation Program. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements, to guarantee that farms remain as agricultural land.

Adams County:

• Robert L. and Judith A. Hay, Highland Township, 230 acres, $298,403.

Beaver County:

• Mildred M. Milligan, New Sewickley Township, 70 acres, $104,778.

Berks County:

• David E. Kurtz, Ruth S. Troutman, Jane Steiner and Mary Ann Ruth, Marion Township, 100 acres, $201,000.

• Alan M. and Andrew M. Peifer, Oley Township, 135 acres, $230,180.

• Linford R. and Florence G. Weber, Maidencreek Township, 72 acres, $144,800.

• Mark A. and Nancy A. Wolfskill, Heidelberg Township, 242 acres, $484,000.

Bucks County:

• Kenneth and Janet Beer, Hilltown Township, 75 acres, $473,960.

• David A. and Sharon K. Bishop, Plumstead Township, 64 acres, $560,000.

Butler County:

• Edward Goldscheitter, Buffalo and Clinton townships, 217 acres, $446,026.

Centre County:

• Leroy E. and Geraldine I. Dreibelbis, Ferguson Township, 173 acres, $224,503.

• Lynn L., Ella and Irene Illingworth, Ferguson Township, 152 acres, $187,200.

Chester County:

• Estate of Marguerite MacFarlan, East Brandywine Township, 79 acres, $494,931.

• Thomas and Fannie Yoder, West Nantmeal Township, 98 acres, $341,438.

Lancaster County:

• J. Kenneth and Lois M. Hoffer, Rapho Township, 94 acres, $176,297.

• Donald and Carol Ann Trimble, Fulton Township, 136 acres, $133,751.

Lawrence County:

• Michael and Mary Lou Lehman, Wilmington Township, 73 acres, $114,620.

Lebanon County:

• Eugene W. and Kathleen S. Martin, North Cornwall Township, 154 acres, $230,550.

• Dennis E. and Sharon L. Wampler, South Annville Township, 117 acres, $175,500.

Lehigh County:

• Russell and Elaine Dietrich, Lynn Township, 127 acres, $222,981.

• Samuel P. and Ruth J. Getter, Lynn Township, 76 acres, $132,854.

Montgomery County:

• Earl M. Kline, Douglass Township, 46 acres, $195,006.

• Harold and Nancy Miller, Hopewell and East Hopewell townships, and Crossroad Borough, 458 acres, $523,669.

Conservation Leadership School Offers Unique Opportunities

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Instead of desks and blackboards, the classrooms at Penn State's Conservation Leadership School this summer will include an underground cave, canoes, and kayaks on a 72-acre lake and green leaves and shade on 700 acres of forested land.

In this unique setting at the University's Stone Valley Recreation Area near State College, secondary students between the ages of 15 and 18 will learn about conservation during two-week programs that emphasize field-based, hands-on learning, group problem solving, and environmental management planning.

The curriculum involves active participation in environmental mangement, resource assessment, and regenerative conservation methods. Topics include watershed management, citizen action, basic ecology, land-use planning, alternative energy supplies, environmental risk assessment, and forest management.

Students provide their own transportation to the Stone Valley Recreation Area, where they will stay in four-person platform tents with cots, heated shower and restroom facilities, complete meal service, and all educational needs.

The $495 tuition ($545 for non-Pennsylvania residents) covers tuition and all other costs for the student's two-week stay.

The 1998 Conservation Leadership Schools dates are Session I, June 28-July 11; Session II, July 12-25; and Advanced Session, July 30-August 8. Please note: The Advanced Session is open only to students who previously attended a regular session or an equivalent program.

Farm Bureau Wants More Deer Killed

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) – Farmers in may parts of the state will suffer higher crop damage losses in 1998 due to action taken by the Pennsylvania Game Commission last year, according to the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

In testimony at a recent public meeting in Harrisburg a Farm Bureau representative said the Commission's decision to cut back on license allocations and to eliminate bonus hunting tags for antlerless deer will mean more crop damage problems for farmers.

A Penn State study shows wildlife caused $74 million in crop damage in 1994, with deer being the biggest culprits.

"Progress has been made over the past decade with deer management," said PFB Wildlife Damage Control Specialist Joel Rotz. "Last year was a major setback to that progress."

In 1997, the Game Commission reduced the number of antlerless deer allocations from 724,350 for the previous year to 640,288. The cut was over 100,000 license allocations less than the number recommended by the Game Commission's own Bureau of Wildlife Management to keep the deer herd population at manageable levels.

Adding insult to injury for farmers suffering crop damage was the Game Commission's decision to halt the availability of unsold antlerless deer licenses as bonus tags in many areas of the state. This resulted in over 70,000 antlerless deer licenses going unused last season.

The resulting reduction in the deer harvest has caused "an increasing level of pressure from our members to pursue establishment of a crop damage fund with monies generated through hunting license fees." Rotz testified. "We urge you to return to a more science-based approach in allocating antlerless licenses and have surplus tags available for purchase this year."

In testimony on other topics, Rotz expressed Farm Bureau's strong support for continuation of the Game Commission's "hotspot" deer hunting program.

The program, known officially as the Deer Damage Area Program, allows a hunter with an antlerless license to harvest an antlerless deer on a farm enrolled in the program during the regular antlered or "buck" deer hunting season.

One improvement suggested by Farm Bureau for the program is to have return mailers sent to the past year's hotspot-enrolled farms.

"This would greatly reduce the problem of farmers missing the deadline for enrollment and save the dilemma of trying to reach the regional office through the constantly busy hotline," Rotz explained.

The deer depredation program, which allows out-of-season antlerless deer hunting on farms hit hardest with deer damage, is working well, Rotz told the Commission. While there are not large amounts of deer being taken under either the hotspot or the door depredation program, Rotz said, they are both helpful tools to the farmers enrolled in the programs.

Farm Bureau's Wildlife Damage Control Committee is pursuing the possibility of making farmers eligible for the deer depredation program after only one year in the hotspot program Currently, two consecutive years of hotspot enrollment are required as a prerequisite.

Turning to other matters, Rotz addressed the recommendation presented at the Game Commission hearing by a study committee on special regulation deer hunting areas which permit shotgun-only deer hunting

The committee is proposing that the Game Commission look into expanding the special regulation areas to territory surrounding Pittsburgh and into southeastern Pennsylvania.

Farm Bureau's Wildlife Damage Control Committee will focus on having all appropriate steps taken to properly manage deer populations in the special regulation areas, if they are expanded to address public safety concerns, Rotz said.

Crop damage due to turkeys, particularly in western Pennsylvania, is also a concern to Farm Bureau members, Rotz said. Farm Bureau is recommending the Commission consider lengthening turkey seasons in western Pennsylvania turkey management areas.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a voluntary, statewide organization representing 25,247 farm and rural families.

Interest-Free Loans For Ag Students

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – Interest-free loans are available from the Clifford E. and Melda C. Snyder Loan Fund.

Vocation/technical, undergraduate, and graduate students in an agricultural program or related study and are residents of Hunterdon County a minimum of five years prior to high school graduation.

Final selection will be based upon a written letter of acceptance from an accredited vocational-technical school or school of higher education. In addition, academic records, extracurricular activities, related work experiences, career goals, and a recommendation from a teacher, adviser, employer, or leader of an agricultural activity will determine the loan recipients. Preference will be given to former 4-H and FFA members. All decisions of the loan fund selection committee will be final.

A minimum of $2,000 per year for the length of educational pursuit will be awarded provided a satisfactory academic record is maintained. The number of recipients and the amount of the interest-free money loaned will be determined by the selection committee.

At the end of the educational pursuits, recipients have up to 10 years to pay back the interest-free loan. The payments will be in equal monthly installments.

Additional information and applications can be received by requesting them, in writing, from The Snyder Fund Committee, Hunterdon County Extension Service, 4 Gauntt Place, Route 31, Flemington, N.J. 08822. All applications are due April 15.

NFU Praises Family Farm Safety Net Legislation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) praised the efforts of House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., and other members of Congress for their leadership in introducing legislation to provide a safety net for independent producers.

"The 1996 farm bill gave producers planting flexibility, but it largely ignored their marketing flexibility," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "We are very pleased that this legislation will address that inadequacy."

Gephardt announced in a Capitol Hill news conference that he has introduced the Family Farm Safety Net Act of 1998, which will remove loan rate caps that were frozen under the 1996 farm bill and extend the duration of the loans from their current nine months to 18 months. In addition to Swenson, Gephardt was joined for the introduction of the legislation by Reps. David Minge, D-Minn.; Eva Clayton, D-N.C.; Lane Evans, D-Ill.; and Leonard Boswell, D-Iowa.

The 1996 farm bill was passed when grain prices were the strongest they had been in years, but the prices farmers receive have fallen precipitously since then. As of March 12, 1996, corn prices were $3.77 per bushel, declining to $2.54 per bushel as of March 12, 1998. Similarly, cotton prices have fallen from 79 cents per pound to 65 cents per pound. Wheat has declined from $4.85 per bushel in 1996 to $3.28 per bushel today, and soybeans have fallen from $7.23 per bushel to $6.67 per bushel over the same period.

One hundred and thirty Farmers Union members recently urged Congress to give them the tools to compete in the existing marketplace. "The Gephardt legislation is a significant step forward toward accomplishment of this goal," said NFU Vice President of Government Relations Tom Buis.

Similar legislation, the Agriculture Safety Net Act, has already been introduced in the U.S. Senate.

DelVal Names New Associate Dean

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) – Delaware Valley College has appointed Dr. Kenneth A. Clever associate dean for academic administration, according to Dr. Neil Vincent, dean of the college.

At DelVal, Clever is responsible for directing and providing leadership to scientific and agricultural departments, coordinating agricultural production units, and coordinating the educational activities at the Roth Farm, an agricultural museum located in Montgomery County.

A graduate of Ohio State University with a doctorate in veterinary medicine, Clever joins DelVal from Blue Ridge Community College in Weyers Cave, Va., where he served as division chair of engineering-related technologies, health, mathematics, nursing, and sciences. His extensive background also includes faculty positions at Wilson College in Chambersburg and Morehead State University in Morehead, Ky.

Beyond his teaching experience, Clever was a practicing veterinarian. He holds memberships in several professional associations, including the American Veterinary Medical Association, Blue Ridge Veterinary Medical Association, and the National Academy of Community College Chairs.

Organizations Unite To Sponsor Swatara Creek Greenway Conference

HUMMELSTOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The public is invited to attend a meeting of major significance for the preservation of one of the area's important natural resources, The Swatara Creek Greenway.

On April 21, 7 p.m. at Lower Dauphin Middle School Cafetorium, Hershey Trust Company, The Manada Conservancy, the Conservation Fund, Milton Hershey School and Dauphin County Park and Recreation Department will sponsor the first in a series of public gatherings designed to move the Swatara Creek Greenway from concept to reality.

The featured speaker will be Ed McMahon, a nationally recognized authority on Greenways and director of The Conservation Fund's American Greenway Program.

McMahon will discuss the importance of greenways in general and how the Swatara Creek Greenway in particular would provide environmental educational opportunities, water quality improvements, habitat protection, and other benefits to area residents. The Hershey Trust Company, Trustee for Milton Hershey School, will begin the process of implementing its commitment to preserve a considerable portion of Milton Hershey School Trust land along the Swatara Creek. Goals for this greenway initiative include protection, restoration, environmental education, and public access.

Ed McMahon is a land use planner, attorney, and former president of Scenic America, a national nonprofit organization devoted to protecting America's scenic landscapes. The purpose of the American Greenways Program that he directs is to create a nationwide network of greenways. This network will link natural areas, historic sites, parks and open space providing benefits for conservation, recreation, and economic development while enhancing the quality of life for people of all ages, abilities, and economic means. The American Greenways program works to complement and coordinate the efforts of other public and private organizations.

The Swatara Creek Greenway Conference is open free to the public.

New Policies Clarify Producer Responsibilities For Pork Checkoff

DES MOINES, Iowa — Pork producers involved in farm-to-farm sales of feeder pigs and seedstock who are not yet remitting checkoff funds are asked to begin checkoff remittance between now and July 1.

The National Pork Board has approved a temporary policy that forgives any past checkoff payments or late penalties on producers not yet remitting checkoff. The board believes producers involved in farm-to-farm sales may not have been aware of their checkoff obligations, thus, are not remitting checkoff.

Direct delivery of feeder pigs from one farm to another has increased in recent years. Direct delivery enables producers to purchase feeder pigs with a known health status and genetic quality.

Today's definition of feeder pigs includes weaner pigs or segregated early weaned pigs. In these producer-to-producer transactions, the seller has the responsibility for paying checkoff on the feeder pigs. Buyers of feeder pigs should be certain the seller is taking the responsibility to remit the checkoff, otherwise there is a buyer responsibility to deduct it from the seller's payment and remit it to the Pork Board.

"The National Pork Board, a 15-member producer board, wanted to take a proactive approach to compliance with the checkoff regulations on farm-to-farm sales," said Board President Esther VerMeer of Leighton, Iowa.

"The temporary policy is a way to draw attention to the producer responsibility that we feel has been overlooked. All we want is for producers responsible for payiong checkoff to begin remitting their funds. The checkoff system was intended to include all types of producers and the board is charged with fairly and equitably applying the checkoff system," said VerMeer.

The penalty for not remitting checkoff is $1,000 per infraction and a 1.5 percent per month late fee.

"If a producer is found not remitting checkoff on farm-to-farm sales after July 1, the National Pork Board, under the Pork Act, has the authority to collect up to three years worth of unapid checkoff and penalties," according to Mike Simpson, executive vice president of the National Pork Board. "If records exist and it can be proven, uncollected checkoff going as far back as the beginning of the legislative checkoff may also be collected."

The Pork Board has also approved a policy that clarifies the responsibility of checkoff remittance for pigs received from limited liability corporations, also known as Sub Chapter S corporations. No checkoff is due if a producer receives pigs in the same percent as his/her ownership in the corporation. For example, if a producer receives 20 percent of the feeder pig production from the limited liability corporation of which he owns 20 percent, no checkoff is required. However, if this producer receives more than 20 percent of the feeder pigs, a checkoff remittance is required on the difference of the percent he received and his 20 percent ownership share.

Checkoff is collected at the rate of $.45 per $100 value from all market hogs, feeder pigs and breeding stock produced in the United States, as well as imported hogs and pork products.

If there are questions about the responsibilities of producers or a need for further instructions and forms used for remitting checkoff on farm-to-farm sales, contact the National Pork Board at (800) 456-7675. The e-mail address is ‹porkbd@nppc.org›.

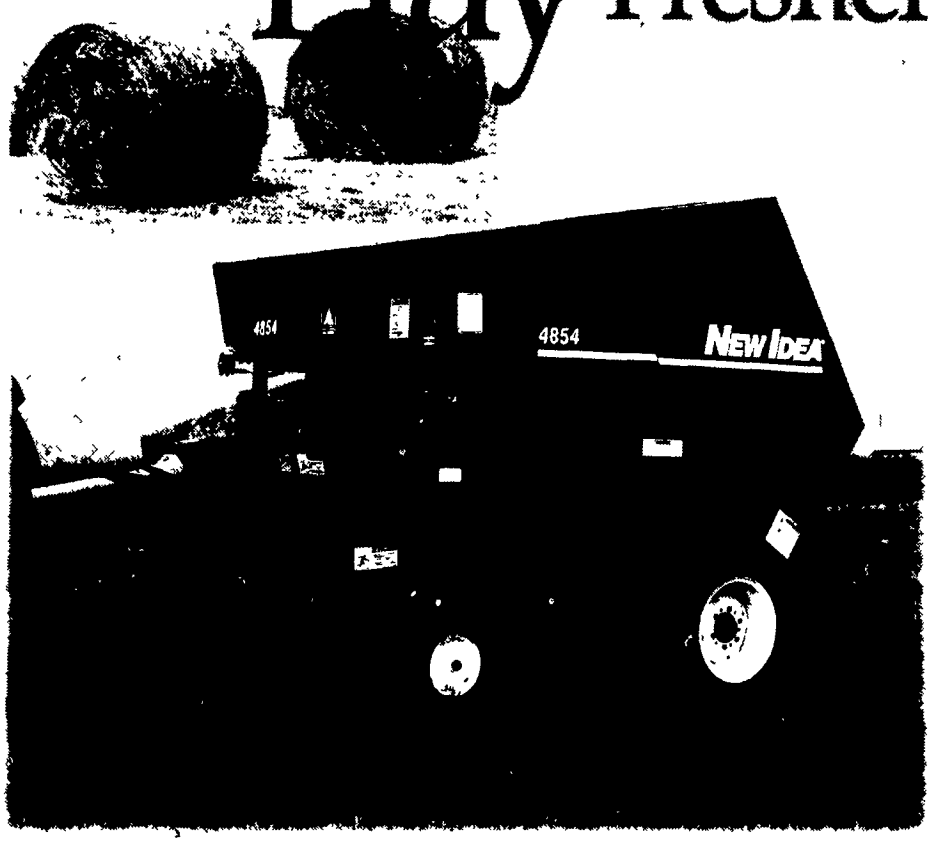
A New Twist Keeps Hay Fresher



Make Bales That Resist Moisture While The Soft Interior Promotes Curing.

The New Idea® 4854 and 4855 fixed-chamber round balers produce bales that retain their quality longer. A soft, star-shaped inner core lets air move through the bale without trapping moisture. And the tight, dense layers create a durable outer shell that helps shed water.

With the 4854 and 4855, you can bale at slightly higher moisture levels and still get optimal Relative Feed Value. An optional hydraulic-drive pickup closely matches the pickup's operating speed and ground speed for maximum crop flow.

To learn how you can produce fresher bales for a price that's easy on your budget, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

2, 3, 4, 6 Row PLANTERS

- Time-proven positive air metering system and edge drop seed discs gently singulate seeds to eliminate wasteful doubles.
- The short 18" seed drop makes seed spacing accurate.
- Consistent seed depth is assured through our independently operating walking beam gauge wheels... adjust in 1/8" increments.
- Low air pressure gently handles fragile seed coat.
- Fewer moving parts reduce maintenance and downtime.

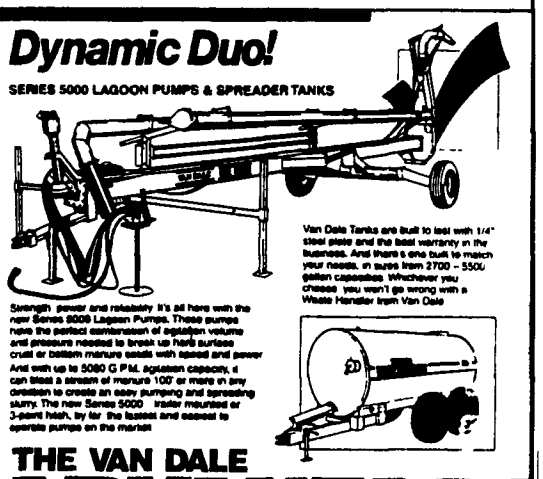
RENT US For Your Lagoon Cleaning

Dynamic Duo!
SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS & SPREADER TANKS



Van Dale Tanks are built to last with 1/4" steel plate and the best warranty in the business. And there's one built to match your needs, in sizes from 2700 - 5500 gallon capacities. Whichever you choose you won't go wrong with a Waste Handler from Van Dale

Strength, power and reliability. It's all here with the new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps. These pumps have the perfect combination of agitation volume and pressure needed to break up hard surface crust or bottom manure solids with speed and power. And with up to 5080 G.P.M. agitation capacity, it can blast a stream of manure 100' or more in any direction to create easy pumping and spreading slurry. The new Series 5000 trailer mounted or 3-point hitch, by far the fastest and easiest to operate pumps on the market.

THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

Your Source For Quality Grain Handling Equipment
A premium quality galvanized auger designed for low maintenance operation.

Mayrath has combined operational efficiency with long term dependability providing you with a high quality, GALVANIZED auger at a very afforadable price. The revolutionary "InLine Drive" system minimizes the number of moving parts .greatly reducing costly downtime and maintenance in the future.
The unique "InLine Drive" design features an internally mounted gearbox inside of an expanded, bell shaped tube housing. Auger flighting is positioned to allow a high volume of unrestricted grain flow around the internal gearbox. A new intake design utilizes double flighting and a cupped intake guard to offer a high capacity, complete cleanout operation. A specially engineered hopper bolts directly to top of the intake guard, further enhancing the augers capacity

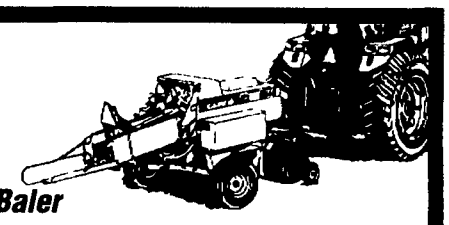
Quality Bales Right From The Start



Case IH 8545 Center-Line Rectangular Baler

A heavy-duty baler with a big appetite
- Pre-packer provides uniform density and consistency throughout bale
- Low-profile pick-up reduces leaf loss
- Hay moves in a straight line from pick-up to discharge for gentler handling
- Consistent bale size and weight for easy transporting

- Mechanical or hydraulic density control available
- Sturdy knotter provides reliable tie bale after bale
- Choice of conventional twine- or wire-tie models
- Along with twine-tie, add a hydraulic bale thrower with electric controls

High-quality balers and a whole lot more! We offer genuine, value-priced Case IH parts, reliable service support, and flexible financing to meet your business needs

CASE CREDIT Bringing people and product together. PRODUCT SUPPORT COMMITTED TO EVERY PART

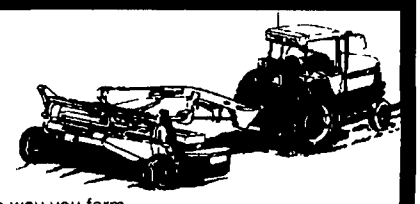
Make Short Work of Big Hay Jobs



Case IH Disc Mower Conditioner

Non-stop cutting for higher productivity
- Clean cut at higher ground speeds
- Faster cutting in dense or tangled crops and over obstacles
- Overhead frame design allows unrestricted crop flow
- Automatic roll separating system eliminates plugging

Fits the way you farm
- 9' side-pull or 12' and 15' center-pivot cutting widths available
- Choice of intermeshing conditioner rolls to match your needs
- Quick-convert from field to transport mode

PICK CORN AND CHOP STALKS

At the Same Time with the Geringhoff Rota Disc Head

The Rota Disc technique allows the corn head to draw the corn plant in quickly through the stripping system not only stripping the plant but cutting the stalk into small pieces and delivering it to the bottom of the row.

Fits all brand combines up to 12 row sizes!

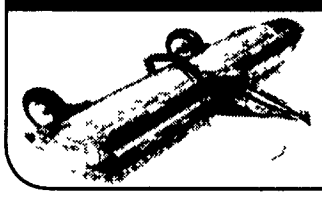
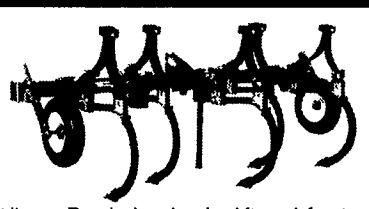
FLAIL SHREDDERS
12 Ft. And 15 Ft.



FLAIL SHREDDERS Heaviest gearbox on the market eliminates the number one cause of downtime. Either cup or side slicer knives. 540 or 1000 RPM.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER - 3-5-7 Shanks



Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue

BRILLION COMMANDER SYSTEM

Versatile tillage tools such as Billion's Soil Commander allows the use of Chisel Shanks or Deep-ripper Shanks to break up soil compaction Front disk gangs and optional rear leveling disks cut residue, breaks clods, level the field and prepare the field to absorb moisture from melting snow and to reduce soil erosion Brillion's Field Commander combined with a Brillion Pulverizer excels at creating the perfect seedbed for spring planting C-Shanks or S-Tine Shanks leave a uniform mixture of soil and surface residue for the most effecient chemical incorporation The X-Fold Pulverizer (shown below) breaks up clods, firms the soil without compacting, eliminates air pockets in the soil and levels the soil for optimal seed placement For less time in the field and better yields, go

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Shearer Tops 1997 NGSP Yield Contest

DES MOINES, Iowa – Robert Shearer of Mount Joy, Pa., was recognized recently as a 1997 National Grain Sorghum Producers Yield Contest winner. The award presentations were made during the 1998 Sorghum Conference in Reno, Nev.

The 12th annual NGSP Yield Contest recognized 103 state winners and 12 national winners in four divisions: conventional dryland, conventional irrigated, no-till dryland, and no-till irrigated.

As a first-time NGSP yield contestant, Shearer placed first in the state conventional dryland division and second in the national contest in this division Pioneer brand 8313 gave him the winning grain sorghum yield of 164 bushels per acre

"I plant Pioneer products because they have done better than any other hybrids I have tired," said Shearer, who plants grain sorghum on about one-third of his acres and also raises corn and hogs.

"Pioneer is proud to recognize Robert Shearer as a yield contest winner," said Linda Wyss, product manager, sorghum and corn feed traits, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. "Since not all fields have the same production capacity, management decisions, including seed selection and irrigation, play a large role in determining grain sorghum yield. We're pleased that our hybrid helped him achieve a winning yield."

The first place winner in the national conventional dryland division went to Kenneth Beaver, Johnson County, Nebraska.

More information on sorghum hybrids and other Pioneer products is available from your local provider of Pioneer brand products or by checking the Pioneer world wide web site: http://www.pioneer.com.

Farm Credit Stages Groundbreaking Ceremony

YORK (York Co.) – In February, York Farm Credit staged a groundbreaking ceremony for its Cumberland Valley office.

This 6,700-square-foot facility, the first building being erected in the Farm Credit Business Center, should be completed in six to eight months, reported Building Commitee Chairman John Cope.

The new Cumberland Valley office will provide lending and financial services to agricultural and rural residents of Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, and Perry counties. These services were previously provided by the Carlisle and Chambersburg branch offices, according to Building Committee member Clifford Hawbaker.

Various York Farm Credit board and advisory council members were present, as well as Franklin & Cumberland County Cooperative Extension agents Phil Wagner and Duane Duncan, respectively. Also in attendance were representatives of Dennis E. Black Engineering, Inc. and Palmer Construction, the firms contracted to design and complete the project. Mark Butterbaugh attended on behalf of State Representative Jeffrey Coy. Franklin County Commissioners Bob Thomas and Warren Elliott also joined the ceremony.

Equipment for the ceremony included a new John Deere tractor provided by Dale Clugston of Clugsto Ag & Turf and an antique Case tractor and plow donated by York Farm Credit Board member Lester Martin.

TS Tractors Grab Attention

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Smart styling in the new TS tractors from New Holland gets your attention, but it's the way they work that you will really appreciate.

Powerful 304-cubic-inch Genesis™ engines produce up to 32 percent torque rise while running at low-rated speeds for durability. Engines are fully "emmissionized" to comply with all regulatory exhaust emission standards.

The three new models come in 70, 80 and 90 PTO HP sizes. Transmission options include 8x2, 12x12, 16x16 Electroshift™, 16x4 and 24x24 Dual Command™. Plus, a 25 MPH top gear option is available for faster road travel. Product manager Paul Trella says these hard workers have, in addition to smooth lugging power, best-in-class turning radius and driver visibility. Deluxe cabs with dual doors, large glass area, air-ride seats and tilt-telescope steering ensure maximum operator comfort to reduce drive fatigue, he notes.

Automatic differential locks are standard on TS tractors equipped with 16x16 and 24x24 transmissions. Hydraulically engaged front differential locks with one-touch control switches for more reliable towing load control at higher ground speeds or in poor traction conditions, are provided for the 12x12, 16x16 and 24x24 drivelines.

Dual open-center gear pumps provide over 18 GPM hydraulic flow, the company says. A single joystick control for ease of operation is standard on all cab units. A separate steering/transmission lube pump has 9.2 GPM flow. Four remotes are available as options. Closed-center 21 GPM systems are also available.

Trella notes that Dynamic Ride Control™, a New Holland exclusive to counteract the "bounce" when transporting heavy 3-point implements, is standard on units equipped with electronic draft control.

Conventional Combine Is 'Made In America'

ATLANTA, Ga. — The last Massey Ferguson® conventional combines manufactured in North America were the MF 850 and MF 860 models. Many are still in use today by U.S. and Canadian farmers who value their reliability and crop-saving performance.

For the past eight years, Massey, Ferguson has marketed conventional combines built by a European manufacturer to MF® specifications. During this period, farmers had requested Massey Ferguson to once again build quality conventional combines in North America to meet their needs.

In July, Massey Ferguson introduced a new conventional combine to MF dealers at its North American Dealer Meeting in Kansas City. The new MF 8680 Conventional Combine, a large Class VI machine designed by company engineers and built at an Agco® plant in the U.S., was enthusiastically reviewed and operated by MF dealers at the meeting.

Tom Draper, Massey Ferguson product marketing manager, summarizing the capability of this new machine, said: "The new MF 8680 incorporates new productive features and technology that will make Massey Ferguson a leader in combine technology as we approach the 21st century."

Features include large centerline cab, productive operating controls, wide, large diameter cylinder, separator conveyor belt, large grain tank at 300-bushel capacity, heavy duty ground drive system, clean burning 260 hp engine, lateral header control, and complete header lineup.

Massey Ferguson's new MF 8680 Class VI Conventional Combine, built at the company's Independence, Mo. plant, incorporates many new productive features including a roomy centerline cab, large diameter cylinder, 300-bushel grain tank, 260-hp Cummins diesel engine, and a complete line of headers.

High-Residue Field Cultivator Added To Product Line

SHELL ROCK, Iowa – Unverferth Manufacturing Company, Inc. announced the addition of the High-Residue Field Cultivator to its Brent® brand line of tillage products The implement is designed from the ground up for maximum residue handling.

Optimum, plug-free performance is assured with an underframe clearance of 25 3/8 inches and five rows, spaced 32 inches apart, of coil-spring or two-piece flex shanks. Shanks are set on six-inch spacings and equipped with seven-inch sweeps. Walking tandem axles with 9.50 x 15 tires on both the base and wings, and front stabilizer wheels with 5.90 x 15 tires, provide exceptional field stability and flotation

The heavy-duty mainframe is 132 inches long and constructed of 1/4-inch thick, 4-inch by 3-inch steel tubing for maximum durability and residue flow Tillage depth is easily adjusted with a single-point hydraulic control and a highly visible incremental depth gauge And leveling the Brent High-Residue Field Cultivator takes only seconds with its innovative hitch design featuring "dial-in" hitch-height adjustment. Parallel lift keeps field cultivator level in raised or lowered position.

Soil-surface leveling options include a four-bar harrow with 7/16-inch by 17-inch coil tines, or single Rolling Harrow® basket with coil-tine leveling bar. Tine angle and down pressure of the four-bar harrow are effortlessly adjusted to match residue conditions with conveniently located, easy-to-turn crank handles. The Rolling Harrow leveler features aggressive sawtooth, angled blades with simple downpressure adjustments.

The Brent High-Residue Field Cultivator is available in working widths from 34 to 22 feet. Additional features include taillights for safer road travel, standard equipment safety chain and combination single-tang/clevis hitch.

Producers Attend Farm Enterprise Workshop

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Forty people took part in an all-day workshop on alternative farm enterprises Saturday, March 14.

The educational workshop highlighted small business development, agritourism, alternative livestock and crops, and setting up food processing business. A half dozen local speakers addressed the audience, including Charlie Bertram of Bethany, who spoke on growing vegetables for local grocery stores; and Grace Hatton of Lord's Valley, who described here goat and sheep operation.

Grant Genzlinger, Hawley, discussed his network of local produce suppliers for his restaurant; Dick Snyder, Milford, outlined how he began breeding llamas; and Robin Peregrim, Clarks Summit, explained how her family has experimented with various direct marketing approaches.

Ed Pruss, Wayne County extension agent, and Frank Higdon, Penn State community development agent, spoke about exploring new opportunities. Duane Stevenson, farm management agent, Northampton County, reviewed business planning and marketing basics.

The event, a collaborative effort between Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Wayne County Conservation District, Pocono Resource and Conservation District, was designed to inform local farmers and landowners of the many opportunities that exist in small-scale food production, processing, and agritourism.

"We want to begin doing a regular series of workshops that help new and established farmers take advantage of niche markets for meat, fruit, vegetables, and processed foods," said Frank Higdon, Penn State community development agent.

Duncan Hilchey, featured speaker from Cornell University, focused his presentation on farm-based recreation businesses, direct marketing, and small-scale food processing enterprises. His presentation covered key management issues and concerns in starting and maintaining a successful agritourism enterprise including marketing, safety, insurance, and profitability.

According to Hilchey, "There are a growing number of farmers who are tapping consumer interest in farm-based recreation and hospitality."

Farm homestays are an enjoyable sideline enterprise for many farm families because hosts enjoy meeting new people, are proud of their homes, and love to cook and entertain in a home-style environment. Likewise, visitors enjoy the intimate and personalized touch of staying with a farm family.

Hilchey also praised Pennsylvania for having one of the highest number of small farms in the nation, and for being number one in the growth of direct marketing produce sales.

"There are over 53 million consumers in the Boston-Washington megalopis who are hungry for products that can be raised on small farms," said Hilchey.

Dairy Of Distinction Program Again Seeks Nice Looking Farms

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) - Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy of Distinction Program of Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program that oversees the Distinction program was first started in 1983 in Pennsylvania to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by the farm.

The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are all areas taken into consideration when a team of judges takes a look at your farm from a roadside point of view. Judging is conducted during the month of May. Award winners are announced during your local June Dairy Month activities.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk.

Applications are available for Pennsylvania dairy farms from Michael O'Conner, 324 Henning Building, Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802. Phone: (814) 863-3913.

For New York State applications are available from Carol Keene, RD 1, Box 31, Gilbertsville, NY 13776. Phone: (607) 783-2169.

For New Jersey applications, send to: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867. Phone: (908) 735-4989.

All applications must be completed and returned to your state secretary by Wednesday, April 15, 1998.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in cooperation with many local agribusiness organizations. The program is conducted with advice and help from Penn State Cooperative Extensi.on.

Dairy of Distinction 1998 Pennsylvania Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to submit an application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 21 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

Dairy of Distinction

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc.

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane) Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming. Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15.

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis. Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer. All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1). The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee.
2). The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer. It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used. Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground. Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign. No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign. Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage.
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises. New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign.
5). Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee.
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense
7). Judges' decisions will be final.
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st
9). Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th. If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

76 Cow Total Ventilation System - Denver, PA
Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!
At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering, Acme products feature such things as.
- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Rivited Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone
- Optional Belt Tightener

"ATTENTION DAIRYMEN"

Sprung Farms of Bergen, NY and J. Elvin Glick of Quarryville, PA have been supplying area dairymen with high quality forages for years, so we would like to introduce a new type of service, "Alfalfa Balage" "Alfalfa Balage" has been around for a time now and has proven to make a great source of feed providing that the farmer gets what he pays for To help resolve this problem we would like to introduce an "on your farm service" which would include fresh baled alfalfa in easy to use 4' or 5' round bales. 1. Delivered immediately after baling, unwrapped for total inspection of quality and pureness of product, 2. After total satisfaction has been determined, a wrapping service by one of our local area farmers would take place at any site desired by buyer, 3. We can also offer two kinds of wrapping service, either single bale, individually or tube type by state of the art new wrappers

Because we are so sure that our product and service is second to none, we can also offer a term type payment schedule with no interest to help spread out puchase to help with cash flow. If this offer interests you please call us to talk more about this and possibly we can arrange a personal meeting.

1. Alfalfa
2. Timothy/Alfalfa
3. Bedding
4. Western Hay

We also have single bale individually wrapped balage available Any size load is available.

The versatile Millcreek Row Mulcher makes different sized mulch beds as you need, from 18" to 48' wide, from 1/2" to 10" deep A mulching program can help you produce a healthier crop while reducing pesticide requirements

From tree fruit to vegetable beds, from bramble crops to vineyards, organic mulch and compost can reduce chemical input for weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and improve soil fertility by adding organic matter to sandy and clay soils

Now Millcreek eliminates the costly labor needed for organic mulch and compost application The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher works with all types of organic material, and even lets you adjust the depth and width of the mulch rows

Starting under $5000, no other machine compares when it comes to capabilities, versatility, and cost effectiveness Rugged construction Five sizes, from 3 4 to 13 cubic yard capacity Custom designs Call today for a free color brochure, or to discuss your specific needs

We deliver peace of mind with every GENESIS™ tractor

NEW HOLLAND

Buying or leasing a GENESIS™ tractor from New Holland is virtually risk-free.

- GUARANTEED trade-in value with no-risk leases
- The best warranty – 3 years, 3,000 hours, no deductible
- The best performance – the best lugging ability, the best fuel economy, the smoothest powershift and more!
- The best dealer service and support

Stop in for a test drive. We deliver peace of mind with every GENESIS™ tractor.

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups
Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range
Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time
The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching
An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available

NEW HOLLAND

- Engines have good lugging ability with 1000 useful rpm's between maximum torque and maximum power
- 14.5 gpm hydraulic flow assures fast implement response
- 3-point lift system, activated by touch control, is best-in class
- Electro-hydraulic differential lock provides maximum traction when needed.
